Ford may get Expo 81 proposal before Yule vacation

By ERIC RUFF
PB Washington Correspondent

White House advisers are working to get the Expo 81 proposal in front of President Ford before he leaves Dec. 19 for his Christmas vacation at Vail, Colo.

A U.S. Commerce Department report and letter from Commerce Secretary Elliott Richardson recommending the project have been in the White House since Nov. 15. Earlier this week a White House press spokesman indicated there was no timetable for the proposal to get to the president.

"We've been in the process of collecting additional information and hope to get the issue before the President prior to his leaving for his Christmas vacation," Allen Moore, member of the White House domestic counsel, said.

Advisers approached still have no idea whether Ford will recommend the world fair project.

"We have no information on whether or how he'll act," Moore said. "The President may take the proposal to Vail or hold off looking at it until after his vacation. I don't think you can draw any conclusions if he doesn't take any action before the 19th."

Ford is expected to return from Vail on Jan. 2. The domestic adviser said White House staff members examining the project initially raised questions pertaining to bond ownership of the Ontario Motor Speedway.

Some 90 per cent of the bonds of OMS are unregistered, therefore bond ownership is almost impossible to determine.

"It's an interesting side question that can't be ignored," Moore said. "We know we're not going to find out who owns those bonds."

He also indicated White House lawyers are examining whether there is adequate financial support by local governments.

"We've discussed the issue with commerce department lawyers and White House counsel will give its assessment before the proposal goes to the President," Moore said.

Ford described a meeting with Richard Pittenger and (Ret.) Gen. Jimmy Doolittle of the Expo 81 Corp. last week as "very brief" and said no new ground was broken.

"They wondered if I knew anything new about the status of the proposal and whether I had any further questions of them," Moore said. "My answers to both questions were essentially no."

Ontarian held in big arms cache

Suspect surrenders, linked to munitions found in desert; more located at home

Nearly two and one-half tons of explosive devices, munitions, machine gun parts, and other illegal ordinance were removed from an Ontario man's home this morning. The man was arrested in connection with the huge store of armaments found in the desert near Lancaster this week.

Donald G. Wiggens, 41, of 1053 E. Main St., Ontario, and the owner of D & E Core Co. in Pomona was arrested by Los Angeles County Sheriff's deputies after turning himself in to Ontario police about 11 p.m. Thursday Wiggens, the object of a Los Angeles County Sheriff's surveillance since the huge arms cache in Lancaster was discovered last Sunday, walked into the Ontario police station and told officers they could find several other large caches of arms and munitions at his Ontario home and at his business, 1649 E. Ninth St. in Pomona.

About the same time Los Angeles Sheriff's investigators learned that Wiggens was the owner of the land on which the bunkers of ammunition were found in the Lancaster area.

Wiggens, according to James Valdez, Los Angeles Sheriff's detective, apparently became "spooked" by television news reports and the sheriff's investigators he learned were watching him and decided to surrender to Ontario police.

Numerous sheriff's detectives, police officers, and members of the Ontario Fire Department bomb squad moved to Wiggens home on Main Street and began searching his garage and digging in the back yard. Within an hour, detectives had uncovered a large amount of ammunition, explosives, machine gun parts, emergency rations, and special machinery believed to have been used to repair weapons and a printing press believed to have been used to make false identification cards, including military identification cards. The arms cache included 75 machine gun barrels, 20 to 30 cases of ammunition, 50-caliber machine gun bullets, a case of hand grenades, 50 pounds of high-explosives, 50 pounds of explosive chemicals, two fully-automatic Sten type machine guns, three mortor mounts, an anti-aircraft gun mount, machine gun parts, blasting caps, survival kits, gun grease and lubricants, cases of other weapon parts, and other items.

After the arms and munitions were loaded into a large truck and brought to the home, the investigators moved to the Pomona foundry owned by Wiggins and found the remainder of the cache.

The Ontario home, owned by Wiggins' father-in-law, Arthur Methe, held much of the cache.

A neighbor of Methe and Wiggins, who did not identify himself, told newsmen that he had heard the suspect and several other persons digging at night around the yard, and said a small truck was used to haul dirt off the property.

The neighbor said there usually were four persons involved in the digging.

In addition, several workers from a company next to Wiggins' foundry reported that there was little activity at the foundry except at night. The workers said a few trucks would usually come to the foundry during the day but little activity had been seen.

Workers at a plant near the foundry were told this morning to stay away from the area in case the arms at the firm exploded.

"I came to work about five-o'clock and the police told me to get the heck out of here," one worker commented shortly after Wiggins was taken away.

"We never had much to do with them," said another. "They were always very secretive and quiet. We'd say 'Hi' or something every once in a while, but they were always a little weird."

"I always kind of thought something strange was going on over there," said another.

As investigators were searching for the rest of cache, Methe told newsmen that his son-in-law had lived in his home for nearly 15 years. He said he knew nothing of the arms cache buried in his backyard. "I didn't know anything about it until this morning," said Methe. Asked if he had ever asked his son-in-law what he was doing at night he replied, "You know a man at my age. I'm in my 60's you know. He doesn't want to ask too many questions."

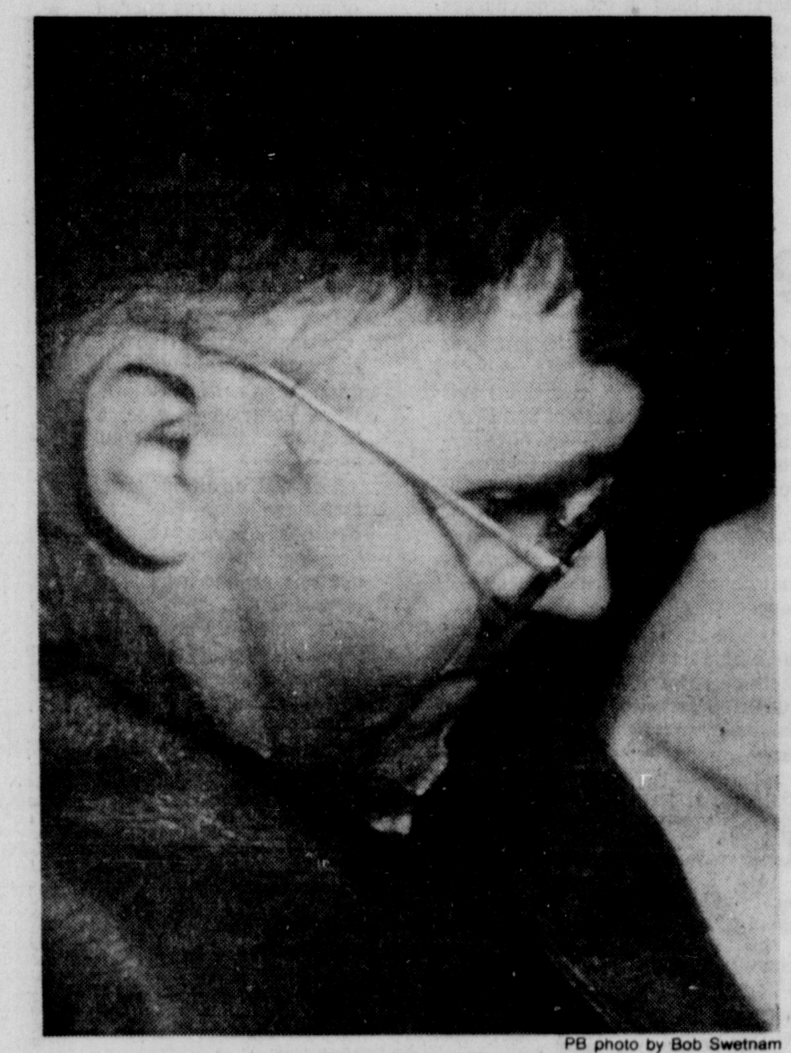

About 6 a.m. as investigators continued to search the Pomona foundry, Wiggens was placed under arrest for investigation of possession of explosive devices, and possession of illegal weapons (machine guns and hand grenades.) Investigators indicated the destination of the confiscated arms and munitions has yet to be determined, but probably will be destroyed as thousands of pounds of other explosives and munitions were destroyed in the desert Thursday.

Detectives said the cannisters of ammunition, guns, and other items will be dusted for fingerprints to be compared to a number of fingerprints lifted from similar items found at the Lancaster sites. Detectives said the equipment and munitions found at the Ontario home, the Pomona business, and the Lancaster bunkers were "very similar."

The mystery that remains to be cleared up by detectives is the motive for the storage of the caches of arms. Detectives wouldn't comment on any such clues to the motive gleaned thus far in the investigation.

Reports that the land was owned by a minister who stored the arms in the event of a predicted government takeover of the U.S. by minority groups and communists, have proven to be questionable.

Detectives explained they had decided to watch Wiggens on Sunday after a check of tax records on the land filed in Los Angeles showed the Antelope Valley property near Lancaster was registered to a Donald Weaver. Further checks revealed that Weaver was an alias used by Wiggens.

SURRENDERS

Donald G. Wiggins, 41, Ontario, surrendered to Ontario police while officers were attempting to obtain a warrant to search his property. Officers said his property, where dozens of guns and quantities of explosives were found, had been under surveillance since Sunday. Ontario officers said Wiggins' surrender was "a complete surprise."

Scientist scraps quake prediction

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A scientist who reluctantly issued a public earthquake forecast for Los Angeles last April has scrapped his prediction, still insisting it was never more than a test.

Dr. James Whitcomb of the California Institute of Technology told fellow earth scientists Thursday that new data gathered in the target area north of Los Angeles no longer fits his hypothesis.

Based on a pattern of changes in the speed of sound waves traveling through the ground, Whitcomb had calculated that a quake of magnitude 5.5 to 6.5 on the Richter scale could strike in an 80-milewide area within a year.

In the past few months, he told the American Geophysical Union, the sound waves in the area have slowed and the prediction theory called dilatancy can't explain it.

"I think the test should be considered over with, with a negative result," said Whitcomb.

Even though he had couched the experimental forecast in the most cautious terms, Whitcomb instantly caused a stir. Some people expressed fear, public agencies cranked up their disaster plans and a city official threatened to sue the scientist for allegedly sending property values plummeting.

$16 million suit against nation's biggest toymaker

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Three consumer groups have filed a $16 million damage suit against Mattel, Inc., the nation's biggest toymaker, claiming the firm victimizes children with deceptive advertising.

"Leaving Mattel free to show its products on television to young children is like leaving the fox to guard the chickens," said the class-action brief filed in Superior Court Thursday.

No Mattel spokesmen were available immediately for comment.

San Francisco-based Public Advocates Inc. filed the suit on behalf of the Non-Profit Committee on Children's Television, the San Francisco Consumer Action Group and the American G.I. Forum of California.

The suit criticizes use of misleading words, deceptive camera angles and settings and audio distortions in the company's advertisements.

Winds arrive, but showers to miss area

Gusty Southland winds have swept the skies clear of clouds and though the winds will continue until Saturday the weatherman has dropped his prediction of showers.

It will be fair throughout the valley through the weekend but Santa Ana conditions are expected in the West End with strong northeasterly winds of 25 to 35 miles an hour.

Daytime temperatures will be in the low 70s. The low during the nights will be about 40 degrees.

Student held in double slaying

RIVERSIDE (AP) — A University of California at Berkeley student despondent of pressures at school has been charged in the killings of the daughter of a Riverside County official and the son of a Hayward banker.

Booked in the killings Thursday was Larry O. Johnson, 29.

Police said Jackie Lynne Higdon, 21, a student at UC Riverside, and Robert Mitsutomie, 23, of Hayward, were each shot several times in the head at her Riverside apartment.

Police said the two apparently were talking in the living room early Thursday morning when they were shot. No motive has been established.

Miss Higdon's roommate, Marcia Douglass, a Riverside City College student, said she was awakened by the shots, and then Johnson walked into her room carrying a handgun.

She said she feared he would kill her, but convinced him to put the gun down and called police.

Weather

Fair through the weekend with gusty winds in the West End. High today 70, low tonight 40, high Saturday 75. The high Thursday was 68, and the overnight low was 38. Saturday's sunrise 6:46, sunset 4:42.

PATTY AND HER BODYGUARDS

Patty Hearst is accompanied by her lawyer (behind her) and several bodyguards as she leaves court in Los Angeles Thursday after a brief appearance. She's been free on bail since Nov. 19. Her Los Angeles trial — on kidnaping and robbery charges — will begin April 4.

Moonlighting ban placed on physicians

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A ban on moonlighting by state-employed physicians has been imposed, nearly a year after Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. ordered an investigation of state doctor's outside work.

Ironically, rules against unauthorized private practice by fulltime state doctors were written in 1973, but nobody bothered to tell physicians about it or enforce it, according to an attorney general's report.

The Little Hoover Commission reported physician's moonlighting habits to the governor last December, but doctors continued to moonlight without permission this year, Health Department spokesman Bob Nance said Thursday.

Dr. Jerome Lackner, state health director, issued a revised conflict of interest statement proposal this week that would bar all such work by fulltime employes without written department approval.

He acted after the attorney general's office reported back to the governor that $1.74 million in outside income was made by about 200 state-employed doctors ring 1974 and 1975.

Some isolated cases involving "potentially serious violations of conflict of interest" going "beyond simple treatment of Medi-Cal patients" were found in the audit, the attorney general's report said.

They "involve the use of state facilities by department employes in the course of their private practice, wide-scale treatment of recently discharged hospital patients without authorization, and excessive billings for Medi-Cal services ... on dates when the employe" was on the full-time state payroll.

Nance said about 200 doctors were involved in 1974 and 1975, and two-year earnings for outside work ranged from $12.50 up to $93,000.

Doctors at Napa State Hospital augmented their $30,000-$40,000 annual state salaries by a total of $441,000 in the two-year period, Nance said.

None of the doctors' names can be released, he said.

Patty Hearst's trial postponed to April 4

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Patricia Hearst, hustled in and out of Los Angeles under armed guard, has won a postponement of her next trial to April 4, but her attorneys say she will testify in other courtrooms next month.

Some of those court appearances as a witness for the prosecution are likely to be secret, held behind closed doors of grand jury rooms.

Al Johnson, the attorney who brought Miss Hearst to Los Angeles Thursday with a team of private bodyguards, said she will be a witness in "several jurisdictions" in January. He declined to name dates and places, saying only that she would testify for both the state and federal governments.

Johnson also said Miss Hearst will be a key witness against William and Emily Harris at their trial next spring. They are charged with kidnaping the heiress on Feb. 4, 1974.

Miss Hearst has been mentioned as a potential witness for grand jury investigations of her onetime underground acquaintences at San Francisco, Sacramento and Harrisburg, Pa.

The 22-year-old woman was surrounded by six burly guards in the courtroom of Superior Court Judge William Ritzi.

Johnson has said Miss Hearst fears she will be harmed by former underground associates she has denounced.

After Thursday's hearing, Miss Hearst and her guards returned to her parents' San Francisco apartment on exclusive Nob Hill. She has been in seclusion there since her release Nov. 19.

Miss Hearst is free on $1.25 million bail posted by her parents, Randolph and Catherine Hearst, pending appeal of her San Francisco federal bank robbery conviction. She has been sentenced to seven years in prison.

Her Los Angeles trial involves charges of kidnaping, robbery and assault stemming from a May 16, 1974 shooting at a suburban Inglewood sporting goods store. The Harrises, tried on the same charges last summer, were convicted of kidnaping and robbery but were acquitted of six assaults credited to Miss Hearst.

Fun house dummy was real corpse

LOS ANGELES (AP)— What appeared to be a fun house dummy, hanging from a noose and painted to shine in the dark, has turned out to be the corpse of a man who was gunned down at the turn of the century, officials say.

The ghoulish tale unfolded Thursday after the corpse was discovered during the filming of the telvision show, "The Six Million Dollar Man." The corpse was hanging in the fun house of an amusement park, where a scene for an upcoming episode of the series was being filmed.

A technician tried to move the mummy Wednesday and an arm came off. When he tried to glue it back on, he saw human bones.

Long Beach police turned the mummy over to the Los Angeles County Coroner to determine how old it was and where it came from.

The coroner's investigation determined that the "dummy" was indeed the mummified corpse of a human being.

State news briefs

Tunney will resign as senator early

SACRAMENTO (AP) — U.S. Sen. John Tunney says he will resign a day before his term ends to give Republican S.I. Hayakawa added Senate senority.

The California Democrat, who was defeated by Hayakawa Nov. 2, sent a letter to Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. informing him that he will resign Jan. 1 and asking Brown to appoint Hayakawa to finish out his term.

Gray Davis, Brown's chief adviser, said Thursday that Brown will comply with Tunney's request, and that Brown also hopes to meet with Hayakawa sometime in the next three weeks.

Wendy's trial

OAKLAND (AP) — A state fingerprint expert has testified that Wendy Yoshimura's fingerprints were found on revolutionary literature confiscated from a garage that Berkeley police had called "a bomb factory."

Spiro Vasos, a staff expert with the state Department of Justice, said at Miss Yoshimura's weapons trial Thursday that he lifted at least one print of the defendant's from each of three booklets found in the garage.

Defense attorney James Larson alluded to the material in his opening statement at the beginning of the trial, saying the prints do not mean she was in the garage nor that she had read the booklets.

Two shows cut

LOS ANGELES (AP) — In a complicated schedule shuffle, ABC has dropped two low-rated comedies and scheduled six new midseason shows, of which two will be on the air for only about a month.

Depating are the "Holmes and Yoyo" and "Nancy Walker" comedies, which respectively will end Saturday and on Dec. 23, ABC said Thursday in announcing its midseason evening program schedule.

But Miss Walker, who played a talent agent in her ill-fated new series, will return in late January in "Mrs. Blansky's Beauties," cast as what ABC calls a "den mother" to 12 Las Vegas showgirls.

Accident kills 2

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A fatal case of bad timing caused an underground steel cable that hauls the city's famed cable cars to move, crushing two maintenance workers to death, officials say.

Robert Rockwell, public information director for the Municipal Railway, said an investigation into Thursday's tragedy would be conducted but it appeared the workers were in the shaft earlier than they were suppose to be.

Leoni De Vost, 55, and Daniel Sullivan, 40, both maintenance machinists, were killed when the cable turned two underground wheels, each about 10 feet in diameter, and the men were pulled to their deaths.

Cab suit filed

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The authority of the city to set taxicab fares and grant exclusive cab stands is being challenged by Dist. Atty. Joseph Freitas.

Freitas and Ray Bonner, head of Consumer Fraud-White Collar Crime unit, announced Thursday the filing of a lawsuit claiming the practices violate antitrust laws.

Named in the Superior Court suit are the city and county of San Francisco, the governing Board of Supervisors, Yellow Cab Co. and its parent company, Westgate California Corp.

The suit also challenges Yellow Cab's exclusive right to the lucrative airport market and cab stands at major hotels, granted them by the supervisors.

At a news conference, Freitas said the action has no bearing on the recent shutdown of Yellow Cab operations in the city, as well as in Oakland, San Jose, Los Angeles, San Diego and Oceanside.

Flu shots for Spanish-speaking residents in area are available

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

Spanish-speaking people are urged to attend a free flu shot clinic Saturday from noon to 4 p.m. at Sacred Heart Catholic Church, 1263 S. Hamilton Blvd., Pomona.

Abel Martinez, information officer for the Pomona Health Center, says the clinic will be staffed with volunteers who are bilingual and can assist with the registration forms and general information.

A clinic is also scheduled Saturday at the La Verne Community Building, 1550 Bonita Ave., from noon to 4 p.m.

In the Chino area, a Monday clinic from 3 to 8 p.m. at the Chino Library, 13180 Central Ave., will also have bilingual volunteers to assist the public.

The last general clinic for flu immunizations in the Los Angeles County region served by the Pomona Health Center will be held Tuesday at Mt. San Antonio College's Student Center, 1100 N. Grand Ave., Walnut, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. and 6 to 8 p.m.

The West End Health Center, 1020 W. Sixth St., Ontario, will conduct a public clinic tonight and on Dec. 17 from 1 to 7 p.m.

The West End Health Center will continue to offer free flu immunizations every Thursday from 8:30 a.m. to noon and Friday from 1 to 4 p.m. through the end of the year.

The Chino Health Center, 13260 Central Ave., will continue its immunization program from 8 a.m. to noon, Monday through Friday.

All persons 18 years of age and over, including senior citizens, may receive the immunizations at the community clinics. It has now been recommended that persons from 18 to 24 receive a booster shot, with a four-week waiting period between the two shots.

Both types of vaccine, the monovalent which is A/New Jersey (swine) strain and the bivalent which is the swine and A/Victoria strain, are available at all clinics. The bivalent is for persons who are 45 years old or older and those persons over 18 who are considered high risk due to an illness.

While many of the clinics were poorly attended at first, community participation has climbed steadily, health officials report.

San Bernardino County clinics are now being staffed primarily with health department personnel although hundreds of volunteers participated in the first programs during October when senior citizens were immunized. To date, more than 75,000 people in San Bernardino County have received free flu shots.

Almost 3,000 volunteers have been assisting in the community clinics in the San Gabriel Health Services Region since the program began, according to Miss Mary Lou Ginther, regional coordinator of volunteers.

Red Cross chapters have assumed the task of recruiting and assigning up to 20 volunteers per clinic in this gigantic effort to immunize the public against influenza.

Nonmedical volunteers assist as screeners, arm-swabbers, traffic controllers and tally clerks. Approximately 500 nurses and health care professionals are working in the clinics. Local Red Cross coordinators for the program are Mrs. Joan Santoro, Claremont, and Mrs. Sue Cody, Pomona.

Only one in five have gotten shots

BERKELEY (AP) — Less than one in five California adults have received swine flu vaccinations, the state Health Department reports.

The total is 2.5 million or 16.8 per cent of the state's adult population, the department's information officer, Pauline Bondonno, said Thursday.

The percentage is even lower in the San Francisco and Los Angeles areas. Innoculations have been so low in minority and inner city areas that the department plans a special campaign directed at those areas before all swine flu clinics close by the end of the month.

A bivalent vaccine which protects against both swine flu and A-Victoria flu currently is available only to persons over 45 or persons with chronic disease, because the vaccine is in short supply, she said. More than 2,000 Californians died last year of A-Victoria flu, she said.

United to offer additional flights out of Ontario Airport

United Airlines will increase its service at Ontario International Airport next summer with nonstop service to Hawaii and a low cost night coach flight to Midwest and East.

Ells Perry, regional vice president, said the new flights will begin June 10.

"We at United are pleased to be the first carrier to bring nonstop flights between the growing West End and Hawaii," said Perry.

"United offers the largest schedule to the Islands of any carrier. The new flight at Ontario is part of our 1977 summer schedule that will include new services from Oakland and San Jose as well as expanded services at San Francisco and Chicago. It's a 24 per cent increase in seats between the mainland and the islands."

The daily service between Ontario and Honolulu will be flown in DC-8 jets. The flight will depart Ontario at 10:20 a.m. for arrival in Hawaii at 1 p.m. Return service will leave Honolulu at noon and land at Ontario at 8:10 p.m.

All flights will feature coach and economy service with first run motion pictures, audio entertainment and United's Hawaiian food services.

In the first 10 months of 1976, United carried between the mainland and Hawaii 1.4 million passengers on scheduled flights, up 13.6 per cent from 1975, and 168,116 on charter flights up 33.1 per cent from 1975. The carrier expects to carry 2.1 million passengers in 1977.

United's first direct nonstop night coach service to Chicago and points in the Midwest and East will be flown in three-engine Boeing 727s. Night coach offers a 15 per cent reduction in the regular coach fare. The flight will leave nightly at 12:30 a.m. for arrival at Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, where there will be connecting flights to most major cities in the Midwest and East.

Ford summons party leaders to reunify

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford wants to join a high command that would aim to unify the Republican party and drive toward a 1980 GOP victory.

He summoned the reigning factional leaders of the GOP to a White House summit Thursday and got them to agree to a party superstructure in which all would take part.

"We are not kingmakers," Ford said after meeting with Ronald Reagan, John B. Connally and Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller.

For that reason, Ford said, they had agreed to "not pick or choose" the party's next national chairman, a selection the Republican National Committee will make Jan. 14-15.

The high command the President envisions would be similar to the one formed after the Republican party was drubbed in the 1964 election when Barry Goldwater was the GOP's presidential candidate. Ford called it a coordinating committee.

"I think it would be constructive to have all four of the group that met this afternoon on the (coordinating) committee, but they would not necessarily dominate the committee," the President said. "In 1965 there were roughly 30 members, so I think the four of us could contribute to the work...."

Ford also said, "I think the Republican tent is big enough, broad enough, to encompass the four individuals who met here this afternoon."

Ford said that when the foursome meets again it will draft "some recommendation to the new national chairman as to the format or the organization" of the coordinating committee. He gave no further details of how the group would work or what relationship it would have to the Republican National Committee.

The President was asked whether he would seek to head the high command. "I wouldn't want to pre-empt any position at the present time," he said. "I want to be a participant."

Reagan, who left the meeting before the others, said he preferred a "technician" for the chairmanship over a nationally famous spokesman.

"I think what we need there is a man who knows party organization from the ground up," Reagan said. And he seemed to exclude Connally too, saying, "Neither he nor anyone else in that room is interested in or eligible for the job.

With Ford and Rockefeller at his side in the White House briefing room, Connally said he would want the public endorsement of those two men and be allowed to take the job on a part-time basis, "which flies in the face of the rules that now exist."

'In a recession already'?

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter is getting nearly unanimous advice from his staff, big business and organized labor that tax breaks are needed to boost the economy.

But Thomas P. "Tip" O'Neill, who will be House speaker in the new Congress, was more cautious after a leadership meeting with Carter today. He said no tax-cut decision should be made before consumer spending over the next 60 days, including Christmas, can be analyzed.

O'Neill said 60 per cent of the money from the nation's last tax cut "went into the banks of America," where it did little to stimulate the economy. He said the leadership meeting with the President-elect centered on "moving the economy of this nation."

The leadership meeting preceded Carter sessions with the 250 members of the House Democratic Caucus and with a group of 25 senators, including freshmen. Later in the day, Carter concludes a 48-hour Washington visit with a Pentagon briefing. He returns to his home in Plains, Ga., in late afternoon.

Rep. John Conyers, D-Mich., was asked after he left the caucus meeting what a Carter administration bodes for blacks.

"Well, it better bode a hell of a lot better economic situation than we've had for the last eight years or we have been ripped off politically," he replied.

Conyers said a tax cut does little for the long-term unemployed, who need job opportunities. But he said Carter has not foreclosed means other than a tax cut to provide economic stimulus.

A participant in the House leadership meeting, who asked not to be identified, said Carter emphasized that he wants Congress to approve an economic package including public works jobs along with a possible tax cut. The participant said the leadership told Carter committees will organize Jan. 5 and that they would like direction from the President-elect before then.

Carter agreed to meet with the leaders again before Congress organizes in January, the participant said.

The President-elect conferred Thursday with 15 business leaders who gave him a plan to reduce taxes and boost jobs.

The plan called for a $15-billion tax cut, a $3-billion increase in the investment tax credit and a $5-billion program to create jobs primarily among youth, welfare recipients and the long-term unemployed.

Reginald Jones, chairman of General Electric Co., who spoke for the group of corporate executives, and Thomas B. Lance, Carter's choice for budget director, later said the President-elect observed that the plan was similar to one suggested by Carter's staff.

The executives' tax plan would reduce taxes for persons earning less than $20,000 by an average of 19 per cent. Seventy-two per cent of the tax cut would go to such persons.

Jones said the proposal was designed to restore to taxpayers the money they lost due to inflation-related increases in taxes since 1972.

Lance told reporters that "from the standpoint of real growth and unemployment, we're in a recession already." He indicated that the seriousness of the economic situation would require quick action by Carter after he takes the oath of office Jan. 20.

Another form of tax relief was recommended Thursday by Leonard Woodcock, president of the United Auto Workers. After a separate meeting with Carter, Woodcock said he favored a tax rebate because "it can be done quickly" and would have "an immediate effect." A tax cut would be strung out over a period of many months.

The tax issue was only one in a series reviewed by the President-elect in meetings that stretched over nearly 15 hours. Staff members, potential Cabinet members, advisers, Vice-President-elect Walter F. Mondale, Woodcock and the businessmen paraded in and out of Blair House, the government's guest house across from the White House.

The 15 business executives who met with Carter for more than an hour were reassured by Carter's attitudes, according to Irving Shapiro, chairman of the E.I. du Pont de Nemours Co.

Henry Ford, chairman of the Ford Motor Co., agreed, saying, "I think they're becoming more reassured every day."

The jobs program advanced by the executives would include $1.6 billion for an urban youth corps to provide 200,000 jobs; $2.1 billion to create 200,000 public service jobs; and $1 billion for an industrial "hire and train" program for unemployed youth and welfare recipients.

The tax investment credit, which the businessmen want boosted by $3 billion, is designed to increase business spending on plant expansion.

Israel gets F15 fighters from U.S.

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — Israel has begun receiving American F15 fighters, setting it back on the road toward air superiority over the Arab states.

The highly advanced McDonnell-Douglas jet will replace the American Phantom as Israel's front-line plane.

A military spokesman said today the first shipment of 25 planes has begun arriving. The total number Israel is to receive has not been disclosed publicly.

The Israeli television service's authoritative military correspondent said the F15, plus the Israeli-made Kfir fighter and the American F16, which Israel hopes to assemble here, will "restore Israel's air superiority over the Arab states."

The announcement of the arrival of the $24-million F15s boosted the morale of the Israeli public following a stream of reports of multibillion-dollar American arms sales to Saudi Arabia.

Breaking with past practice, the government publicized the arrival of the new planes and said it would hold an inauguration ceremony for the aircraft to be attended by Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin.

This was a sharp contrast to the secrecy that surrounded the arrival of the first Phantoms in the late 1960s.

Parcel service to start Monday

GREENWICH, Conn. (AP) — United Parcel Service will begin accepting packages Monday in the 15 Eastern states, the company said today. The Teamsters Union ended an 84-day strike against the firm Thursday.

UPS officials said the 17,000 strikers will return to work Monday. Packages will be accepted within the 15-state area for delivery anywhere beginning that day.

'Shorty' presidents making comeback; it could be encouraging

NEW YORK (AP) — Another prejudice bit the dust with the election of Jimmy Carter over Gerald Ford, says an employment specialist who predicts the effects should be felt "shortly."

For those who hadn't noticed, the President-elect, at 5 feet, 9½ inches, is more than three inches shorter than the man he defeated. That makes Carter only the second candidate in this century to beat a taller opponent in U.S. presidential campaigns, said Robert Half, president of a nationwide chain of personnel agencies.

Half said that's encouraging news for millions of Americans who are victims of society's negative attitudes toward shorter people.

"There is, unfortunately, hard evidence to substantiate the charge that a person's lack of physical stature is far too often interpreted to mean that he or she is also lacking in such meaningful qualities as character, personality and skill," Half said.

Half, who himself stands 5-feet-10, said a study of University of Pittsburgh graduates revealed that men 6-feet-2 or taller received starting salaries 12.4 per cent higher than equally qualified men who stood six feet or less. Shorter women also, he said, were earned less than their taller counterparts.

"The short are sometimes stereotyped as being feisty, stubborn, cocky and overly aggressive," Half said. He added that to be short and successful invariably means being labeled as possessing a "Napoleon complex."

He said he hoped Carter's victory will reflect "a change in the way we evaluate and choose our national leaders."

The other presidential candidate to defeat taller opposition in this century was 5-foot-11½ Richard Nixon over 6-foot-1 George McGovern in 1972, Half said.

New trial for Manson follower

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Charles Manson follower Leslie Van Houten will get a new murder trial, but her leader's conviction and life sentence will stand, the California Supreme Court says.

The court agreed 4 to 3 Thursday with a lower court ruling that Miss Van Houten, now 27 and the youngest of three women tried with Manson, was denied effective legal counsel because her attorney vanished before closing arguments were held. She was sentenced to life in prison after being convicted on two counts of murder and conspiracy.

In Los Angeles, a prosecutor who assisted in the original trial in 1970-71 said a new trial for Miss Van Houten could begin within two months. California's speedy trial law gives a defendant the right to go to trial within 60 days after a reversal is affirmed.

Stephen Kay said he has been preparing for a new trial since the Court of Appeals action in August.

The high court was unanimous in upholding Manson's conviction.

Manson, 43, had claimed that publicity about the murders made it impossible for him to get a fair trial. He also challenged the validity of grand jury proceedings and claimed that out-of-court statements made by codefendants were prejudicial to his case.

The appeals court ruled that publicity about the case was not "such as to raise presumption of prejudice."

Spotlight on area crime

Salesman held in molest-kidnaping

A Pasadena sales representative has been charged with kidnaping, child molesting and attempted rape in connection with offenses against two teenage girls in the Hacienda Heights area last month.

The suspect, Peter Garretson Tolles, 30, was arrested by Industry sheriff's deputies who said a personalized license plate, composite pictures prepared by the victims and records from the state bureau of Criminal Investigation and Information led them to him.

Lt. Ray Schartau of the Industry station said that the victims were with two other girls near the Pomona Freeway at Kwiss Avenue Nov. 13 when a man identifying himself as a police officer approached and said two of them resembled hitchhikers who had been attacking drivers who picked them up earlier. He had what appeared to be a police radio in his car and pretended to obtain information over the radio indicating that the two girls were wanted.

He told the two girls they would have to go with him and eventually took them to a deadend street where the attacks took place. He later released them.

The investigation which had continued since the incident occurred resulted in Tolles' arrest Wednesday. He was to be arraigned later in Pomona Municipal Court.

Pizza parlor robbed

A man armed with a small pistol robbed a Claremont pizza parlor late Thursday night.

The gunman entered Graziano's Pizza at 821 W. Foothill Blvd. and threatend two teenage employes with the weapon. They surrendered the money from the cash register before the man forced them into the rear of the place and fled.

Woman, child kidnaped

A 19-year-old Pomona woman told police early today that a man forced her into his car with her 1-year-old child and molested her as he drove to West Covina where she escaped.

The victim said she was forced into the car at the northwest corner of Garey and La Verne avenues shortly after 1 a.m. She said the man threatened her with a pistol.

As the driver reached the Vincent Avenue off-ramp of the San Bernardino Freeway the woman said she suddenly opened a door and he slammed on the brakes as she leaped out with her child. She said she heard two shots so she fled across the center divider where she stayed until found there by a highway patrolman from the Baldwin Park station.

The victim was taken to Queen of the Valley Hospital where she was treated for abrasions, and released. The child was unhurt.

West Point Chief to be reassigned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The commandant of scandal-scarred West Point told cadets today he is being reassigned early next year to a base in Texas.

At the same time, a spokesman at the U.S. Military Academy disclosed that cadets narrowly rejected a proposal to abolish the mandatory expulsion rule for West Point honor code violators. It was the second vote this year on honor code changes stemming from a cheating scandal at the institution.

Tax cut, only if can't get jobs legislation

Employment is Carter solution—Lloyd

In a one-hour meeting in Washington today with Rep. Jim Lloyd, D-35th Dist., President-elect Jimmy Carter said he would push for a tax cut equal to the inflationary erosion of salaries only if Congress was unwilling to approve employment legislation.

"Mr. Carter told me that he sees rising employment as the solution for our ailing national tax base," Lloyd said. "If Congress was unwilling to approve jobs bills, the President-elect said he would then recommend the tax cut to offset the inflationary erosion of salaries."

Lloyd said that Carter also stressed the need to streamline the federal bureaucracy.

"Mr. Carter said he would support legislation along the lines of bills I sponsored in the 94th Congress, such as the Sunset Bill to abolish unnecessary federal agencies, the Zero-Base budgeting bill and a bill to give Congress the authority to veto questionable rulings handed down by regulatory agencies," Lloyd said.

"We must clean up government," Carter told Lloyd.

The President-elect said he would also ask Congress to give him the authority granted to the Administration in 1971 that would allow him to clean up the Bureaucracy and amend legislation to insure corrective action.

"Mr. Carter also said he would be willing to meet with me or any member of Congress on two or three hours notice and that he planned to meet the Congress more than half way," Lloyd said.

Lloyd said Carter also expressed interest in starting a CCC program.

Lloyd's district includes Pomona, Claremont, La Verne, Walnut, Ontario, Montclair, Upland and Chino.

What's going on around here

Folk dance workshop

The Claremont Recreation Department and the University of California at Riverside folk dance club are sponsoring a folk dance workshop and party Saturday at 7:30 p.m. at the Youth Activity Center, 1717 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

Featured instructor will be Dick Crum, a Balkan dance teacher. Crum has researched Balkan dances in their native villages and directs the Tamburtzen performing group.

Admission will be $1. Further information may be obtained by phoning 624-4531, extension 273.

Candlelight vigil

The fifth annual candlelight vigil, honoring servicemen who remain unaccounted for in the war in Indochina, will be held Sunday at 3 p.m. in the chapel at the Los Alamitos Naval Air Station.

Col. Ray Schrump, returned prisoner of war who spoke on the POW/MIA issue at the Republican National Convention, will participate.

Small business seminar

A special seminar in managing small businesses will be offered by the Pomona Chamber of Commerce on Thursday.

Subject of the seminar, led by Melvin Brady, professor of marketing at Cerritos College, will be "Managing for Profit."

It will be held at 7 p.m. in the Chamber office at 100 Pomona Mall West.

For information, persons may call 622-1256.

La Verne council interviews

The La Verne City Council will interview candidates Monday night for the position left vacant by the death of Planning Commissioner Frank Day in October.

The interviews start at 7 p.m. and by law are open to the public. Mayor Mike M. Morales said five aspirants have applied for the nonpaying post so far.

Choking aid lecture

How to help anyone choking in a restaurant will be explained during a lecture sponsored by the Claremont Junior Woman's Club and the American Red Cross Monday at 7:30 p.m. at the chapter headquarters, 2065 N. Indian Hill Blvd.

First aid chairman Larry Coehn will demonstrate the most effective method for clearing obstructed airways.

Restaurant personnel and the general public is urged to attend to learn the lifesaving techniques.

Upland C of C holiday mixer

The Upland Chamber of Commerce will sponsor a holiday mixer on Wednesday from 5:30 to 7:30 p.m. at Futurus, Inc.

Mary Ann Kruse will be the hostess for the community mixer at 1333 W. Ninth St., Upland. Refreshments will be served and music is planned.

Reservations may be made with the Community Mixer Committee, Box 1369, Upland.

Genealogical Society meeting

A program on Christmas practices around the world will be presented at a meeting of the Pomona Valley Genealogical Society Monday at 7:30 p.m. in the conference room of the Pomona library.

Finnish Christmas carols will be provided by Anicia Caulfield, a student at Cal Poly Pomona who studied in Finland as an Exchange Student.

Naomi Harnagel will describe German and Czechoslavakian customs. Violet Smith will talk about Swedish traditions. Ali Montes will describe Christmas in Spain and Mexico. Jamie Gunther will tell of Christmas in Scotland.

The meeting is open to the public.

Chinoan appointed to commission

David Strona of Chino has been appointed by Supervisor Robert Townsend to serve on the San Bernardino County Senior Affairs Commission.

Strona is employed by Rockwell Industries and teaches pre-retirement preparedness.

Townsend noted that Strona has long been involved with programs related to the aging process and is well-qualified to serve on the commission.

The commission is an 11-member advisory body which makes recommendations to the Board of Supervisors and the Office of Aging on programs and legislation affecting senior citizens.

No extra day off for county employes

Because Christmas and New Year fall on Saturdays this season, Los Angeles County employes will not get extra days off this year.

The Board of Supervisors reaffirmed that position this week, denying requests by the employes for extra days off immediately before or after the two holidays.

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn estimated that by denying the additional days off with pay for the county's 85,000 employes taxpayers will save about $11.5 million.

"Anytime I can save that much money, I'll gladly be a Scrooge," Hahn said.

Intergroup directed to refocus attention on parent involvement

By DAN NIEBRUGGE
PB Staff Writer

Supt. Charles Carpenter has recommended to the Pomona school board that the office of Intergroup be directed to refocus its activities toward greater parental involvement in the district's schools.

The recommendation came following the completion of a report detailing Intergroup's activities over the past year which had been requested some weeks ago by trustee C. Allen Braswell. Braswell had hinted at the possible elimination of Intergroup at that time, but joined with fellow trustees Tuesday evening in approving the superintendent's recommendation.

Intergroup has been a community relations-oriented office in the administration set up in the late 1960s to deal with the problems of racial unrest and ethnic conflict then prominent in the district. In recent years, Intergroup's role had come to include assisting in the development of ethnic curriculum and assistance in selection of minority administrators.

Throughout the period since Braswell requested the report, Intergroup had been staunchly defended at board meetings by members of the community closely associated with the office. Supporters of the office had claimed that though a lull existed in racial strife at this time, the importance of Intergroup as a stop gap measure should not be negated.

Carpenter recommended that Intergroup "develop specific parent involvement activities at the schools and see how parents can become more involved in student success at the schools."

Carpenter said he would have a progress report on the change in Intergroup's activities by April 1.

Board President Mary Montes called Carpenter's recommendation "appropriate" saying that the office already enjoyed strong ties to the community. She said she hoped Intergroup would be elevated to a cabinet level position with its own director.

Carpenter said he wasn't sure where Intergroup belongs in the administration but that he would meet with the board, the staff and members of the community to make that determination.

Carpenter said the staff could prepare a new outline of the office's duties within the next five working days. The board voted unanimously to support the recommendation.

PVT. GILBERT MAGALLANEZ, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Magallanez, 1551 W. La Deney Drive, Ontario, has completed combat engineer training at Ft. Leonard Wood, Mo., and has been transferred to Ft. Polk, La. A Former student at Chaffey High School, Magallanez enlisted for six years.

Supervisors are asking for property tax reforms

Property tax reforms that would cut the burden on home owners in half is being asked by the Los Angeles County Board of Supervisors.

The board passed a resolution this week urging the Assembly and Senate to make tax reforms its top priority next year.

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, who introduced the resolution, contends that if the state increases home owner exemptions, removes welfare from property taxes, and finds a different way of financing education, the tax rate can be cut by 50 per cent.

He advocates an increase in exemption for those who own their homes to a maximum of $25,000 of market value.

'Star of the Magi' slated for MSAC planetarium show

"Star of the Magi" is the title of the December presentation at the Mt. San Antonio College planetarium.

The program uses religious, historical and scientific approaches to the events surrounding the birth of Jesus Christ to understand what time the Christmas events might really have happened and what people meant by the words they used to describe them.

The Christmas story, and the controversy about the star are favorite planetarium topics. This year's program was written by Donald McDonald of De Anza College and adapted for the MSAC program by planetarium director Ronald N. Hartman, using new audio and visual elements.

A continually changing wrap-around panorama, combined with music and the sky as it appeared over Bethlehem about 2,000 years ago, make this an informative program on Christ's birth, officials say.

"Star of Magi" will be presented today and next Wednesday, Thursday and Friday at 7 p.m.; today and next Thursday and Friday at 8:15 p.m. and Dec. 18 at 7:30 p.m. Doors will open 20 minutes before each program.

Doors will be closed at the beginning of each program and will not be opened until it is over.

Reservations are necessary for groups of 10 or more. Children five and younger will not be admitted.

Following each program telescopes will be available outside the planetarium for viewing Jupiter and some of its satellites.

Additional information may be obtained by calling 598-2811, Ext. 361. Group reservations may be made by calling that same number.

Cal Poly students complete project

Six Cal Poly students majoring in agriculture education recently completed a student teaching project at San Jose Elementary School in Pomona.

Don Jones worked with Larry Robertson's fourth grade class on lambs. Mike Auckland worked with Rachel Roy's fourth and fifth grade class on a pig and germinating seeds.

Gary Marhenke worked with Robert Monteith's fifth grade class on a cat, lamb and the use of a saddle. Curtis Stolkes and Paul Smythe taught about sharks to Peggy McDowell's fifth and sixth grade class.

Martin Burnett conducted class sessions on seedlings, a lamb, cow and horse with Martha Pierce's sixth grade class.

Paul Peterson, Cal Poly education coordinator, supervised the project.

Charles Abel

Charles Harold Abel II of Montebello died Thursday at San Dimas Community Hospital following a short illness.

Mr. Abel was born April 28, 1938 in Topeka, Kan. He had been a resident of California for 35 years. He was employed as a cost analyst at General Dynamics in Pomona. He was a Vietnam veteran and a graduate of Citrus College and Cal State Los Angeles.

He is survived by his widow, Irene; and his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Val Hernandez of Glendora.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 10 a.m. at the White's Funeral Home in Azusa. Burial will be made at Resurrection Cemetery in South San Gabriel.

Francis Dedlow

Francis R. Dedlow of 686 Karesh Ave., Pomona died at his home Wednesday.

Mr. Dedlow was born March 1, 1923, in Omaha Neb., and moved to California 19 years ago. He lived in Pomona for one year. He was employed as a machinist in Industry for four years. He had been a member of the AFL-CIO for 25 years.

He is survived by his widow, Bernice; one son, David Francis, Okinawa; and a daughter, Anastacia of Pomona.

Private services were held today. Pomona Valley Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Lila R. Collier

Lila R. Collier of 2267 Fleetwood Place, Pomona, died Wednesday at Inter-Community Hospital in Covina following a short illness.

Mrs. Collier was born April 7, 1906 in Arizona. She had lived in the Pomona area 53 years.

Surviving are two daughters, Margaret Caldwell of Pomona and Doris Harris of Las Vegas, Nev.; two grandchildren; a brother, Chano Ramos of San Bernardino; and six sisters, Adella Teneych of Rowland Heights, Louise Whitehair, Estelle Richards and Alice Montellano, all of Los Angeles, Esther Smith of San Gabriel and Irene Perez of Hacienda Heights.

Rosary will be recited tonight at 7:30 at Our Lady of the Assumption Catholic Church in Claremont. Mass of the Christian Burial will be celebrated at the church Saturday at 8 a.m.

Blackman Pollock Mortuary is in charge of arrangements. Visitation will be from 1 to 9 p.m. today.

Burial will be in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Dorothy Spafford

Mrs. Dorothy L. Spafford of 301 E. Foothill Blvd., Pomona, died Wednesday in Pomona Valley Community Hospital following a long illness.

Mrs. Spafford was born Aug. 18, 1899 in Strongsville, Ohio, and lived in Cleveland, Ohio for 22 years prior to moving to Pomona in 1944. She was a member of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, Pomona, and the World War I Veterans Auxiliary.

Besides her husband Lynn, she is survived by a son, Norman R. of Chino; two grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Services will be held Saturday at 3:30 p.m. in Todd Memorial Chapel Pomona. The Rev. Benton S. Gaskell, pastor of the Pilgrim Congregational Church, will officiate. Private entombment will be made in Pomona Mausoleum.

Friends may call at the Pomona Chapel today from 4 to 9 p.m.

Trini Herrera

Mrs. Trini Herrera of 12739 Telephone Ave., Chino, died Wednesday at Doctors' Hospital Montclair.

Mrs. Herrera was born May 18, 1900 in Mexico. She had lived in the West End 52 years and in Chino five years. For many years she and her late husband, Aristeo, ran a market in Cucamonga.

She was a member of the Catholic faith.

Surviving are a daughter, Rebecca Vaughn of Ontario; two grandchildren; and a sister, Maria Cassillas of Placentia.

Rosary will be recited Sunday at 8 p.m. at the Stone Funeral Home in Upland. Mass will be celebrated Monday at 9 a.m. at Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Catholic Church in Cucamonga.

Entombment will be in Bellevue Mausoleum in Ontario.

Funeral

Phillip R. Lopez

Burial Mass for Phillip R. Lopez of Palm Springs, former Pomona resident, was celebrated this morning at Sacred Heart Catholic Church.

Burial was in Holy Cross Cemetery.

Mr. Lopez died Tuesday at Desert Hospital in Palm Springs following a short illness. He was a building engineer for a Palm Springs hotel.

He was born June 7, 1918 in California.

Surviving are his widow, Esther; five daughters, Rose Peck of Pennsylvania, and Phyllis Sullivan and Patricia, Susie and Eva, all of Palm Springs; two sons, Michael and Tony, both of Palm Springs, and two granddaughters.

Rosary was recited Thursday night at Blackman Pollock Mortuary.

REUNION — Elizabeth, the 3-year-old child abandoned by her mother in a Wichita Falls bar in October, is reunited in Dallas with her father, Robert O'Connell of Los Angeles.

Abandoned girl, 3, reunited with dad

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Elizabeth, a freckle-faced 3½ year old girl abandoned last October at a bar in Wichita Falls, northwest of Dallas, is on her way back to her home in Los Angeles, clinging happily to her father.

The father, Robert O'Connell, a salesman from Los Angeles, embraced his young daughter and said she looked "pretty good, considering all the stuff she's been through since she left Los Angeles with her mother."

O'Connell said his wife, Brenda, left their home in Los Angeles with Elizabeth last July after some marital problems to visit her mother in Mississippi.

He said his mother-in-law called him three months ago to say Brenda and Elizabeth had left with Tim Green, Brenda's sister's husband.

On Oct. 20, according to police reports, Elizabeth was left with a truck driver in a Wichita Falls bar by a man who said he would contact him later. The man never called back and the truck driver returned home to Dallas, called police and turned the child over to Dallas welfare officials.

Green and Mrs. O'Connell were arrested later in Cheyenne, Wyo., on charges of transporting a stolen vehicle across state lines.

O'Connell said his wife charged nearly $1,000 to O'Connell's credit card while she was traveling with Elizabeth.

"At first it didn't bother me because I thought she was buying clothes for Elizabeth," he said. "But later I saw men's clothing and jewelry on the bills and had the card canceled."

O'Connell said his wife's actions were out of character: "I am quite surprised at the way she acted."

Elizabeth, who called O'Connell "Bobby," recognized her father and fell happily into his arms. As she waited for him, she said: "I want Bobby to come with me. I like Bobby."

James Buchanan was the only American president to remain a bachelor.

Sacramento summaries

A Summary of Major Action
Thursday, December 9

THE GOVERNOR

Appointed John George of Oakland to the Alameda County Board of Supervisors to fill the vacancy created by election of Tom Bates to the state Assembly, with interim appointment expiring when Bates' own term as supervisor, won in Nov. 2 election, begins Jan 3, 1977.

THE ASSEMBLY
Bill Introduced

Grand Juries — Would give county grand juries authority to investigate alleged offenses of officials of multi-county governmental agencies, even if offense may have been committed in another county, so long as grand jury's home county is part of agency; AB 26, Boatwright, D-Concord.

THE SENATE
Bill Introduced

Drinking — Would provide that driving with blood alcohol count of .10 per cent or more is illegal, rather than being a "rebuttable presumption," as provided in current law; SB 37, Gregorio, D-San Mateo.

Attorney accused of taking bribe

BEVERLY HILLS (AP)—FBI agents have arrested a Beverly Hills attorney on charges of illegally accepting money for favorable valuations of property in his role as a Veterans Administration appraiser.

Authorities identified the attorney as Jack M. Conflenti, 49, adding that the appraisal in question was for property sold through Asworth B. Mingleton, a Pasadena real estate broker.

The FBI said Mingleton paid Conflenti $500 in exchange for a high appraisal on an Altadena home.

Small business steering group gets together

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

A steering committee of business representatives in east Ontario met for the second time recently to organize owners of small businesses into an association to promote the area and serve as a recognizable voice in city planning and affairs.

The group met with Martin Keeney, manager of Denny's Restaurant, and Susan Tuft, manager of the First National Bank, as honorary chairmen. Before adjourning, the group agreed to plan a meeting in January in hopes of gaining support of at least 50 of the approximately 90 area businesses near Fourth Street and Grove Avenue.

The steering group of about 13 business representatives seeks to establish an East Gate Business Association to identify the area and stimulate cooperation among businesses for activities to increase trade and provide input to the Ontario City Council, Planning Commission and other city and civic entities.

The East Gate area is composed of a scattering of restaurants, service stations, television and repair shops, meat packing operations, markets, department stores, book stores, a bank, bookkeeping offices, florists and several other small businesses. The stores generally are located along Fourth and adjacent streets rather than concentrated in a regional shopping center.

George Sawyer of Sawyer's Union 76 Station said the area's small businesses could compete with the shopping center clientele by offering more personalized and courteous service and pulling persons in who did not want to fight the crowds, parking problems and possible auxiliary problems usually connected with a regional center.

"The personal touch is the key to it all if you are going to be a small businessman," Sawyer commented.

Councilman Beecher Medlin, who owns a Texaco station in the area, said the group had as its primary purpose "examining what we can do for ourselves. We're putting it on ourselves to help ourselves rather than having to go to the city and ask for help."

Keeney viewed a business association as a means of maximizing sales and promotions and making a definite impact upon the area.

"Nothing comes from nothing. It will cost us something. The cost will depend upon our level of participation. We would have to establish a by-laws committee and come up with a recommendation for dues and membership," Keeney said.

Price Hall, coordinator of economic development for the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, told the group that as an association "you will be able to supply input to planning in the city as a body. You can have great effect. You can say 'we think' because a group has examined the issues. It's a matter of mutual respect and cooperation."

"There are new businesses that will be located in the area. The area has sustained itself well without help, but I want it to continue to do well. And, I think it could with a business association. I don't want to see it die on the vine," Medlin said. "When you don't promote your business, it's going to die. Unless we go forward here that's exactly what's going to happen here."

Keeney's motion to plan another meeting in January after the holiday season was accepted and area businesses will be contacted about the time and place later.

Nurse class registration scheduled

Chaffey College will offer two off-campus nursing courses from 5 to 9 p.m. on Wednesdays, starting Jan. 5.

Registration for the off-campus as well as campus to 9 p.m. today on the Alta Loma campus and from 4 to 8 p.m. Tuesday and Wednesday at the college's Ontario-Montclair Center, 4650 Howard St., Ontario.

A class in intravenous therapy will be taught at Doctors' Hospital at Montclair by Sandi Hesterly, a registered nurse. A course in basic coronary care is slated at the Corona Community Hospital.

Both four-unit courses are designed to meet the continuing education needs of registered nurses and licensed vocational nurses but are open to all interested persons.

To enroll in either course, students must be accepted for admission by Chaffey College.

Additional information may be obtained by calling Donna Skinner, professional nursing program director, 987-1737.

Cookie ransom

YANKTON, S.D. (AP) — Three dozen cookies and a loaf of banana bread brought Alice Kingsbury back home.

Recently, Dr. Kingsbury's portrait disappeared from the hall that bears her name on the Yankton College campus. On the desk below was a note: "Please deposit three dozen cookies and one loaf of banana bread on Observatory Hill this evening and the picture will be returned."

House Mother Alice Johnson followed the instructions and the hungry kidnapers kept their word. Mrs. Johnson says the portrait will be hung a little more securely, but as a precaution she is doing a little extra baking.

Poly offers bilingual education workshop

A workshop for bilingual secondary education will be held Saturday at Cal Poly Pomona.

Cosponsored by the Los Angeles County superintendent of Schools and the California Association for Bilingual Education, the workshop will start at 9 a.m. in the University Union. Registration will begin at 8 a.m. and the $8 fee includes lunch.

The emphasis will be on teaching techniques and strategies for bilingual students whose primary language is Spanish. Classroom teachers will share their successful practices with participants from throughout California.

Pomona Unified School District has assisted in the coordination of the workshop through the efforts of its Title VII project staff. The local program will be presented by Irene O'Brien, Pete Ivie and Richard Benitez, project supervisor.

Also participating from the Pomona Unified School District will be Graciela Romo, Armando Franco and Rafael Estupinian.

Manslaughter trial slated for Jan. 24

A 36-year-old man, charged with manslaughter in the traffic death Oct. 18 in Pomona of a 15-year-old boy, has been scheduled for trial Jan. 24.

The defendant is Charles Beauchamp, of 1735 Murrietta St., who was charged in the death of Darren Kennedy, of 921 Pavillion Drive.

Police reported that the victim ran into Murchison Avenue to retrieve a ball and was returning to the curb with it when the Beauchamp car approached at high speed and hit him. The impact hurled Kennedy against a street light pole as the car jumped the curb and hit a cement block wall bordering the San Bernardino Freeway, and came to rest on its top.

Beauchamp was booked by police after being treated at Pomona Valley Community Hospital for minor injuries. He currently is free on $2,500 bail.

GOURMET'S CHOICE!
...COOK BY TEMPERATURE OR BY TIME!

Automatic Sensor Eliminates Confusion About Overcooking or Undercooking.

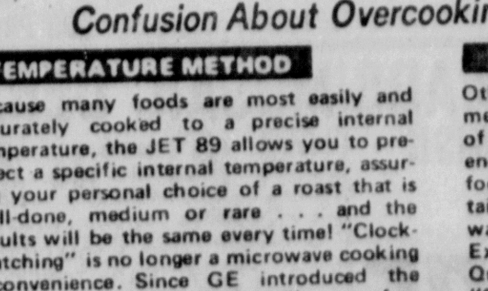

TEMPERATURE METHOD
Because many foods are most easily and accurately cooked to a precise internal temperature, the JET 89 allows you to preselect a specific internal temperature, assuring your personal choice of a roast that is well-done, medium or rare . . . and the results will be the same every time! "Clock-Watching" is no longer a microwave cooking inconvenience. Since GE introduced the revolutionary "Automatic Chef" . . . carefree cooking of fish or even leg of lamb is now possible with this JET 89 from GE!

TIME METHOD
Other foods are best prepared by the time method, and on certain kinds and quantities of foods you can save up to 75% of the energy that it would take to cook the same foods conventionally. Fresh vegetables retain their flavor when cooked with microwaves . . . from artichokes to zucchini. Exciting new menus such as "Golden Onion Quiche" or "Beer Barrel Stew" . . . delicate "Cheesecake Creme de Menthe" or chocolate fudge can now be yours in this exciting new General Electric Microwave Oven.

Study reveals low employe morale a problem

Pomona Councilman Charles Bader tells of results

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

Low morale is causing Pomona city employes to be less effective than in the past, according to Councilman Charles Bader.

Bader, who was chairman of a five-member committee studying employe morale, said the results of the study indicate morale is low for a number of reasons, including some intense animosities between workers and the city administration.

The councilman's view is disputed by some members of the City Council, however, including Georgia Grove. When Bader submitted the study report to the council this week, Mrs. Grove termed it "dirt" and "no answer to anything.

"If we had all the money people wanted there wouldn't be any of these morale problems," she said.

Bader, however, believes there are significant problems beyond salaries and wages.

"I won't deny those are factors, but it isn't purely a money problem," Bader told the Progress Bulletin.

"The low morale has reflected itself in the efficiency of employes and in the high turnover rate," he said.

More than 50 employes left the city in one recent 30-day period, said Bader.

Complaints received from employes fell into four major areas, he said. Those areas are respect shown city employes by their supervisors, administrators and council members; protracted salary negotiations; a cumbersome grievance procedure; and lack of communication through the city's chain of command.

Bader said many employes complained that their bosses had the attitude that "if you don't like it here, why don't you quit?"

Other employes, according to the report, felt threatened if they disputed the views of City Administrator Jerrold Gonce or his assistants.

Bader was quick to point out, however, that some of the tough positions taken by Gonce in relation to salaries and reduction of the city workforce have been at the direction of the City Council.

But, he said, there is a need for the city administration to be more sensitive to the feelings of employes. He added that some employes allege they have been personally insulted on occasions.

Salary negotiations that drag on for months have convinced some employes that the city does not bargain in "good faith." Bader suggested that the city should make its "final" offer at the earliest stage possible. He did not say whether he agreed with the assessment that the city has not always bargained in good faith.

Bader suggested that the grievance procedure should be reviewed by the city's Merit System Commission and streamlined if possible.

He also urged that better communications occur between the council and administration down to the individual employe level, so that employes understand the city's goals and objectives.

The report, based on examination of about 250 written questionnaires submitted by employes and more than 30 personal interviews by the committee, was turned over to Gonce for his comments and review.

Besides Bader, other members of the committee were Councilman Benjamin Ochoa, John Perkins of the city's Community Life Commission, Charles Porter of the Merit System Commission, and Charles McDaniel of the Southern California Edison Co.

There appears to be a fairly even split on the council as to the magnitude of the employes' morale problem.

Mayor Ray Lepire echoed Mrs. Grove's sentiments, saying he knew the report would result in a "no confidence" vote against the administration.

"When you run a hard line on salaries you're not going to make everyone happy. We haven't increased taxes and won't as long as I can prevent it. We're running the city for the benefit of the citizens, not the employes."

Although Ochoa was a member of the committee, he did not show any great enthusiasm for the report when it was presented, commenting simply that "if the finger is pointing at anyone, it's pointing at the council."

Adrian Wright, whose dislike of Gonce is no secret, accepted the report with obvious delight, noting that employe morale has gone downhill since Gonce's arrival on the scene.

SIGNS FOR SALE

Pomona city employe Stan Brown looks over hundreds of old Pomona street signs available for sale after having been replaced with new markers. The signs are being sold each Friday for $2.50 each as they become available. The 800 presently available are from the city's northwest section. Others will be available in coming months as the new signs go up in other sections of the city. Sales are made at the city yards at 636 W. Monterey Ave. on Fridays from 12 to 3 p.m. only. Proceeds will go into the city's general fund.

S.B. County Supervisors OK specific route for extension of Grand Avenue

By JON MORRIS
PB Staff Writer

Long discussed plans to use Grand Avenue as a major link between the Diamond Bar area and the Chino Hills have moved closer to reality.

San Bernardino County Supervisors have adopted a specific alignment for Grand Avenue, proposed for extension from its present terminus in Diamond Bar to the Corona Expressway.

The supervisors approved the more northerly alignment which was favored by the county Planning Commission and most property owners in the area.

This route will result in the least disruption of existing properties. It runs generally in a southeast direction north of English Road.

However, construction of this route will be the most expensive of those proposed and involve bigger cuts in the hills.

Other proposed alignments of Grand would have affected homes along English Road, with moderate to severe disruption. Those routes would have been less costly, however, and involve fewer hill cuts.

Several property owners addressed the supervisors during a public hearing on the alignment, and generally favored the northerly route. It was clear, however, that some persons oppose the extension of Grand Avenue altogether.

Bob and Pat Payne, property owners in the Chino Hills, said one of the proposed alignments would cut their property in half. They favored the northerly alignment.

Jim Neller, spokesman for the Southwest Hills Environmental Planning Association, said his group favored the northerly route, since it does not bisect anyone's property and causes little disruption of existing homes.

Diane Guzman, a county senior planner, admitted an environmental impact report on the project shows that all the alignments have an adverse effect "by bringing growth into the area."

Nevertheless, she said, the Grand Avenue extension is necessary to relieve anticipated traffic problems in the area. Many new homes are proposed in the hills and there now is no access to them. The Corona Expressway and Carbon Canyon Road are the only major thoroughfares in the area.

Also, the extension would provide a link to Los Angeles and Orange counties for those who commute from the Chino Hills.

The Grand Avenue project is contained in the Chino Hills General Plan but no specific route was designed, officials said.

Construction cost of the proposed four-lane highway is estimated between $2.7 million and $4.2 million by county planners.

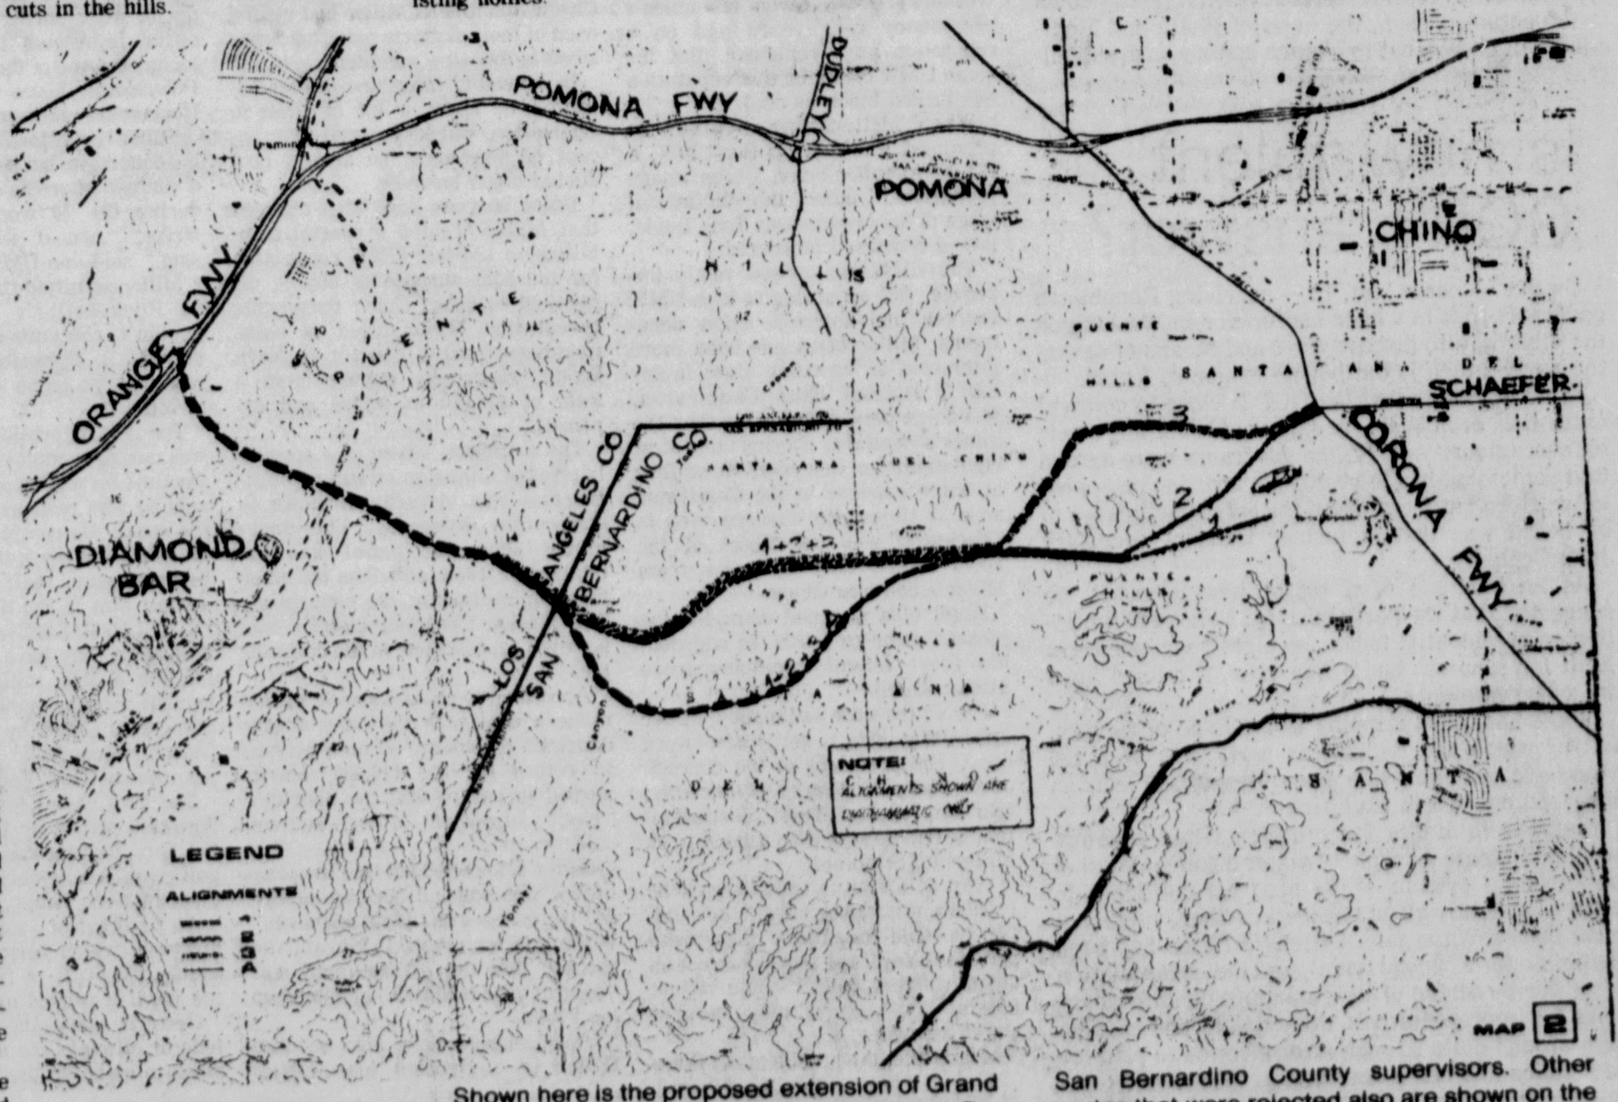

Most of the costs will be borne by developers, said Miss Guzman. "The plan is to have developers build roads as they develop their property," she said.

Supervisor Joseph Kamansky of Upland asked how a major highway could be built "piecemeal."

Chino supervisor Robert Townsend said he knew some property owners were opposed to the project, but added, "I think Grand Avenue is a must."

Supervisor James Mayfield said the plan would "urbanize" the Chino Hills area. "I think people moved there to get away from some of that," he added.

County Planners estimate it will take four years to complete the Grand Avenue extension.

GRAND EXTENSION

Shown here is the proposed extension of Grand Avenue from Diamond Bar to the Corona Expressway and Schaefer Avenue. The dark broken line extending from the Orange Freeway to Schaefer is the route adopted by the San Bernardino County supervisors. Other routes that were rejected also are shown on the map. The route approved will, in effect, provide an extension of Schaefer from Chino through the Chino Hills to the Diamond Bar area.

Montclair's sphere of influence meeting turns into disruption

By MAE TATE
PB Staff Writer

An informational community meeting for Montclair's sphere of influence soon disintegrated into a boisterous crowd as dissidents viewed the meeting as the first phase of a conspiracy.

The Thursday night meeting at Ramona Elementary School began late when more than 250 persons showed up rather than the anticipated 75. As Ramona Principal Pat King coordinated volunteers setting up chairs and equipment in a larger room, it soon became apparent that the majority was there to disrupt the meeting jointly called by the planning departments of the City of Montclair and San Bernardino County.

Several months ago, the two departments began the first phase of a study of the land uses and zoning in the area bounded by State Street, Benson Avenue, Phillips Boulevard and the Los Angeles County line. The study followed a similar action in north Chino, which is in Chino's sphere of influence, but not in the city limits; and began at the request of some property owners who were concerned about the differing general plans of the county and Montclair which may negatively affect development.

Doug Payne and Marvin Krieger of the county planning department and Rosalie Davalos, associate planner for Montclair, were greeted with catcalls and insulting quips from the crowd. As Payne attempted to explain the practicality of having one compatible plan for an unincorporated area within a city's zone of influence people started screaming "leave it the way it is."

The group became vehement as Payne explained that although annexation was not the issue of the study or the purpose of the city or county compatible plans would make future annexation by request of any property owner easier. They shouted that they did not want to be part of Montclair or its zone of influence and would oppose any annexation attempts by anyone; and called for a vote of those opposing annexation. Resounding "ayes" filled the room.

Those who tried to restore calm and asked that the crowd at least listen to the planners before jumping to conclusions, were noisily cackled to their seats with insults and profanity. Miss Davalos was booed when she tried to tell the crowd that the City of Montclair does not aggressively seek annexation of the area, that some property owners approached the city because of the services and improvements possible with annexation.

The approximately 1.7 square mile zone of influence is comprised primarily of small, frame single-family dwellings, duplexes, mobile homes; small ranches where horses and other animals are maintained and the agricultural lifestyle is promoted; light and general manufacturing uses that are not adequately isolated from residential and school properties.

Due to the fact that the county general plan calls for lower development standards, many of the streets in the area are narrow, undeveloped, poorly maintained and filled with ruts and potholes. There is little, if any street lighting and few traffic signals, sidewalks and gutters. There is no domestic sewer system, with the area served by septic tanks, and no street sweeping service exists.

Miss Davalos said the next step will be an attempt to organize smaller meetings in the five divisons of the area and "try to accomplish what we didn't accomplish here. That is to get some input from the people in the area on what they want in this area for one plan saying the same thing."

Questionnaires turned in, however, indicated that many are also opposed to smaller meetings. One couple wrote "Just leave us alone as we are. Why should Montclair try to tell us how we should live. We were here before them so I say why not defranchise Montclair if she can't exist without our taxes."

A number of floats, bands, marching units, old cars, equestrian units, drill teams and others have entered the annual San Dimas Christmas Parade set for Saturday at 10 a.m.

The parade will form on San Dimas Canyon Road and march west on Bonita Ave towards the downtown area. It will end at Cataract Avenue. All persons are invited to attend.

The parade is sponsored by the San Dimas Jaycees.

Quebec could split Canada

Generations of schoolchildren have been taught that when British Gen. James Wolfe defeated the Marquis de Montcalm on the Plains of Abraham in 1759 and captured Quebec, this settled for all time the question of who was to rule North America — the French or the Anglo-Saxons.

It now turns out that the history books have been wrong all these years: One of the most decisive battles ever fought on this continent may not have been so decisive after all, at least as regards Canada.

Gallons of speculative ink have been spilled in the wake of the stunning victory of the separatist Parti Quebecois in the recent election in French-speaking Quebec province. Party leader Rene Levesque, who now becomes premier of Quebec, has promised that he will place the question of independence before Quebecers in a referendum.

Canadian Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau has also indicated that he may ask for a national plebiscite on the issue and that if the vote is decisively in favor of separation, Quebec will be allowed to go its own way in peace.

Although Levesque's referendum is at least two years away, and despite the fact that an estimated two out of three Quebecers are reportedly against separation, people on both sides of the border are wondering what an independent Quebec would mean to the futures of both the United States and Canada.

An independent Quebec would split Canada into thirds — geographically, politically, economically and linguistically. There is already speculation that Canada's English - speaking maritime provinces or its English speaking western provinces — or both — might seek some kind of federation with the U.S.

This, however, ignores the high degree of autonomy enjoyed by Canada's provincial governments, as well as the strong element in the population composed of descendants of those who fled the United States during the American Revolution and threw back American attempts in two wars to invade Canada.

Certainly a fragmented Canada would be a much less viable entity than it is today, for all its internal problems, and the difficulty of existing in the shadow of a giant neighbor to the south would be multiplied by far more than three.

All such speculation is, of course, extremely premature. It may well be that the election victory of the Parti Quebecois is the high-water mark of the separatist movement, and that when it comes down to the actual crunch, the heirs of Wolfe and Montcalm will choose not to change history so drastically.

Is new talent GOP's answer?

Twelve — count 'em, 12 — surviving Republican governors met in winter conference in Washington the other day to discuss ways and means of saving the party which is old but no longer so grand.

Amid warnings that the GOP is close to political extinction, or at best is in danger of becoming a permanent minority party, the governors were agreed that something has to be done to broaden its appeal to the electorate. But about the only specific idea to be heard was that of former treasury secretary John Connally.

As an example of a major new proposal, he suggested that the party push for a six-year limitation on presidential terms, an eight-year, one-term limit for senators and a four-year, two-term limit for congressmen.

While hardly as gripping as the issue of slavery, out of which the Republican party was born 120 years ago, and not really a new idea, it is at least an idea and one worth exploring.

Single-term limits for presidents and senators would eliminate a couple of major disadvantages of our political system — the need for politicans to worry constantly about re-election (there might not have been a Watergate if Richard Nixon had been ineligible for a second term), and the accumulation of power by virtue of long-standing incumbency.

As for representatives, they would not have to turn around quite so soon after election to plan for re-election and could devote their full second term to the nation's business.

It may be objected that it would be foolish to retire good men from office at the peak of experience, but this could be more than outweighed by the regular infusion of fresh, new talent.

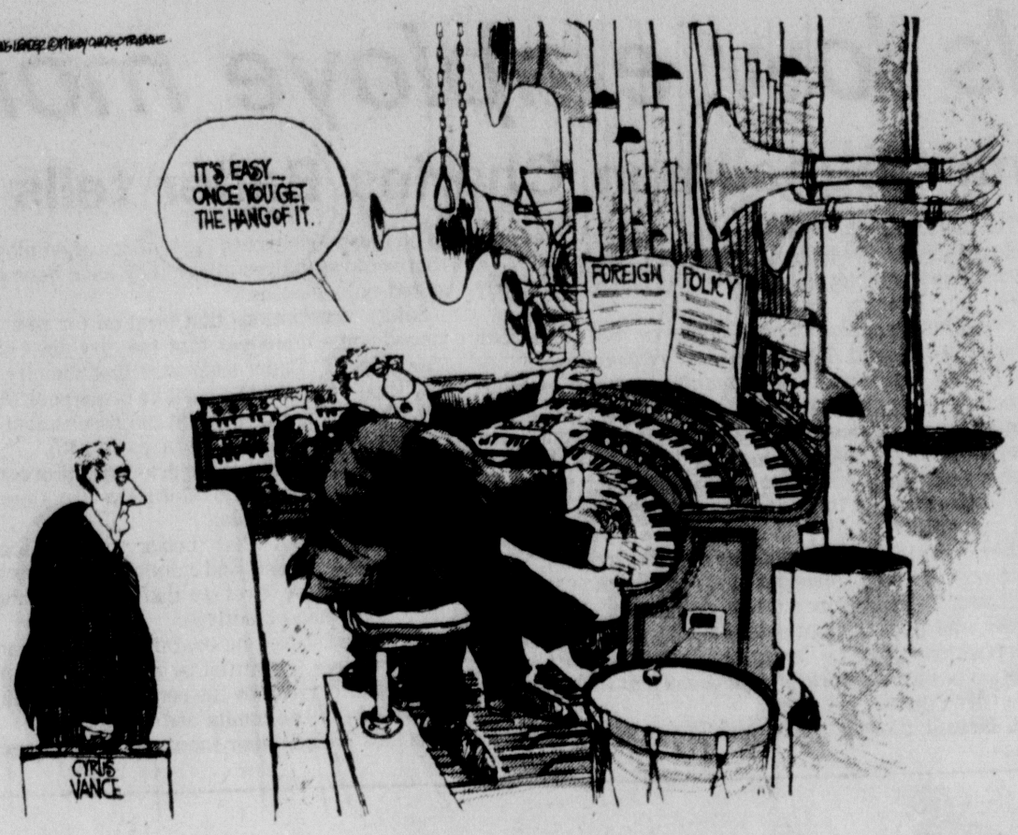

It's a very debatable proposal, and if there is anything the Republican party needs, it is concrete ideas and proposals to get Americans debating and thinking.

City/employe conflict

Dear Editor:

Many articles have appeared in the Progress Bulletin lately concerning the conflict between the city of Pomona and the miscellaneous employees. Unfortunately, very little of what has appeared has been completely factual. While it would take too much space to clear up all the half-truths that have been printed we would like to clear up the latest equivocation — the fallacy that the city's latest offer was a very generous one that was refused by a group of disgruntled employees.

Indeed, as reported, the proposal did include a $350 bonus this year and a five per cent pay increase next year. In addition the city wanted to take away the protection afforded us by social security, wanted to downgrade our health insurance, lower our retirement benefits, and completely emasculate our sick leave program. As one employee put it when the plan was first presented, "only a complete idiot would vote for such a proposal." The Dec. 2, Progress Bulletin article indicated that the employees probably did not understand the proposal, and thus voted to reject it. The employees understood the proposal all right. That's why the vote was more than 20 to 1 against!

Frankly, the employees can't understand why all the facts surrounding the current city/employee problems are being withheld from the citizens. Why are you being told only the good things about the city's proposals? You, the citizen, pay our salaries. Don't you have a right to know everything that is going on?

Employees at all levels from department heads to laborers are leaving city employment in droves. New employees hire in and then quit almost immediately. Morale is at its lowest point in history. It is becoming more and more difficult to attract and keep able, qualified employees.

It has been estimated that to recruit a new employee and put him on the payroll costs $1,500.

To train him to do a specific job well costs thousands more. You, Mr. and Mrs. Taxpayer, pick up the bill. Isn't it about time you were given the facts about what is really going on in this city?

UMW's Miller: True reformer?

WASHINGTON — Arnold Miller, the leader of the United Mine Workers (UMW), won his union's presidency four years ago on a reputation as a reformer. But for some UMW officials, that reputation has turned black as coal.

When Miller was elected, he promised to clean up the UMW, a 277,000-member union whose image plummeted under the dictatorial reign of his predecessor Tony Boyle, now a convicted murderer.

The UMW has indeed vastly improved. But according to high UMW sources and internal union documents, Miller often has been more interested in spending time in his home district near Charleston, W.Va., on personal matters than the miner's welfare. During the first eight months of this year, Miller flew at union expense to the Charleston area 33 times. His favorite stop in Charleston was the Heart of the Town Motel, only 20 miles from Miller's home in Ohley.

Hotel bills and per diem for the junkets came to $2,600. In addition, his total travel expenses were almost $2,300.

For all the time and money, Miller apparently didn't get much work done. The president of the district, Jack Perry, a former Miller ally, told our reporter Terri Mendenhall that he had no idea what kind of work Miller did at home.

"I'm at a loss to explain what he (Miller) was doing here," he said. "If he held meetings, they were private." Yet if the trips were not on union business, Miller would violate federal law because they were at UMW expense.

Meanwhile, the presidents of three other union districts whose headquarters are within 200 miles of Charleston told us Miller had visited each of their districts only five times since he became president.

In a lengthy interview, Miller admitted he spent a lot of time in Charleston. But he insisted that, except on weekends, he always conducted union business.

Union sources have also charged that Miller created a special committee at the last UMW convention for the sole purpose of paying off political cronies. Union documents reveal that Miller hired 12 union members from a district in Nova Scotia, reportedly paying them a total of $16,000 in wages and expenses.

The members served on a specially created Canadian affairs committee that was virtually unknown to convention delegates. The documents show the panel was established a week later than the other nine committees at the convention. The largest Canadian district was not even represented on the committee.

According to union sources, Miller made a deal with the Nova Scotia district's president, William Marsh. In return for the $16,000, Marsh agreed to ensure that the district's "bloc" supported Miller, sources said.

Miller acknowledged that the committee was unusual. But he dismissed the charges as "plain hogwash." When we contacted Marsh, he shouted that the arrangement was "none of your business" and hung up the phone.

Union sources have also accused Miller of neglecting his responsibilities during times of crisis. For example, while 80,000 miners were out of work during a West Virginia strike in August 1975, Miller was lounging some of the time in the posh Pocahontas home of John "Jay" Rockefeller, now governor-elect.

Miller occasionally called UMW headquarters, but he refused to leave a number where he could be reached during the 10 worst days of the strike. "Arnold was totally missing," said one UMW source.

Miller admitted that he spent time at Rockefeller's home, but he couldn't remember how long he stayed. A Rockefeller spokesman said that the home was always open to Miller.

The UMW president insisted he was talking to miners during much of the time he was incommunicado and said he was responsible for settling the strike. He complained he got little help from the staff. He told us he believed the staff was working against him in the 1975 strike.

NUCLEAR SHENANIGANS: The taxpayers may have to pick up the tab for a $500 million cleanup of nuclear wastes, thanks to a lopsided agreement signed by Vice President Nelson Rockefeller when he was governor of New York.

The deal called for Nuclear Fuel Services, owned by the giant Getty Oil Co., to reprocess over 600,000 gallons of deadly nuclear waste at a plant in West Valley, N.Y.

A provision was included, however, which permitted Getty to saddle the State of New York with the job if it proved unprofitable.

Getty is exercising its option and federal officials are now discussing plans to clean up the nuclear mess.

Living today

Washington's housing shock

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President-elect Carter doesn't have to worry about where he'll be living for the next four years, but some of the people moving to Washington with him are discovering this city's special brand of housing shock.

Take, for instance, the Georgian who blithely told a real estate broker that he wanted a house in Georgetown, something "in the $30,000 to $40,000 range."

"I don't deal in rentals," sniffed the agent.

Such stories about newcomers arriving in Washington with the new administration are tickling capital homeowners and traumatizing those who thought moving here would be a routine switch in residences.

Carter workers, along with legions of newly arriving congressmen, lawyers, lobbyists and journalists, are finding that housing prices here are among the highest in the country and buyers get less value for their money than almost anywhere else.

Many Carter transition staff members put off buying homes because they don't know what jobs they will fill in the new administration or because they don't have time to shop around. But even some of those who know they are getting top posts are renting instead of trying to buy into Washington's high-powered housing market.

Carter's press secretary, Jody Powell, has rented a three-bedroom house for $750 a month. Carter's choice for director of the Office of Management and Budget, Thomas B. Lance, has rented a house in Georgetown. And transition director Jack H. Watson Jr., who has been looking in Georgetown, has yet to find a place he finds acceptable.

"It's really depressing," said Watson's deputy assistant, Barbara Blum, who has rented a furnished apartment until she finds a place to buy. "I looked at a tiny little place in Georgetown and thought the agent was kidding when he said it cost $104,000."

Elizabeth Sadoff calls her job as housing coordinator for the Carter transition staff "wretched — the crummiest job in the world." She spends days scanning classified ads and listening to real estate agents talk. And what they talk about is money. Lots of it.

Carter aides "just aren't buying," she said. "These $100,000-plus price tags are really frightening."

Mrs. Sadoff said many Carter aides are used to renting apartments for $200 a month, "and that includes a tennis court and swimming pool." Here, she said, a one-bedroom apartment in a low-crime neighborhood goes for $325 to $350.

Federal figures show the average price of a used house in the Washington area is the highest in the country at $67,300, compared with $41,400 nationally.

Washington ranks fourth of 18 metropolitan areas in the price of new houses, right behind Los Angeles, San Francisco and New York, according to statistics from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board. The average price of a new house in Washington was $58,000 last September, compared with $48,200 nationally.

Just in jest

Certainly there's such a thing as damning with faint praise; and to give credit where credit is due, it's a fine art at which women are usually more proficient than men. — There was this society matron, for instance, about whom it was being whispered that she was having difficulty holding her liquor. Immediately one of her self described "very best friends" came loyally to her rescue.

"There's simply no truth to the rumor that she is an alcoholic!" exclaimed this friend in need. "It's just that she gets carried away by her surroundings. So maybe on her recent vacation trip she did spend a little too much time in wine sampling rooms. But what's so terrible about that? After all she only visited the most exclusive wineries."

Everything seems to be a matter of perspective. There are times when we have to make fast changes — adjust quickly in our actions and our decisions. Are we going to let those who are not important in our lives dictate to us how to treat those who do matter?

We get our priorities all mixed up. We let things on the fringes of our lives overgrow our central and more intimate being. The tide of human affairs will always push in with great strength, and we do need protection from it. We cannot get so entangled in the fringe fights that we let our inner person crumble. Nothing is worth that — and the sooner we tell those things that do not count to get lost, and recenter ourselves on the important life, we will begin to win.

Demos fight among selves

By EARL G. WATERS

The 1977-78 Legislature recessed today. It had convened on Monday, ostensibly for the purpose of organizing and getting acquainted with the 18 new Assemblymen and 10 new Senators. It also gave 24 other Assemblymen, elected two years ago, a chance to lord it over the "freshmen," sort of like the first day of the new school year.

The brief session is something which could easily have awaited the New Year and until four years ago it did for more than 100 years. But in 1971 the leadership came up with the bright idea that legislative sessions should be of two-year duration.

It was an underhanded way of bolstering demands for higher salaries for the solons by leading the public to believe that legislating requires full time occupation.

Buried in the ballot proposition authorizing the extended sessions was the provision for the December meet, not to exceed five days. The little get together this week cost the taxpayers an unnecessary $21,000 just in per diem allowances for the members alone. The overall package of two-year sessions is now costing more than $50 million annually.

As it turned out the meeting was more like a Democratic State Central Committee convention than a convening of the State Legislature. With the Democrats holding 57 of the 80 seats and 26 of the 40 Senate seats, the organizing was a matter of majority party caucuses. The Republicans held theirs in convenient telephone booths.

With such an overwhelming majority the Democrats couldn't find any Republicans to fight with so they fought amongst themselves. Most of the battles, especially in the Senate, were over who would be king of what mountain. Everybody wanted to be chairman of something. This is always the problem when a political party gets too fat. It's a form of cannibalism.

The Republicans had no such problem. Nothing promotes unity better than small numbers. The realization dawns quickly that if they don't stick together they will be devoured separately. In unity there is strength.

Earlier the Assembly Republicans had met to re-elect Paul Priolo of Pacific Palisades as their minority leader. They also re-elected Eugene Chappie of Roseville as minority caucus chairman and Mike Antonovich of Glendale as their "whip." If they had elected any more leaders there wouldn't have been anybody left to follow.

But the Republicans needn't be downhearted. Their day will come again. Party fortunes in California are cyclical. There was a time not too many years ago that the Democrats were in just as poor shape. In 1953, the Democrats had only 26 Assemblymen and 12 Senators. Things were so bad the Democrats would slink down alleys to avoid being seen. Cornered they would apologize saying, "Well, I'm a Democrat but I don't vote partisan on legislation."

And Republican legislators, although their numbers aren't any larger than those who attended the first "mass" meeting in Sacramento to form their party in 1856, can take comfort in the fact they aren't being greeted as those pioneers were.

In that early day handbills declaring them traitors were circulated calling for "all true and patriotic Americans" to rally at the Orleans Hotel "to devise means to protect the public welfare by appointing a committee to hang all the leaders, and as many of the attaches of said traitors as may be deemed necessary to restore the public quiet and to put a stop to such treasonable practices."

Being cruel can be kind

Dear Ann: I've never had a problem I couldn't handle myself, but now I'm in a spot that may not sound like much to you but for me it's hell.

I'm a 29-year-old, hpappily married man with three beautiful daughters. The problem is a 19-year-old girl (I'll call her Mary). She lives with her parents in the upstairs of this duplex.

Mary claims she is madly in love with me. She comes downstairs the minute she knows I'm home. My wife keeps saying, "That girl sure has a crush on you." I deny it because I don't want to make trouble for the poor kid.

Mary calls me at work every day — says says she will die f she doesn't hear my voice. I've asked her to cut it out but she calls anyway. I've also told her I am not the right man for her but she swears she can't live without me. Mary has lost 20 pounds in the last two months and goes into crying spells when I tell her she ought to find a nice guy her own age.

What can I do about this terrible situation, Ann? I'm a — Nervous Wreck

Dear N.W.: That's a lot you aren't telling me — like how did this "poor kid" get so hung up on you? But that's another letter, Buster.

For her sake as well as your own, you must tell Mary she is not welcome in your home in the future. Let her know if she telephones you at work again you will hang up on her. Then do it.

The problem persists because of your ambivilence and gutlessness. There are times when a person must be cruel to be kind— and this is certainly one of those times.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband, Mike, got into a little trouble with the law and is now in the penitentiary paying his debt to society.

Our two children (ages 3 and 5) and I moved in with my parents. Mom and Dad have always had a hard time financially. Now with three more mouths to feed I know it must be a terrible strain on them. Of course, they never say anything. They are too kind and considerate for that.

I feel I should go to work and carry my share of the load. I used to be a pretty good typist and could brush up in a couple of weeks. Mike writes to me almost every day and is dead set against the idea of me working in an office. He keeps repeating, "A mother belongs at home with her children." Mike insists that if I were "more saving" I could manage on my father's check.

I feel guilty watching my mother trying to stretch the meat loaf by adding a lot of oatmeal and bread crumbs and pretending that milk and fresh fruit suddenly don't agree with her. My older child is already in kindergarten and the younger one loves to be with Grandma. But Mike is a stubborn man and I'm afraid I'll never get his permission to go to work. What should I do, Ann? — Zanesville

Dear Z.: Mike has no right to tell you where YOU ought to be, considering where HE is. Go out and get yourself a job and tell your husband you must do what you feel is decent and honorable.

Don't pick pet on an impulse

Don't stroll into a pet shop and pick out a pet just because it's cute or captivating. Impulse buying accounts for millions of pet tragedies yearly, plus discontent among millions of pet owners whe aren't as happy as they should be with their animals, but take care of them out of a sense of duty because they're stuck with them. Decide on the best pet prospect of prospects before you start looking. For some, the species options may be endless. For others, an appropriate pet gift may be limited to one species and even to a few breeds within that species. A puppy purchased without consideration for its needs, as to space, exercise, food or simply total tending time, can and often does develop into a doggy disaster. A bird may fill the bill better for many. Whether to choose a cuddly cat, a gulping goldfish or a rollicking rat can best be determined by spending a few minutes thinking about it. Pondering pets, their potential, their problems and pleasures prior to purchase provides the best chance for proper selection and long-term satisfaction for all concerned.

DEAR DR. MILLER: How could Pinkerton, our poodle, possibly be getting tapeworms so often if he was wormed right? We've always taken him to the hospital for these wormings, yet they seem to do no real good. A little while later he has these icky tapeworms again. Surely a home tapeworm medicine could do as well or better than this. — S.M.

DEAR S.M.: The best method of reducing reruns re tape-worming is to prevent Pinkerton Poodle from picking up fleas. The most common type of tapeworm affecting the canine (Dipylidium) is carried by the flea, which is in turn swallowed by the dog (the flea, that is), which results in a new tapeworm infestation. Home tapeworming procedures may be dangerous and/or ineffective unless the technique and medication used is prescribed by the doctor. Prevention of new tapeworm infestation can only be effectively accomplished if your dog is kept flea-free.

DEAR DR. MILLER: Would my Siamese cat, who's slightly cross-eyed at times, not be able to see quite as well as our American shorthaired cat? I can't tell any difference. Just wondering. — D.W.

DEAR D.W.: On the average, the Siamese cat, even one without crossed eyes, has slightly less visual acuity when compared with other domestic felines.

Pack trip to the theater

It has been my custom over the years when leaving the theater or ballroom to check to be sure I have everything — compact, comb, lipstick, white gloves, etc. Sometimes the inventory includes a tiny wristwatch or a pair of earrings that became too tight.

Why do women consider their escort of the evening their own private barracks bag?

The tradition starts very early in life when the young man is being wheeled about town in his perambulator. In the corner by his wee head, mother tucks her handbag. She stops to pick up the laundry and places a carton of dad's clean shirts across the baby's feet.

Coming out of the grocery store, the child has a dozen oranges on his tummy, breakfast cereal under one arm and a leg of lamb under the other, with cans of soup and rolls of toilet paper tucked in about his head and shoulders. It's a wonder any of us survived.

Nor did the honored maternal parent lose the habit as I grew older and developed pimples and a squeaky voice. At concert or theater I was forever being asked to "Tuck this into your pocket, will you, dear?" and "Keep my program for me" and "Can you carry my purse?"

After awhile she would say, "For heaven's sake, stand up straight. You look like Quasimodo." What she didn't know was that I WAS standing up straight. It was my suit, bulging like Santa's pack with her contributions, that was slumping.

In due time (some say "overdue time," but that's neither here nor there) I discovered that girls could do other things than play second base on our sandlot team, and a legion of pretty, forgotten demoiselles illustrated, at movies and dances, that they shared my mother's belief that I was a handy walking check stand.

At dancing class, college prom, theater and night club, I arrived pencil-slim, neatly pressed, and erect. In less time than it took to nod my head dumbly, I had a cigarette case in my breast pocket, a stiff dance card or theater program in my inner coat pocket, a beaded purse and glasses case in my right side pocket, a pair of long white gloves and a carnation wristlet in my left pocket, and in my trouser pocket a handful of change, car keys, door keys and a string of Marvella pearls with a broken clasp. Before I stepped on the dance floor, I looked like the Scarecrow of Oz.

Nothing changed when I married — nothing along these lines, that is. I start out with my basic survival equipment — a pipe or two, tobacco pouch, wallet — and end up a-bulge with enough cosmetics and costume jewelry to start a variety store.

The other evening I took an attractive miss to the theater. As we entered the foyer, she handed me her purse, gloves and program.

She said, "Put these in your pocket, will you, Dad?"

Gas painful after surgery

DEAR DR. LAMB — I had my gall bladder removed, but off and on I have terrible gas pains. These are relieved by drinking water which expells the gas. What is the cause of this, and is there any other way to expel gas? It is quite painful — almost like a heart attack. It can come at any time.

I was out to my garden in the country and had a jug of dirty rain water, caught off my garage roof, to water plants and just then these gas pains came, and I was forced to drink some of this water. I wonder if my gall bladder was removed or if it's still there.

DEAR READER — The gas pains may be totally unrelated to your gall bladder. You really didn't say whether you had gas pains before surgery or not. Gas pains are not a reliable sign of gall bladder disease at all. Often the gas pains are part of an irritable or spastic colon or they can be associated with a hiatal hernia. When an X ray is taken it may show gall stones. The conclusion is made then that the stones and the symptoms are related. In reality this may not be the case. Then if the gall bladder is removed and the gas was associated with an irritable colon, obviously the operation does not remove the gas problem.

I am certain that your gall bladder is out. Your story sounds like a spasm in the intestinal tract that traps the gas. When the spasm is relieved the gas pain is relieved. There are many reasons for this problem, but I would suggest that you eliminate all milk products for a couple of weeks and see if that helps. Intolerance to milk is particularly apt to occur after surgery, and this may be a temporary situation.

I am sending you The Health Letter number 6-8, Gaseousness - Controlling Gaseousness. Others who want this information can send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it. Just send your letter to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you tell me what causes fever blisters and what to do about them? I am 28-years-old and in good health. I get fever blisters all the time, not just one but three or more at a time. Someone told me a smallpox shot would stop them so I got one. I am told it would wear off in six months, and I would have to get another one.

My family doctor seems to think it is not a good idea. What is your opinion, and how does a help?

DEAR READER — My opinion is that your family doctor is absolutely correct. A smallpox vaccination does not help at all for your problem.

Fever blisters as you call them are really caused by the herpes simplex virus. At one time doctors did use smallpox vaccinations in the hope that this would help, but the virus involved is not related in any way to smallpox, and improving your immunity to smallpox won't protect you from the herpes simplex virus.

It sounds to me like you have a good doctor; better take his advice instead of your friend's advice. He may want you to use a drying agent when the blisters first appear, such as 70 per cent alcohol, and if a heavy scab develops he may advise coating it with a protective agent. Keeping the mouth clean, using antibiotics if needed to control secondary infection, and pain relieving medicines for severe pain are about the only additional measures that might help you.

What people say

"You may fuss about organized labor, but they know how to get the job done and they know how to get people elected. All the Chamber of Commerce does is have meetings and criticize Congress for doing something."

—Republican vice-presidential candidate Robert Dole, addressing businessmen in Lexington, Ky.

"We stood alone in defending a difficult line. Now they have got to show that they can do it. We'll give them a chance, let them carry out what they promised, all this stuff about cutting taxes. Let us see what they do."

—Former Swedish Prime Minister Olof Palme in his statement conceding the Swedish election to a non-socialist coalition.

Male ladybug likewise a lady

Aphids overran the crops. But the farmers prayed to the Virgin Mary for relief. And lo, there appeared a batch of pretty beetles to eat the aphids. Thus that type of beetle was named Our Lady's Bug, subsequently to be called merely a ladybug. The male of the species is neither a lord bug nor a laddie bug, but likewise a ladybug.

You could drive all day behind a truck loaded with sand without noticing any trouble at all. Then come night, you might find the oncoming headlights turn your entire windshield into a glaze. That blowing sand can pit the glass so finely it's invisible in the daylight but opaque after dark.

CROSSING DEATHS

Were you under the impression that fewer and fewer citizens were getting killed of late at railroad crossings? Likewise. That's wrong, however. More and more citizens are getting killed of late at railroad crossings. Almost 2,000 a year at last report.

Traditionally, in any deck of playing cards, the King of Spades supposedly represents King David, the King of Clubs is Alexander the Great, the King of Diamonds stands for Julius Caesar and the King of Hearts portrays Charlemagne. As for the queens, The Queen of Spades is the Greek War Goddess Athena, the Queen of Clubs is said to be Queen Elizabeth I of England, the Queen of Diamonds is the Biblical Rachel and the Queen of Hearts is the Bible's Judith.

MUSIC

That people who listen to music while they do things tend to pace themselves to the tempo of said music is widely known. Now the supermarket boys in some places are wisely putting that fact to use. On the duller weekdays they play slow tunes over their public address systems so the sparce shoppers will linger to look. But when their stores are crowded on the busier days, they play bouncier melodies to the aisle traffic along.

That French surname "Valavoir" literally means "go and see." Too bad. At least, it was too bad for a French general named Count Valavoir. One night a sentinel challenged him at the edge of his camp. Not once nor twice but thrice the general repeated his name. That irritated the soldier. He shot the count dead.

Note it mentioned the Swedes have not fought in a war in more than 160 years. Most commendable, no doubt. What's odd, however, is they used to be the fightingest soldiers in Europe. It's a fact they own approximately 3,500 captured battle flags.

For Saturday, Dec. 11, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Conditions are generally favorable for you today. Get work out of the way, but allow some time to let down your hair and have fun.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) When you're in a hospitable mood, those who come to your place always have a memorable time. By all means, invite some friends in today.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You don't need a crowd to have a good time today. You and that special someone are all the human beings necessary for you to possess what you truly desire.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're back in control today where management of your resources is concerned. It's likely you'll turn a profit you couldn't swing yesterday.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Happy things happen wherever you make the scene today. You'll illuminate the dark corners of others' lives.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Be kind today, without calling attention to your good deeds. Have no fear. You'll get deserved recognition.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Have a good time today, but don't live it up to the point where you can't face tomorrow. Who needs that queasy feeling?

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In financial matters it is very important today that your judgment prevails over that of one who may tend to be extravagant.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Use your leadership qualities today, but not to lord it over co-workers. Treat those who work at your side as intelligent equals.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You're very adept today at managing situations others have inaugurated. One exception. Anything of a strictly speculative nature.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If you make an agreement today, stick to it. Afterthoughts should not replace the original plan.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Rising to a challenge is your strong point today. You can accomplish with comparative ease things others find difficult or even impossible.

Your Birthday, Dec. 11, 1976

You'll make your mark this year because of your enterprise and drive. You'll do it despite efforts to assign you to secondary roles.

Problem of waste is serious

In today's world, the problem of waste is more serious than the problem of shortages.

While in Tokyo I heard this story of a Chinese wife who said to her husband, 'I would like a new coat.' Her husband asked her, 'What will you do with your old coat?' She answered, 'I will make a bed cover out of it.' He continued, 'What will you do with your old bed cover?' She replied, 'I will make pillowcases out of it.' He said, 'What will you do with the old pillowcases?' She responded, 'I will make new cleaning cloths.'

He pressed on, 'What will you do with the old cleaning cloths?' She patiently said, 'I will tie them together and make a mop out of them.' He went on, 'What will you do with the old mop?' She said, 'I will chop it up in little pieces, mix it with cement, and we will patch the holes in our cottage in the springtime.' With that, he gave in. 'All right, you may have a new coat!'

God has no wastebaskets. Neither should you or I. What are you wasting — time, money, energy, food, opportunity?

Blue Cross of Southern California now is "on wheels."

Under the supervision of representative Paul Searah, the health insurance company has gone on the road with a mobile service unit consisting of a 34-foot trailer and a truck providing an office, reception area, generator and storage space.

The object is to provide personal service as conveniently as possible, Searah said.

The unit was in Pomona Monday and Tuesday. Next Monday it will be at 156 E. Bonita Ave., San Dimas.

On Tuesday and Wednesday it will be at the Ranch Market on Foothill Boulevard in Upland. Later this month, it will be in Cucamonga.

"With the introduction of a mobile service unit, Blue Cross Plan takes another innovative step toward our goal of bringing service to the subscriber," said regional manager Andy Allocco.

Safety tip: Examine toys carefully

Toy-related injuries will wipe out the joy of the holiday season for thousands of youngsters this year. Many accidents can be avoided by heeding some commons sense precautions — especially by hurried shoppers looking for childrens' gifts at the last minute.

The National Easter Seal Society suggests that shoppers take a few minutes to examine a toy before buying. That extra time could save a child from serious injury.

Although most toys on the market are safe for children, thanks to comprehensive safety standards developed by the American toy industry, there still are some that are potentially dangerous.

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission has banned some 1,800 toys in the past three years, most of foreign origin.

Parents can help cut down accidents by providing safe storage space for toys suitable for older children that would be hazardous in the hands of young children.

Most of the estimated 150,000 toy related injuries each year occur through misuse of the toys, lack of guidance and adequate instructions.

—Be sure your child is old enough or sophisticated enough for the toy you choose. Don't give a 6-year-old shooting toys, or a pre-schooler a chemistry set.

—Beware of rough or sharp edges on toys and stay away from toddlers' toys that come apart easily — those tiny parts can choke a child.

—When shopping for an infant, be sure the toy is unbreakable and too big to fit in the child's mouth. A broken piece of plastic can do great damage to a youngsters eyes or ears.

—Check all electric toys to be sure that both the cord and the toy itself have UL (Underwriters Laboratory) approval.

—Finally, teach your child to use his toys wisely. Go over the instructions with him and be sure he knows how to enjoy the gift safely.

Aisenson takes over new job

Los Angeles Municipal Court Judge David J. Aisenson, who won the office of Pomona Superior Court Judge Robert M. Takasugi in last November's runoff election, has been sworn in by a longtime friend, retired Superior Court Judge Kenneth N. Chantry.

The ceremony took place in Los Angeles in the chambers of the presiding judge.

Aisenson was elected to a six-year term to succeed Takasugi who accepted an appointment to the U.S. court bench given him by President Ford. After the election, Gov. Brown appointed Aisenson to complete the unexpired portion of Takasugi's term. Aisenson's elected term will commence in January.

Despite the fact that Aisenson won Takasugi's office, he was not assigned to the Pomona Courts Building.

L.A. County supervisors will pay for county's parade float

The Board of Supervisors will foot the bill, after all, for an official county float being built for the Los Angeles County Fair Association.

But approval barely sneaked through the board at 3-2 Tuesday as Supervisors James Hayes and Baxter Ward tried to stop the subsidy in their quest to cut county spending.

The rest of the board passed a motion by Supervisor Peter Schabarum to reimburse the fair association for $8,600, the money the group has laid out to build the float and enter it in the New Year Rose Parade in Pasadena.

The fair association has been highlighting the county with an official county float for years.

This year the float will be built by Herrin-Presten of Pasadena, a contractor, and will highlight the theme "The Good Life." The exhibit, entitled "Our Fine Feathered Friends," will call attention to the efforts of the supervisors to preserve open land for the protection of wildlife throughout the county.

The exhibit itself will show two large birds perched on the branches of a tree.

Most of the commitments for the construction of the float, including the entry fee, were made before the county undertook its current austerity program last September, and Schabarum told his colleagues that the fair association had acted in good faith, anticipating county support the same as in past years.

Fictitious name statements due by end of year

Thousands of California business owners stand to lose certain legal rights at the end of this year if they fail to comply with a state law enacted in 1971.

The 1971 law requires all persons who operate businesses under a fictitious name to publicly identify themselves by filing fictitious name statements with their county clerks and publishing the statements in a qualified newspaper of general circulation.

In addition, the law requires every business owner to refile a new statement with the county clerk at five year intervals. If the information on the refiled statement differs from that of the previous statement, the owner must also re-publish his statement in a newspaper which, according to law, should be circulated in the area where the business is conducted. The final month for refiling of statements first filed in 1971 is this present month of December.

Business owners who do not keep their fictitious business name statement in effect may not maintain court actions upon or account of any contract made, or transaction had, in the fictitious business name.

Furthermore, the law establishes a rebuttable presumption in favor of the first person to file a fictitious business name statement that such person has the exclusive right to use as a trade name that fictitious business name, as well as any confusingly similar trade name, in the county in which the statement is filed. This benefit is lost if the fictitious business name statement is permitted to expire at the end of the five-year period.

The Progress Bulletin will make all necessary filing and publication forms available at its offices as a service to local business owners and attorneys.

In addition, the Progress Bulletin will accept fictitious business name statements for filing or refiling at its offices and will arrange to have these statements filed at the office of the county clerk.

Through its affiliation with the California Newspaper Service Bureau, Inc., a statewide public notice clearinghouse, the Progress Bulletin also can arrange for necessary filing and publication in all other cities and counties throughout California.

Pomona school seeks male teachers

Palo Alto Preschools at 1173 San Bernardino Ave., Pomona, is one private school in a group of 22 in California, Arizona, Colorado and Hawaii actively attempting to involve men in preschool teaching.

Mrs. Candi Anderson is the newly appointed director at the Pomona school which serves some 50 children ranging from 2½ to 6 years of age.

Others on her staff are Floriana Hanna, assistant director, and Michelle Kirkland, Karen Redwine, Jeri Appleby and Adriana Figari, teachers.

Mrs. Anderson holds an Early Childhood Development degree from Chaffey College. She was a teacher and the assistant director before being named director. In addition to her preschool responsibilities, she works in the Pomona Unified School District's exploratory work program.

Bill Coleman is area director for the Palo Alto Educational Systems, Inc., headquartered in Scottsdale, Ariz. Keith Stephens is vice president and senior executive officer.

"We have made particular effort in the past two years to hire at least one male teacher per school," said Stephens. "We utilize men like Coleman as administrators and consultants. We are seeing more children from single parent (usually mother) homes, and we feel that school should provide a consistent male figure to give balance to the child's life."

Mrs. Anderson said the Pomona school had had men on its staff in the past (the school is four years old), but currently has an all-woman staff.

"We're always looking for good men teachers," she said.

Palo Alto's consultant, Dr. Charles Hobbs, recently conducted a training seminar for staff members which Mrs. Anderson attended. He is the author of "The Power of Teaching With New Techniques." He helped each seminar delegate formulate a time management program in clearly defined goals.

Tom Larsen is president and co-founder of the schools.

Revolver found in school locker

An unloaded .357 Magnum revolver was found in the locker of an unidentified female student at La Puerta Intermediate School in Claremont Wednesday, police reported.

The discovery was made by school authorities after they had been informed that the girl had been showing the weapon to friends.

The girl was suspended from school for a week after both she and her father, to whom the pistol belong, were cautioned by police.

Donnelly elected to CSBA board

Pomona Unified School District trustee Don L. Donnelly has been elected to the board of directors of the California School Boards Association.

A member of CSBA's delegate assembly for six years, Donnelly was named director of region 14 (Los Angeles County) at the recent joint fall conference of the Association of California School Administrators and the CSBA held last week in San Diego.

Of the 20 statewide regions, regions 13 and 14 cover Los Angeles County representing 95 school districts and more than 500 members of boards of education. Glendale attorney Sheldon Baker is director of region 13.

Donnelly said one of the major tasks facing CSBA this coming year will be the resolution of school financing, the Serrano-Priest decision, which is expected to have major impact on the method of financing local districts through local property taxes.

Put housewives on the labor market?

NEW BRUNSWICK, N.J. (AP) — Housewives should exchange services and pay each other salaries so they can cash in on employment benefits like Social Security and tax deductions, an economist suggests.

"We have to have the work become market-oriented," contends Dr. Jessie Hartline, a Rutgers University economist who hires housekeepers for the Highland Park home she shares with her husband and two teenage children.

Housewives employed under her plan would pay into Social Security, which would entitle them to pensions, disability pay, survivors' benefits and other advantages, she said.

They also could deduct from their income tax the cost of cleaning materials, Dr. Hartline added, and could claim depreciation on appliances.

"Homemaking is one of the most inefficient productive activities going on today," said Dr. Hartline, a tenured professor specializing in banking and finance. "There's too much to do, so a housewife can't specialize or approach her work in an efficient way."

Housewives could even form corporations with their families or with other housewives, she said.

"There are similar corporations now," she said, "but they're owned by men. You call them up and they send one of their employes to clean your house."

Dr. Hartline said response to her ideas has ranged from "crumpled-up, chewed-up dollars from old ladies to help me in my work." to "male chauvinist letters written by women, who think I'm terrible for proposing that their husbands be forced to pay for their work.

"Mostly, the wild mail that leaps off the page at me is written by men. A lot of the letters ask me who's supposed to pay for all of this, and accuse me of trying to make the country Socialist."

But former governor says he would veto it

Son should sign death penalty bill

SACRAMENTO (AP) — Former Gov. Edmund Brown Sr. thinks his son should sign a death penalty bill that meets U.S. Supreme Court requirements.

But the elder Brown, a death penalty foe, said Wednesday that he would veto such a measure if he were still in office.

"That's a paradoxical statement, but that's the way I feel about it," the former governor said in a telephone interview.

The state Supreme Court struck down California's death penalty Tuesday, ruling that it did not allow courts to consider mitigating circumstances in deciding defendants' fates for certain types of murder.

That action, which the state court said was dictated by U.S Supreme Court rulings, spared the lives of most, if not all, of the 65 men and two women on Death Row in California.

It also prompted death penalty supporters in the legislature to say they would introduce legislation to enact a law meeting U.S Supreme Court requirements.

If such a bill "passes by an overwhelming vote he should sign it because the people have already indicated they want it," Brown said of his son, the current governor.

"If he believes it is constitutional I think he ought to follow the dictates of the people."

Brown was referring to a 1972 ballot measure approved by voters by a 2-1 margin. It allowed the legislature to reinstitute the death penalty after it was struck down by the state Supreme Court on grounds that it was cruel and unusual punishment.

Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. had no comment after Tuesday's ruling, but he has expressed opposition to capital punishment in the past.

He picketed outside San Quentin Prison in 1967 when the last inmate was executed in California, and several years earlier he urged his father to stay the execution of Caryl Chessman.

The elder Brown said he had no idea what his son would do if a new death penalty bill reached his desk, but he said he would veto such a measure "because I feel very strongly about it.

"He picketed the last execution in California," he said of his son. "But I think he's tougher on law enforcement than I am. I think he is more severe in his judgment of human beings than I am.

"He's right and I'm wrong but I can't help it."

Game warden

The first game warden in the United States was William Alden Smith of Grand Rapids, Mich. He was appointed on March 15, 1887, "to enforce the statutes of this state for the preservation of moose, wapiti, deer, birds and fish."

DIAMOND LIL — The smiling face and diamond rings belong to Mrs. Lillian Lawrenson. After Jan. 20 she may be out of a job — providing the President with take-out hamburgers.

Ford not only loses W.H.— Lil's hamburgers, as well

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pity Lil. Like so many others in this nervous town, Lil already knows the hardship that the great and awesome transfer of government will work upon her.

For 2½ years, Lil has served her country in a most personal way. Her duty, of course, will end Jan. 20. After that, who knows? A philosophic sort, Lil accepts the future with equanimity.

Lil — Lillian Lawrenson — runs the carry-out joint where President Ford orders up his hamburgers.

"I don't need to be rich," Lil said, with a bored toss of a diamond-encrusted hand. "That's been the secret of my success. Small profit, big volume. Besides, I'll have a surprise for everybody on inauguration day. My menu will ..."

Hold it, Lil. Does President Ford really send out for hamburgers?

"A black limousine half a block long pulls up on Saturdays and the chauffeur comes in for hamburgers. Sometimes two or three limousines are out in front, from the State Department, the World Bank. The White House is just down the street, you know.

"If the chauffeur says they're for the President, they're for the President. Why not? My hamburgers are ... presidential!"

That's as good a description as any, though adjectives such as innovative and vivacious and attractive and, yes, honest, would also serve.

They would serve to describe Lil Lawrenson, too. What a dame.

Lil would not mind that definition at all. "I'm a feminine woman," she said. "Not a feminist. I've raised three children but I hate changing diapers. I'm a good wife, but I can't stay home and be a housewife. When I passed 50 I began describing myself as a sexy senior citizen.

"And this is the gospel truth. My husband and my kids have orders not to put me in any box when I die. When I die, scatter my ashes over the Las Vegas Strip. If I come back, I want to be right in the middle of the action."

Lil Lawrenson.

Her notions of senior citizenship, however, are premature. In appearence, she's a slender 40 with beauty-parlored hair and wide, wet brown eyes, a chain talker given to dangly earrings and sparkly hand and wrist baubles. She's a calliope in the oboe section.

But she stands out in a more significant way, too, in these days when behavioral scientists are using words like "apathy" and "disenchantment."

Lil, for example, does not hire people to work in her various hamburger joints, her "Diamond Lil's" saloon, her "Red Lion" restaurant. She adopts them. Last Thanksgiving, she had 23 for dinner at her country place in southern Maryland.

Some of her employes have, well, been in trouble. They need a chance, and get it. Some of her customers are down on their luck. They need credit, and get it. Others need simply a meal, and get it, free, because Lil's mother taught her: "If someone is hungry, feed him."

Lil grew up in the Hard Times, in Boston, and has worked all her life. She got a job in Washington as a night club hostess, bought out the owners, went broke, learned a lesson, paid her debts, opened a restaurant, made a go of it, bought the hamburger joint down the street, changed its name to the "Bon Apetit" and spread her fame to 1600 Pennsylvania Ave.

Maybe it's the decor that attracts the bullet-proof limousine — red walls, white ceiling, blue floor — but not likely. The place, literally a basement, is a clutter of soft drink cases, crowded shelves, and George Washington University students who know a good deal when they taste one.

Her burgers go for $1 to $2. Pour your own coffee. Fetch your own soft drink. Pay as you leave.

Lil's menu is a charbroiled travelogue. The Acapulco, with guacamole and tomato. The Greek Maiden, with fetta cheese and black olives. The Left Bank, with mushrooms. The Steak Uno Momento. Be patient, it takes a while.

And which exotic treat does the President opt for, as they say in this town?

"I don't know," said Lil. "It's always a big order, a variety.

"But I'm ready for the next administration. We serve a burger with cream cheese and walnuts. Why not peanuts?

"I could name it the Miss Lillian. After me."

The unlucky expert had caught us again. This time there was a smile of triumph on his usual dour face as he told us his tale.

"My partner's double of four spades kept me from bidding five clubs where I would only have been set one trick. True, his doubles aren't always sound, but this one would have been if he had known how to defend. Just let him shift to a club at trick two and we would have been sure of a trick in each suit, but he continued hearts.

"South ruffed and led a spade. My partner won and led a third heart. South ruffed again, led a spade to dummy, ruffed dummy's last heart and played ace and another club. I was on lead and could not afford to play a club. That would give South a ruff and discard and allow him to get out without losing a diamond trick."

At this point we interrupted and said, "Judging by the expression on your face you led the queen of diamonds rather than a small one whereupon South won in dummy and finessed against the jack that he thought you were holding."

Our right-hand opponent has opened one notrump and partner has raised him to three.

We open our third best spade. This may be a losing play, but it represents our best chance to defeat this contract. Partner has some good cards and the only place we can help him is in the spade suit.

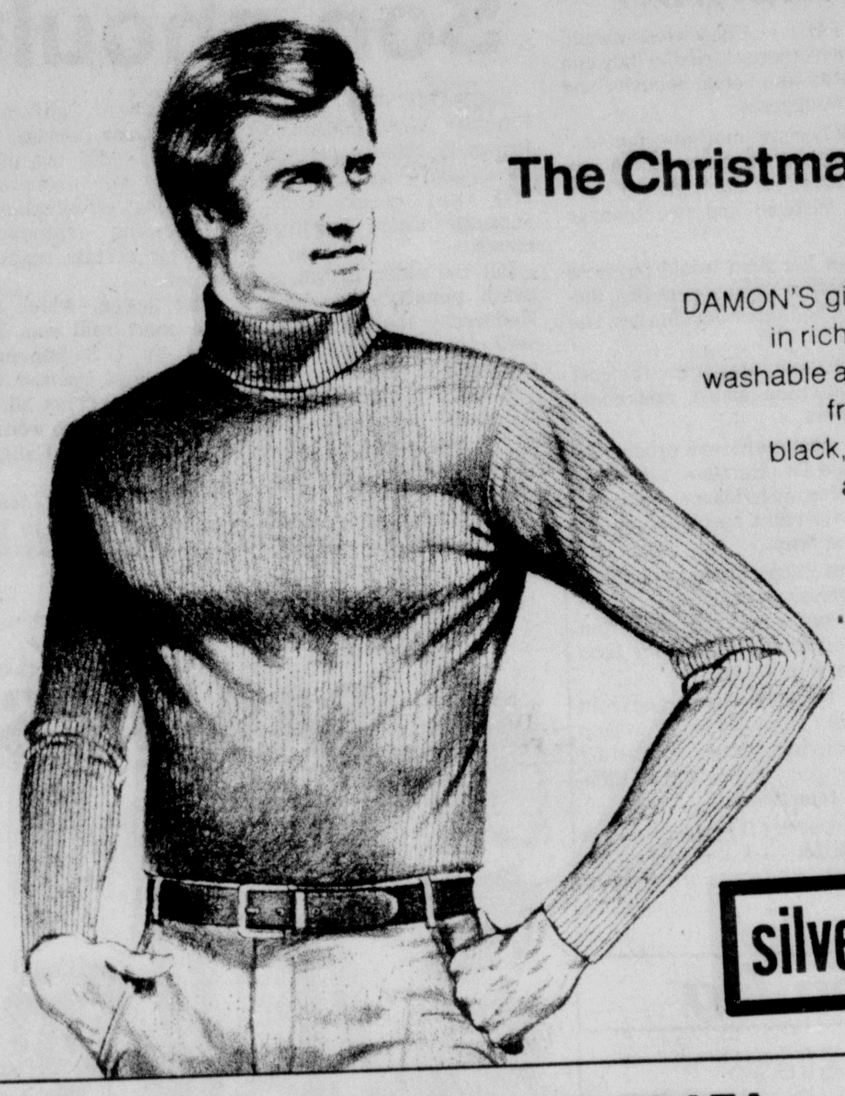

Greyhound lashes out at Amtrak

PASADENA (AP) — A bus company spokesman, saying taxpayers are the victims of "the great American train robbery," has lashed out at federal subsidies for Amtrak's Los Angeles to San Diego route.

"How would you like your competition to always operate at a loss, receive federal subsidies paid for by your tax dollars and undercut your rates and fares?" said Charles D. Kirkpatrick, marketing chief for Greyhound Lines, Inc., at a press conference Wednesday.

He said that Amtrak was losing more than $1 million a day across the nation, and is expected to lose some $8 million on the Southern California line in 1977.

Kirpatrick called for a new federal approach to transportation, saying that a policy is needed which wouldn't "continually drain millions of federal tax dollars away from other vitally needed areas."

Almanac

Fri., Dec. 10 Today in History By The Associated Press

Today is Friday, Dec. 10, the 345th day of 1976. There are 21 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1898, a treaty was signed in Paris officially ending the Spanish-American War and ceding the Philippines, Puerto Rico and Guam to the United States.

On this date —

In 1520, Martin Luther publicly burned the Papal Bull excommunicating him from the Roman Catholic Church.

In 1817, Mississippi became the 20th state of the Union.

In 1896, the Swedish chemist and philanthropist Alfred Nobel died. The first Nobel Peace Prize was awarded in 1901, on the fifth anniversary of his death.

In 1913, Leonardo da Vinci's Mona Lisa was recovered, two years after its theft from the Louvre in Paris.

In 1941, in the Pacific War, Japanese planes sank two British battleships in the South China Sea.

In 1964, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. became the 12th American to win the Nobel Peace Prize.

Ten years ago today: Algeria agreed to an American proposal to try to arrange Vietnam peace talks.

Five years ago: David Packard resigned as the Deputy Defense Chief in the Nixon Administration.

One year ago: The House Select Committee on Intelligence withdrew its recommedation that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger be held in contempt of Congress for withholding subpoenaed documents on covert operations in foreign countries.

Today's birthday: Actress Dorothy Lamour is 62.

Thought for today: Half the accidents happen in the kitchen, and usually the husband has to eat them. — Anonymous.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, in Paris, the British insisted that France not recognize the American envoy, Benjamin Franklin, describing Franklin as an emissary of rebels.

Some progress in Russ fight for human rights

EDITOR'S NOTE: One year ago Friday, Soviet physicist Andrei D. Sakharov was awarded the Nobel Peace Prize for his decade-long struggle on behalf of human rights. On the eve of the first anniversary of that award, he reviewed what has happened in that year.

MOSCOW (AP) — Andrei D. Sakharov, 1975 Nobel Peace Prize laureate, said Thursday there has been some progress in the struggle for individual freedom in the Soviet Union. But he said there has been no letup in government pressure against him and other dissidents in the year since he was awarded the prize.

On Dec. 10 last year, Sakharov's wife accepted the Nobel prize on his behalf because the Soviet Union refused to let him travel to Oslo. On Thursday, the 55-year-old nuclear physicist and political dissident talked with The Associated Press about what has happened since then. He was interviewed in the bedroom of his modest two-room flat.

Sakharov cited as progress in the human rights fight what he said was a change in the "psychological atmosphere" in the Soviet Union, brought about by scientific and philosophical seminars, art exhibits and concerts held in private apartments without official approval.

"The single most important event was the organization of a group to help fulfill the Helsinki agreements in the U.S.S.R., headed by Yuri Orlov," Sakharov said. "It is addressing itself to the problems of court and psychiatric repressions, the situations in the camps and prisons, the suppression of religious groups, national discrimination against the Crimean Tartars, the violations of national cultures in the republics, the problems of emigration and reunification of families."

The Helsinki agreement, endorsed by the Soviet Union, the United States and many other countries, in effect ratified Europe's post-World War II boundaries as permanent while calling for a freer flow of information, people and ideas between East and West and for human rights improvements in Warsaw Pact nations.

Despite the improvement he cited, Sakharov said he has become increasingly worn down by continued official condemnation and by his responsibilities as the No. 1 spokesman for dissent in this country. While vowing to continue his campaign, he said he welcomed the influx of younger people into the civil rights movement to help share the burden.

Sakharov also said he looks to the future for himself and his family "with great anxieties." He did not elaborate. He said he doubted he will be allowed to travel abroad "for the long-time future."

Excerpts from the questions and answers in the interview follow:

Q—What effect has the Nobel award had on your life and work in what is called the "democratic movement"?

A—It has been contradictory and contrasting. The influence of public opinion has been very important and very positive. Yet all this year, the authorities seemed to ignore my changed public status and increased public authority. As before, I was not permitted to attend (dissident) trials ... as before, my overseas telephone and mail communications were cut off throughout the year.

Q—How has your private life been in the past year?

A—For the first 10½ months, I had no residential permit, no official permission to live here (in Moscow). Pressure on our family certainly continues. Attacks in the press are one form of this pressure. My son-in-law is still without a job in what is, in fact, official pressure on our close and loving family. My friends are constantly being harassed. Besides the effect on them, this is another way of getting at me.

Q—You and others in the dissident movement here is the only hope for liberalization. Aren't there limits to such pressure, beyond which a backlash from the authorities can result?

A—I believe that pressure on the Soviet Union is absolutely necessary to guarantee a bare minimum of human and political freedoms, without which one cannot speak about ideological detente and without which no international trust is possible. I define that "limit" only in terms of the problems which must be solved. When you apply pressure, you must be prepared to accept the consequences. If the pressure is weakened, we run the risk of losing what has already been achieved. In a word, it is a struggle, and in a struggle difficulties are inevitable.

Q—It seems that in the past year you have somewhat curtailed your activity, or at least your public visibility. You have a heart condition. How long can you keep up your work and how do you view your future?

A—I don't know. I live according to life's needs, according to life's demands. This year was very hard for our family in a personal way. And beside that, I must admit that fatigue, after many years of public activity for which I am psychologically ill-prepared, has affected me. Nevertheless, I would not say that I have put my hands in my lap, and I do not intend to do so.

I look into the future with great anxieties, especially for members of my family. I am grateful for the invitations from the West, and I would be very glad to accept them. I had hoped it would be for a visit and not emigration, but this seems to be out of the question.

What will Rams do in playoffs?

Which Rams team will we see in the playoffs?

Will it be the one that averaged just 20.9 points a game in the first nine contests or will it be the one that has averaged 35.7 in the last four?

It comes as no surprise that the nearly 15-points-a-game improvement is coincidental with the installation of Pat Haden at quarterback.

But coach Chuck Knox has opened up his attack in the last four games and the combination of the two has produced the higher scores.

According to the players that were questioned, owner Carroll Rosenbloom had a talk with Knox about the drab running attack.

It may have been only a coincidence, but since then we have seen Ram signal callers throw more often and throw deep far more often. There have also been "flea flickers and double flea flickers.

Haden, of course, has been the catalyst. the young Rhodes Scholar is already the best of the trio of signal callers at reading defenses.

Hence he calls more audibles and the offense goes better. He also is a quicker and smarter runner.

It wouldn't be surprising if neither James Harris nor Ron Jaworski return next year. Unless they are willing to be the second and third string quarterbacks, both will probably play elsewhere.

Jaworski on option

Harris will have to be dealt away. But Jaworski is playing out his option this year. Jaworski apparently turned down a multi-year contract with huge salary increases last August because the Rams wouldn't guarantee him the number one job.

Now the "Polish Rifle" has apparently dropped back behind Harris. Playing against New Orleans two weeks ago, Jaworski let fly a long bomb that Harold Jackson dropped at the Saints' 20-yard line.

Jaworski clapped his hands to his head in a demonstration of frustration. One of the unwritten laws in pro sports is don't show up your teammate and the demonstration did not go unnoticed.

Last Sunday when Haden was relieved, it was Harris, not Jaworski that got the call first. Harris got in nearly a quarter and a half of playing time while Jaworski got only two minutes.

Despite an impressive showing, 130 yards and a touchdown on four completions, Harris probably insured his place as a backup quarterback.

The big (6-4, 215 pounds) signal caller twice forced his passes when he was under heavy pressure. One was intercepted and the other nearly was picked off. Haden either goes to a secondary receiver or scrambles in such instances.

As a result Haden usually gains yardage rather than losing ground or coughing up the ball.

If over caution doesn't lay hold of Knox again when the Rams start playoff action, the Rams will score their share of points.

49ers blundered

HERE 'N THERE — The colossal blunder of the San Francisco 49ers in the Jim Plunkett deal still seems unbelieveable.

The 49ers, you know, gave up three first round draft choices and reserve quarterback Tom Owen plus a second-round choice. With Plunkett playing like he is damaged merchandise, that was bad enough.

But other facets of the deal have since surfaced. San Francisco also agreed that New England could select two players from the 49ers (in addition to Owen) if there is no college draft next year (And unless the owners reach a new agreement with the players association there won't be. There hasn't been an agreement for two years.)

For some incredible reason, the 49ers agreed that if there is no draft next year, they will protect Plunkett and three other players and New England can select two from the rest!

That means the 49ers couldn't even protect their defensive line of ends Tommy Hart and Cedric Hardman plus tackles Cleveland Elam and Jimmy Webb.

Other highly protectable 49ers are running backs Delvin Williams and Wilbur Jackson, wide receivers Gene Washington and Willie McGee. You can see where the Patriots could reap a harvest.

Oakland's high scoring Raiders have not been noted for their defense this season. In their first nine games of which they won eight, the Raiders scored only 11 more points than their opponents. But in their last four, the margin is 78 points.

Saints ready for biggest test

By JIM McCONNELL
PB Staff Writer

LANCASTER — San Dimas High will be playing the biggest football game of its young history here tonight, as the Saints take on top-seeded Antelope Valley High in the semifinals of the CIF 2A playoffs.

The Saints, under coach Bob Baiz, take an 11-1-0 season mark into tonight's contest. Antelope Valley stands at 11-0-1 for the year.

Gametime is set for 8 p.m. at the Antelope Valley High football stadium. That facility is located on North Division Street in Lancaster.

The contest with the powerful Antelopes figures to be the Saints' roughest test of the season to this point, as they will be facing a team which has outscored foes 124-35 in registering three straight playoff wins.

Of course, the Saints have also posted three playoff victories in a row to reach tonight's semifinal contest, thus becoming the first valley team since Bonita High in 1970 to reach the semis in CIF grid playoff action.

"I feel tonight's game is probably going to be for the 2A title," Saint mentor Baiz claims. "I don't think either Aviation or Norte Vista (the two other remaining 2A squads) are quite as good as Antelope Valley or ourselves."

Baiz, whose team enters the game in the role of underdogs for one of the few times this year, is optimistic about his squad's chances, with one qualification.

"No team has stopped our offense this year and I don't think Antelope Valley will. We are capable of scoring three touchdowns on them if we don't make any critical mistakes.

"Our defense will be the key. We have not played that well on defense in our last two games, and we will have to play to our ability and beyond to stop Antelope Valley."

The Saint defensive unit may have more to worry about than just containing the potent Antelope Valley attack tonight. Baiz noted that his squad's defensive star, tackle Sonny LaFargue, is still limping from a twisted ankle suffered last week vs. Agoura. The Saint skipper lists LaFargue, the Hacienda League's Defensive Player of the Year, as a doubtful starter tonight, which could really tax a Saint defense which will be up against a very large and quick AVHS offensive squad.

Antelope Valley averages over 200 pounds per man on both its offensive and defensive lines. The Antelopes were tied by Kennedy of Barstow, 14-14, the only blemish on an otherwise near-perfect season for the Golden League champs.

The Antelopes opened CIF play by blasting Workman 48-13, then bounced Channel Islands 34-16 and Esperanza 42-6. Those are some impressive point totals, but Baiz feels those scores are a bit misleading.

"We saw their game films, and they led Channel Islands only 20-16 with five minutes to go before Channel Islands tried to catch up and gave up two cheap touchdowns," Baiz said. "Also, when they played Esperanza, Esperanza's two top players were out of the game with injuries. Esperanza didn't play that poorly, but Antelope Valley took advantage of every Esperanza mistake."

The Antelope Valley offense is led by quarterback Ed t'Sas. He has two of the top runners in the 2A Division running behind him, in fleet halfback Bill Hilliker and bull-strong fullback Lee D'Errico.

The San Dimas running game is at full strength, with fullback Bob Pleasant seemingly getter stronger with each outing. Pleasant ripped through the Agoura defense for 247 yards last week and now has over 1,600 yards rushing for the year and 21 touchdowns.

Halfback Perry Aris was shaken up a bit vs. Agoura but figures to be ready to go tonight. Aris has right around 1,000 yards rushing for the year since taking over for the injured Fred Carter in the third game of the year.

The Saints will be quarterbacked by Ed Hargett. Other offensive starters would include wide receivers Bernard Galvan and Steve Campbell, tight end Charlie Bradstreet, center Sean O'Brien, tackles Dave Garrison and Steve Evans and guards Bob Tatalovich and LaFargue (if healthy).

On defense, the Saint starting 11 will be ends Tony Bertagna and Mike Nunley, tackles John Seltun and Keith Smith, linebackers John Veloz, Doug Gates and Steve Coulter and defensive backs Fred Brubaker, Richard Morris andAris.

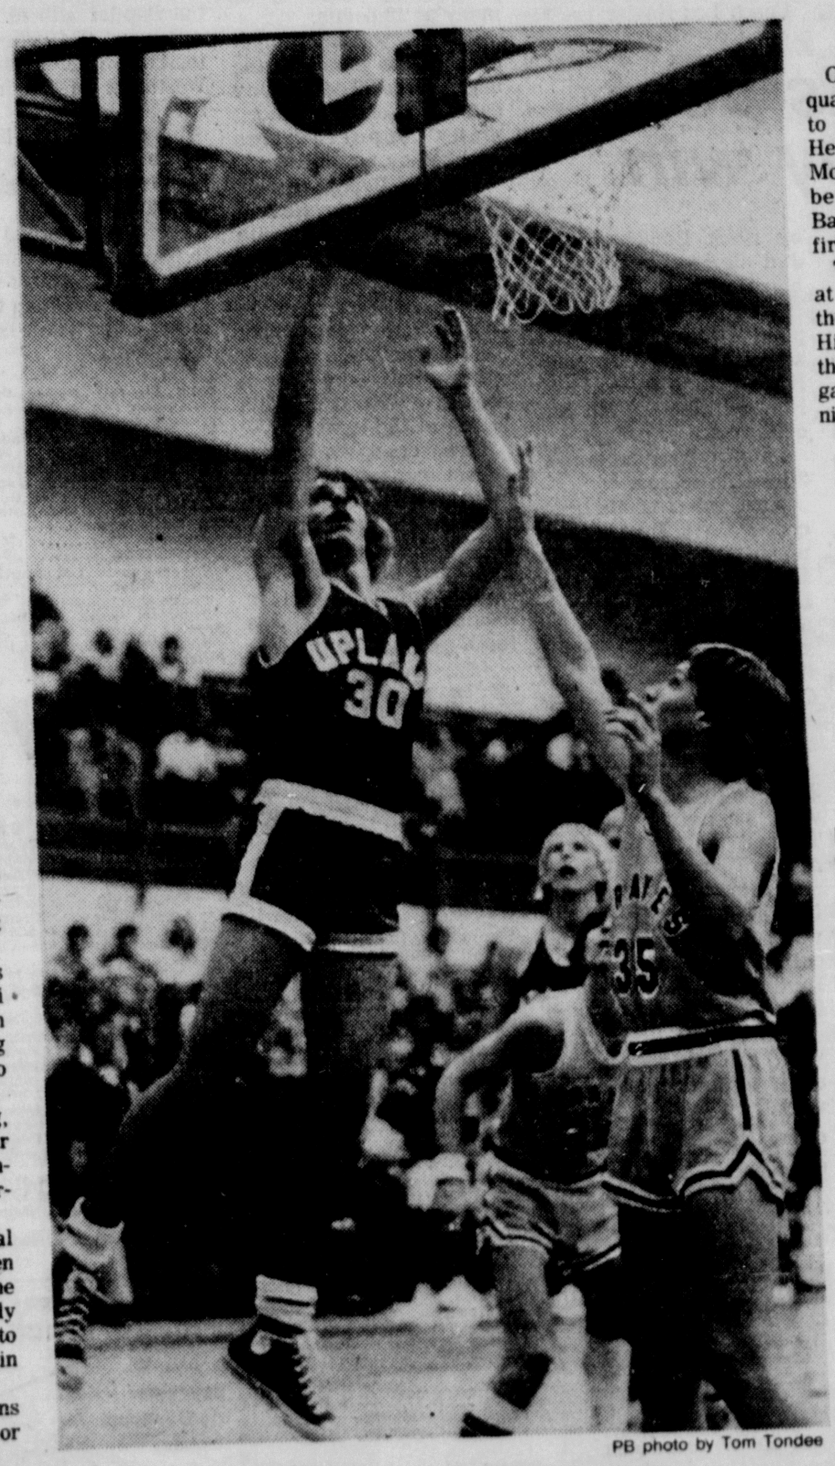

Baiz' assistant coaches are Mark Olsen, Don Warhurst, Jim Castanon and Dave Ensminger.

Ontario High broke a fourth-quarter tie with Wilson and held on to beat the team from Hacienda Heights, 56-50, Thursday night at Montclair High, thereby gaining a berth in the Upland-Montclair Basketball Tournament finals for the first time since 1970.

The Jaguars (3-1) will face Upland at the Cavalier gym tonight at 8 for the tournament championship. The Highlanders downed Alta Loma by the same 56-50 score in the semifinal game at Upland's gym Thursday night.

Championship finals
Upland vs. Ontario, 8 p.m.

Preceding tonight's title game will be the consolation finals between Ganesha and Duarte at 6:30 p.m.

Garey was scheduled to meet Montclair this afternoon at 3:15 in the fourth-place game, and Alta Loma was set to play Wilson for third place at 4:45 p.m.

Montclair is the site for all four of today's games.

Ganesha beat Northview, 74-59, and Montclair topped Pomona, 68-55, in Thursday's non-championship bracket games at the Cavalier gym.

Ontario also faced Upland in that 1970 championship game, and the Highlanders triumphed in overtime, 79-70. But that was much too long ago to make any difference tonight.

"We scrimmaged Upland this year," said Ontario coach Larry Larson, "and we didn't do very well against them.

"But I know our kids were hoping we'd get Upland in the finals if we won. We'd just as soon wait until Hacienda League play starts to see Alta Loma."

The Jaguars looked as though they might run away with the game against Wilson Thursday night.

They jumped out to a 17-9 lead after a quarter and increased their lead to 14 points, 24-10, midway through the second period.

But the Wildcats battled back to tie the game at 36, and entered the fourth quarter dead even (38-38).

The game was last tied at 42, but then Ontario's John Donaldson, a 6-foot-5 junior who had sat out much of the third quarter with foul trouble, scored after a rebound and again on a jump shot half a minute later to give Ontario a 46-42-lead with 3:30 to play.

Wilson pulled to within two points, 50-48, with 46 seconds left, but four free throws by Otis Manning and two by Mickey Donaldson, John's older brother, kept the Wildcats at bay.

"We had a big letdown in the third quarter (Wilson outscored the Jags, 18-12, in that period)," said Larson, "but the kids showed they could come back after a letdown. Mickey and John Donaldson both played very well."

John scored 16 points and grabbed 19 rebounds while Mickey came up with 15 points and 14 boards.

Ganesha (2-2) used a 67-39 edge in rebounding to dismantle Northview, though the Vikings stayed close through intermission (31-30).

James Verdon led the Giants with 26 rebounds — 17 of them in the second half — and 12 points. Sophomore Floyd Williams had 12 points and 11 boards and 6-10 center George Hawthorne came off the bench for 17 points and 10 rebounds.

But Ganesha coach Gary Fulkerson was anything but pleased.

"I wasn't happy with the game at all," Fulkerson said. "This team plays without any intensity. Our guys seem to have the attitude that, when the time comes, they'll have what it takes. I'm trying to tell them that the time is now."

The Giants seemed a little more spirited in the second half than in the first. They outscored the Vikings, 43-29, through the final two periods, and allowed them just one field goal in the fourth quarter, when Ganesha guard James Dowe scored eight of his 12 points.

In the first clash of the season between two San Antonio League schools, Montclair (3-2) dominated Pomona (1-4) execpt for the first three minutes of the second half.

The Red Devils were trailing 34-26 when they broke for intermission, but they quickly tied the score at 34 to open the second half and took the lead at one point, 38-36.

But the Cavaliers shut out the Devils for the final 5:37 of the third quarter, which ended 47-38 in favor of Montclair. The Cavs built their lead to as much as 18 points before Pomona scored the game's final five points.

Montclair center Bruce LaVallee scored 24 points and caught 12 rebounds and teammate Darrin Pierce added 22 points and seven caroms.

Floyd Mixon and Kevin Sanders led Pomona with 14 and 12 points respectively.

"Well, we've already won three games," said Lanny Moore, coach of the Cavaliers. "One more and we'll equal last year." (Montclair was 4-19 last season.)

"I think we'll win another one," Moore smiled.

Upland seeks third crown

By MARK GRIP

Upland High prevented an all-Hacienda League final in the Upland-Montclair Tournament by downing Alta Loma 56-50 to advance to finals of its own tourney.

In other action Thursday at the Upland gym, Garey edged Nogales 74-73 while Duarte ousted Claremont 81-52.

Upland will clash with Ontario in the finals tonight at Montclair High at 8 p.m. Earlier today, Garey was scheduled to meet Montclair at 3:15 p.m., and Alta Loma and Wilson played for third place at 4:45. Ganesha and Duarte will do battle at 6 for the consolation title. All games today are at Montclair High.

Upland will be trying to win the 17th annual event for the third year in the tourney's history. The Highlanders won the tourney two consecutive years in 1969 and 1970. First the Highlanders must beat a tough Ontario squad that downed Wilson by the identical 56-50 score.

Upland did not have an easy time with Alta Loma before a large crowd that roared with every break. The Highlanders got revenge for themselves and their fans for a 56-52 loss to the Braves last week at Upland.

Upland went into the game as the San Antonio League's only hope of reaching the finals and emerges with a 3-1 record.

The two teams played to a standoff for the first eight minutes all knotted up at 16 points apiece. Brave center Rich Davis tossed in eight points in the quarter to lead the Braves.

In the low-scoring second quarter which saw nine turnovers between the teams, Alta Loma grabbed a four-point at intermission, 28-24.

In the third period, Upland stormed back behind Steve Davenport's eight points to a four-point lead of its own at 42-38.

In the fourth quarter Alta Loma(4-1) tied the score with three minutes to play at 46 each.Upland poured in eight straight points before Alta Loma could score with 31 seconds left in the game and went on to win by six.

The six-foot-10 center Davis scored 18 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked five shots (four in the second quarter).

Nogales just missed beating Garey with a half-second left in the game, but Viking Craig Snider blocked Demitrius Howard's four-foot jump shot as time ran out.

Garey saw a nine-point lead(70-61) with three minutes to go diminish into a near loss. The Nobles stormed back to tie it at 70 with 1:52 remaining. After Garey scored four quick points, Nogales countered with three points in the last 28 seconds, but fell short in the final second.

Nogales took early leads of 24-18 at the first period and 40-29 at halftime. Garey came back to lead by one after three quarters, 55-54.

Viking center James Lofton led all scorers with 22 points in addition to blocking four shots and hauling down 13 rebounds. Al Clay and Herbi Banks each had 16 points while "Bird" Snider hauled down 13 rebounds and blocked three shots.

Noble center Greg Coleman tossed in 18 points to lead his team and grabbed 14 caroms.

The Falcons opened to a 10-point lead at halftime(37-27), a 15-point margin after three quarters (56-41) and ended the game on top by 29.

Duarte's five-foot-eight guard Manual Crump went wild in pouring in 35 points followed by Claremont's Ray Kwiatek with 23 points and Derek Britton with 17. Britton also hauled in 16 rebounds and blocked two shots.

Baseball seeks Washington team

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Major league baseball extended a tentative, if weak, hand in the direction of Washington, D.C., today in an obvious effort to placate an impatient Congress.

Again, baseball has proposed a fragmented schedule for Washington, whereby the Baltimore Orioles of the American League would play some of their home games in RFK Stadium in the nation's capital starting in 1978.

Commissioner Bowie Kuhn made the announcement Thursday night, then immediately left for Washington to meet today with the Select House Committee on Professional Sports. The committee was expected to make a recommendation today to Congress that baseball lose its exemption from antitrust laws, a privilege it always has enjoyed.

There has been strong political pressure put on baseball to return the sport to Washington, from which it last withdrew after the 1971 season. And Kuhn has long been urging that Washington land a franchise.

Calling it "the most appropriate method of providing baseball to Washington, D.C.," both the National and American leagues proposed that Baltimore play a "suitable" amount of games in the nation's capital, plus the presidential opening game, the All-Star game every three years and exhibitions.

If that plan fails, the National League cleared the way for either an existing National or American League team to move to Washington. That would seem to be an open invitation for Charles O. Finley to move his troubled Oakland A's AL franchise to Washington. But the cantakerous owner steadfastly insists he will not be going to Washington.

If an American League club were to move to the National, that would give each league 13 teams. Charles Feeney, the National League president, said in that case, there would have to be interleague play.

Meanwhile, the NL extended Feeney's contract for two years. He has held the post since 1969.

There was only one trade involving major league teams Thursday. The Atlanta Braves obtained slugging outfielder Jeff Burroughs, the AL's 1974 Most Valuable Player, from the Texas Rangers in exchange for five players. They were outfielders Ken Henderson and Dave May and pitchers Roger Moret, Carl Morton and Adrian Devine.

With the interleague trading deadline ending at midnight PST, 32 players have been traded in 11 deals this week. There will be another interleague trading period from Feb. 15-March 15.

In his closing announcement, Kuhn said, "Both leagues adopted resolutions that reflect a positive attitude for solution of the Washington situation."

Dodgers bid for Monday

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Los Angeles Dodgers are close to a trade that would send four players to the Chicago Cubs for centerfielder Rick Monday and right-handed pitcher Bill Bonham, a newspaper report says.

The San Bernardino Sun-Telegram reported today that the Dodgers have offered left-handed pitcher Doug Rau, centerfielder Dusty Baker, second baseman Lee Lacy and shortstop Ivan DeJesus to the Cubs for Monday and Bonham.

The report, quoting a "highly placed spokesman" for the Dodgers, said Chicago was holding up the deal by demanding a fifth player, but that the trade could be made today.

Monday, who gained much attention last season when he retrieved a flag that a spectator was attempting to burn on the field at Dodger Stadium, hit .272 with 32 home runs and 72 runs batted in for the Cubs in 1976. Bonham had a 9-13 record with a 4.27 earned run average.

Rau posted the second-best ERA in the National League last season, but reportedly was asking a much higher price for his services for 1977.

'Hens scare Cal Baptist

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

If Cal Baptist coach Floyd Evans proves correct, there may not be any reason to even hold basketball competition this winter in the NAIA District Three.

The Lancers from Riverside are coming off a 28-4 season in which they won the District championship and advanced to the second round at the NAIA finals in Kansas City.

But Evans lost four starters from that unit.

Apparently, it won't matter.

"This team will be better than last year," Evans boldly predicted Thursday night. "We have more rugged physical talent this year and good quickness. We're just not consistent yet because of so many new people. But potentially we can be even better."

If that's the case, Pomona-Pitzer can have the satisfaction of also realizing it has one of the best basketball teams in the District.

The Sagehens gave Cal Baptist all it could handle at Memorial Gym Thursday night in a frustrating 64-63 loss.

It's not surprising Pomona is tough this year. Coach Les Nagler has his six top players from last year back plus a valuable transfer.

"I really feel bad for the team to come so close in a game they wanted to win so much and not coming out on top," Nagler said.

Pomona enjoyed a 37-36 halftime advantage and extended it to a three-point margin when sophomore center Ed McFadden opened the second half with a basket.

But it proved to be the last Sagehen lead of the night.

Cal Baptist roared back with 10 unanswered points in jumping ahead by as many as 12 points.

Pomona was able to get back in the game but the Sagehens could never quite catch up despite having many opportunities wrecked by turnovers.

With Cal Baptist leading 61-59, Pomona had a chance to tie the score with a basket but the Lancers' Stan Oldham stole the ball and drove the length of the court for two points which iced the victory.

The final score was a result of Scott Pease's basket at the buzzer.

Turnovers spoiled an excellent game with the two teams combining for 53 infractions (27 for Cal Baptist and one less for Pomona).

Pomona shot well in making 28 of 50 field goals for 57 per cent but its free throw shooting of 7-of-15 was a big reason for the one-point loss.

Cal Baptist (6-2) shot 47 per cent in making 27 of 58 shots but the Lancers made up for that by sinking 10 of 14 free throws.

The Lancers also enjoyed a 36-31 rebounding edge.

McFadden and senior forward Brandon Boyd, who became the fifth Sagehen in the school's history to surpass 1,000 career points Tuesday night, led Pomona with 16 points apiece, Guard Rick Bauer, the only returning starter, led Cal Baptist with 16.

Pomona (3-4) will return to action Saturday night at Westmont in Santa Barbara.

In games tonight, La Verne (1-3) visits Point Loma in San Diego and Claremont-Mudd (1-4) travels to Thousand Oaks to play Cal Lutheran.

Saturday games have Point Loma visiting Claremont and La Verne hosting Cal Baptist.

Knights post tourney win

Ontario Christian High opened play in the Western Christian Tourney Thursday night by downing Excelsior 75-63.

The other locals in the tourney didn't fare as well, as host Western Christian downed Webb School 55-39 and Valley Christian dumped La Verne Lutheran 81-51.

Ontario Christian will play Montclair Prep (a first-round winner over Bosco Tech) tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the championship bracket of the tourney. Webb will tangle with La Verne Lutheran in a consolation contest at 5 p.m. All tourney games are at the Western gym.

In other prep action Thursday night, Chaffey was ousted from the Arroyo Tourney by a 53-43 score by Whittier, while American Christian won its opener in the Riverside Christian Tourney by a 52-49 count over Hesperia Christian.

American will play tonight in the winner's bracket vs. Liberty Christian.

Other tourneys of local interest on tap include San Dimas and Damien opening play in the San Dimas Tourney and Walnut going for the consolation crown in the Garden Grove Tourney.

The Knights were paced by Hank Bouwman and Jim Berkompas in their big win over Excelsior. Bouwman poured in 26 points while Berkompas added 12 and teammate Pete Verhoeven 11. Hershell McMann led Excelsior with 19 points.

Ontario Christian is now 2-1 on the season.

Webb got 12 points from center Kerry Tims but not much else in losing to Western. La Verne Lutheran suffered through a horrid 28 percent shooting night from the floor in its loss to Valley Christian. Webb is now 0-4 on the year while Lutheran is 3-1.

Chaffey's Randy Johnston paced all scorers with 17 points in the Tigers' outing in the Arroyo Tourney, but he did not receive much help from his mates. Steve Snell was next for Chaffey with only six markers. Brad Brycans led Whittier with 14 points.

Chaffey is now 1-3 on the year, and will be out of cage action until next week.

Nahan to join KNBC sports

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Stu Nahan will join the KNBC-TV sports staff Jan. 10, station officials announced Thursday.

Nahan, who has reported sports at KABC-TV for the past nine years, will appear on the 5 p.m. news with Jess Marlow and the 11 p.m. news with John Schubeck.

Nahan's arrival will bring the Channel 4 sports team to full strength after the departure of Ross Porter, who is joining the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Kicking around

With Adrian Mercado and Willie Keo

ANOTHER COLLEGE SOCCER SEASON has passed into history. Locally nobody made national headlines but the caliber of play was improved (how could it miss with all the kids playing the game these days?). There were moments of elation such as when UCLA defeated the NCAA Cup-laden St. Louis University team on its west coast tour, and Cal State Fullerton came within moments of sacking San Jose State's nationally-ranked juggernaut. That 5-4 clash was the season's thriller at Santa Ana Bowl.

Due to a late cancellation, we didn't get to see defending NCAA champ U of San Francisco in games vs Pomona-Pitzer and Fullerton. Bearing the name of the Dons of early California rancho history, the San Franciscans hit a stumbling block or two in a 1-1 tie with St. Louis, and a couple losses but when the chips were down Steve Negoesco's conglomerated team (from Africa, Norway and the U.S.) reversed an earlier loss to San Jose and put the Spartans out in the playoff game that put the Dons into the final four at Philly last week.

San Francisco carried Far West's flag; Indiana downed St. Louis and Southern Illinois to hoist the Midwest banner; Clemson climbed Howard and Philly Tedtile to represent Confederate colors and Hartwick became standard-bearer for the East . . . setting the stage for the four-team bash.

When the Philadelphia smoke cleared it was San Francisco who made off with the NCAA Division One title . . . for the second year in a row. Semifinals saw USF taking Clemson 1-0, and Indiana topped Hartwick 2-1 to earn a place vs USF in the championship game.

It was the Far West flag that was flown when USF defeated the Midwest's Indiana 1-0 in the grand final. Absolutely no doubt as to the dominating college team these days . . . with USF copping two straight NCAA crowns . . . and adding a U.S. Open Cup in 1976 in addition with the USF team serving as the nucleus of the Open Champs. There is no title tougher to win than the U.S. Open Cup. If you don't believe it . . . try it. You may not like it. One loss and you're kaput!

THE LOOK-BACK AT COLLEGE '76: Univ. of San Francisco, champs of Div. One; Loyola of Baltimore, tops in Div. Two; Brandeis of Massachusetts, Div. Three titlists; Meramec Community College of St. Louis, winners of the National Junior College diadem (St. Louis STARS' star Pat McBride coaching there); and Simon Fraser University of Burnaby, British Columbia wearers of the NAIA corona.

Sectionally, titles went to San Francisco of Far West; Loyola of Baltimore; Brandeis of Boston; Meramec of St. Louis and Simon Fraser of the Pacific Northwest . . . or from a British Columbia point of view . . . from the Pacific Southwest.

Attendances were not overwhelming at the finals due both to weather conditions at Seattle, Philly, Elizabethtown (Pa) and the lack of local favorites for fans to root for. The Jr. finals at Miami had both fine temps and Miami-Dade in action, and the NAIA had perfect California clime and the beautifully-grassed Rose Bowl . . . the latter seeing a 7,000 crowd at the AYSO and Coke sponsored final atwixt Simon Fraser and Rockhurst of K.C.

The NASL faces a similar problem in pre-selecting sites for the championships without regard to just who will be in the championship games. The lack of pre-game "friendliness" by the media makes it difficult to promote cold events. Nothing new about that problem. It seems to be soccer's bag. The nation-wide showing of the English First Division games on TV is a foot-in-the-door of breaking into media notice. Mario Machado's Dec. 12 espousement of the foot-art features traditionally famous Aston Villa vs Tottenham Hotsuprs . . . two of the three clubs who ever won the famed English Double . . . the English League and Association Cup in same season. Villa did it way back in 1897, and Spurs in 1961, and Arsenal just five years ago. So don't fail to tune into KCET TV (Channel 28) Sunday at 6:30 p.m. to see the Vills take on the Hots. The feedback we get is that many readers of KICKIN' AROUND have sent in their opinions to the station almost assuring the continuation of the games for the duration of the season and right on through to the FA Cup. What's more, there is even talk of renewing the series next season . . . your card or letter may just be the deciding force toward a favorable decision. So, sockeroos, kick in the TV 1977 season with your note to KCET 4400 Sunset Drive, L.A. 90027.

CHRISTMAS TIME IS ESPECIALLY MEANINGFUL when ol' friends get together and this year a good friend of KICKIN' AROUND will be visiting the Southland. We are refering to Joe Marcus, veteran New York Post soccer writer whose new book "The World of Pele" is now on sale at Pickwicks in this area.

Joe is a straight shooter whose Long Island parlay is a earthy as Canarsie and has had the fortune of traveling with O' Rei Pele throughout the U.S. to bring to his readers the story of the man who, while on tour in Africa, brought a temporary truce between Nigeria and Biafra so that both sides could see him play.

Star Soccer has invited Joe to provide the commentary for the Birmingham City vs. Sunderland game which will be seen locally on Sunday the 26th of December as well as in the nearly 200 other PBS stations throughout the U.S. . . . another example of soccer boosters pulling together to promote a good cause.

THE THIRD MATCH IN THE PRELIMINARY qualifying round for the 1978 World Cup in Argentina will be played on Wednesday evening, December 22, 1976 at Sylvio-Cator Stadium in Port-Au-Prince, Haiti.

The decision to play this match in a neutral country was reached at a meeting of the FIFA World Cup Organizing Committee on November 28th and 29th in Buenos Aires, Argentina.

U.S. National team coach, Walter Chyzowych, assembled his squad this week to begin training. A series of tune-up matches are presently being negotiated. We'll keep you posted.

AYSO, WITH ITS NEAR 104,000 MEMBERS, has literally busted its seams at its present headquarters in Torrance. AYSO started a dozen years ago with approximately 125 players and a dream of getting the American youngsters interested in the world's national pastime.

The "Everyone Plays" philosophy, coupled with the newly discovered pleasure derived from kicking the eye-catching black and white leather sphere, spread like fire on a high chaparral. And now one of those early dreamers, Hans Stierle, AYSO's Executive Director, will be overseeing the move of its present headquarters to more spacious accommodations in Inglewood (Manchester Ave. near the San Diego Fwy.).

Two of the many new projects that are being finalized at the present time are the opening of AYSO Summer Camps and the licensing of the AYSO logo to be used by Voit Corp. on every soccer ball sold in the U.S.

A tip o' ye olde KICKIN' AROUND hat to Hans and his dedicated office staff as well as to President Ron Ricleffs and his hard working Board for generating the output required — qualitative and quantitative — to expose American youngsters to this great international game called soccer.

No doubt about it; AYSO is having another bumper crop year. "Staff" has apparently developed excellent plans and the "Field Generals," the Regional Commissioners, under the watchful eye of the Area Directors are winning decisive battles in this, the new soccer revolution.

Biggest JC game nears

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Whatever happens in Saturday's Junior Rose Bowl, the opposing coaches are in agreement on one score.

"We feel like it's the biggest junior college football game in the country," said Vern Thomsen, coach of the unbeaten and top-ranked Panthers of Ellsworth College in Iowa.

"The whole town is in a frenzy because we're playing in the Junior Rose Bowl," said Gerry Collis, coach of the Bakersfield College Renegades, who bring a 10-1 record into the contest matching the nation's No. 1 and 2 ranked community college teams.

The contest will be the 22nd edition of the Junior Rose Bowl, and it will also be a renewal of the event, which had not been played since 1966. It was discontinued when the California Community Colleges elected to go with a system of state playoff games.

The year, however, the Los Angeles Times decided to revive the game and the California Community Colleges and the National Junior College Athletic Association gave the newspaper the go-ahead.

Ellsworth was chosen on the basis of its outstanding record, and it was decided that the winner of last Saturday's Potato Bowl, matching Bakersfield and College of the Sequoias, would represent California. Bakersfield won 27-8 to earn the trip to Pasadena.

The Junior Rose Bowl would at first appear to be a David and Goliath match. Ellsworth has a student body of only 825, while Bakersfield's enrollment, nearly 8,000, is some 1,000 more than the population of the town, Iowa Falls, where Ellsworth is located.

But those figures are misleading. Ellsworth, eyed by Big Eight schools as a training ground, has six starters and 10 other players on the roster who are from out of state.

And while Ellsworth's enrollment is small, its football numbers are quite the opposite — like 43 points per game and 315 yards rushing and another 159 through the air during an average outing.

"They look tremendous on film," said Collis. "Sakes alive, those boys are bigger than USC."

Ellsworth, which operates out of the Veer, features an extremely well-balanced offense. Milton Turner has rushed for 889 yards this season while Maurice Jackson has gained 813. Quarterback Walter Grant has thrown for 1,299 yards, hitting 73 of 163 for 13 touchdowns. He's also rushed for 354 yards and 10 touchdowns.

Grant's two favorite receivers, Willie Lewis and Greg Smith, both are exceptionally quick. Lewis has caught 31 passes for 585 yards and six scores, while Smith has grabbed 26 for 370 yards and five touchdowns.

Bakersfield, which uses the Power-I formation, also features a balanced attack, with Steve Denman and Terry Stokes giving the Renegades a 1-2 punch at quarterback, while Don Cossey and Mike Kelley spearhead the Bakersfield rushing game.

Gary Blackford, the Renegades' top rusher this season with 663 yards on 181 carries, is injured, however, and doubtful for the game.

A crowd of some 35,000 is expected for the 1 p.m. PDT kickoff in the Rose Bowl.

McAdoo still has to agree

NEW YORK (AP) — The long, sometimes bitter negotiations that brought three-time National Basketball Association scoring champion Bob McAdoo to the New York Knicks from Buffalo finally are over. But now the Knicks have to negotiate all over again—with McAdoo.

The struggling Knicks, who have been playing sub-.500 ball this season and before thousands of empty seats nearly every game in Madison Square Garden, acquired the coveted McAdoo, a lithe 6-foot-10 center-forward, and reserve forward Tom McMillen from the Braves Thursday night from the Braves for center-forward John Gianelli and a reported $3 million.

The deal was consummated only one day after it appeared that the trade was dead and Buffalo co-owner Paul Snyder had said he would try to sign McAdoo to a new contract. Also, McAdoo's agent, Bill Madden, had said Wednesday that the Knicks "were definitely out of this thing."

McAdoo, the Braves' No 1 pick in the 1972 draft, the NBA's Rookie of the Year in 1972-73 and the league's Most Valuable Player Award winner in 1974-75, is in the final year of a five-year contract worth $400,000—$200,000 in cash and $200,000 in deferred payments.

Now, the Knicks have to sign him and reportedly will give him a five-year contract worth $500,000 per year. They also will pick up his deferred payments—which the Braves did not want to do—starting in 1988.

However, if the Knicks do not sign him, he becomes a free agent at the end of the season.

When the Knicks will be able to use him, however, is questionable.

McAdoo suffered a pulled groin muscle Wednesday night during Buffalo's game against the Philadelphia 76ers and his status for New York's next game—at home against Phoenix Saturday night—is uncertain.

When they do activate him— and McMillen—the Knicks will be one over the NBA player limit of 12.

"We're going to do something immediately," said Eddie Donovan, the Knicks' general manager. "We're looking for a trade. If we don't find one, we'll probably put somebody on waivers."

That might not be necessary. Forward Spencer Haywood, the Knicks' highest scoring frontcourt player, has calcium deposits of the knee and might require surgery, forcing him onto the disabled list.

Holtz couldn't take professional football

HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — For Lou Holtz, who loved the college life, the dream of coaching a pro team in New York turned out to be a nightmare. And the prospect of four more years with the Jets was more than he could bear.

"Lou Holtz is not made for professional football," said the affable 39-year-old blond with the horn-rimmed glasses and a penchant for speaking his mind. "I can't give professional football my heart. God did not put Lou Holtz on this earth for that."

So the miracle worker from North Carolina State, who could not work his magic in the Big Apple, cast a soulful look toward Arkansas Thursday—and the $100,000-a-year contract he had signed last Feb. 10 came to an abrupt end four years before its expiration date.

The Jets have one more game to play this National Football League season and are expected to end it the way they ended 1975, with a 3-11 record— the worst in their history. Mike Holovak, director of scouting and, since midseason, offensive backfield coach, will direct them Sunday against heavily favored Cincinnati.

Holtz' ambition is to become head coach at the University of Arkansas, where Frank Broyles has stepped aside to spend all his time as athletic director. "If Arkansas would be interested in talking to me, I would be interested in talking to them," Holtz said.

Arkansas is interested. Dr. Charles Bishop, the university's president, said Broyles had contacted Holtz. Bishop also said he would rely heavily on Broyles' judgment in filling the post and called Holtz the "kind of man we would like to hire."

Holtz was expected to be in Arkansas later today, Broyles said, strengthening speculation he will be the next head coach of the Razorbacks.

"I've been talking to him, but he's never been available until yesterday," said Broyles, adding that if Holtz is offered the job and if he accepts, a news conference would be scheduled for Saturday.

Long Beach hopes to get shot at USC

LOS ANGELES — Unbeatens Long Beach State and Grambling threaten USC's domination of the Trojan Basketball Classic when the Trojans host their four-team tournament tonight and Saturday at the Sports Arena.

Bob Boyd's Trojan teams have won all four previous Classics, which are held every two years. But USC must get by a pair of outstanding teams in Long Beach, off to a 3-0 start and rated 13th nationally in Basketball News pre-season rankings, and Grambling, also 5-0 after a 22-9 season last year.

The Trojans will face Grambling in first round action tonight at 9 p.m. Long Beach meets Butler (2-3) in the tournament opener at 7 p.m.

Winners of the first round matchups will tangle for the Classic championship Saturday night at 9 after the two losers meet for third place at 7.

"Our tournament will have good local appeal with Long Beach's participation," said Boyd. "There is the natural curiosity of a pairing of USC and Long Beach. Grambling, with its national following, also should be a good attraction and has a successful program."

USC and Long Beach have never met, and neither have the Trojans and Grambling.

"Long Beach has a very strong team this year," Boyd added. "And Jim Hefner (a Trojan assistant coach) scouted Grambling and was very impressed, especially with one player (Terry Sykes), who is a very fine athlete."

Althought Boyd's team is only 1-3 this season, the Trojan coach is not counting his team out this weekend.

Sports briefs

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. — Ernesto Perez Acosta of Mexico and Kuo-Chie-Hsiung of Taiwan fired three-under par 69's and shared the individual lead after the first round of the World Cup International golf tournament. Scotland's Brian Barnes and Sam Torrance combined for a 143 and a one-stroke margin over the United States duo of Jerry Pate and Dave Stockton in the team competition.

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Wesley Cheek Ferrell, a 20-game winner twice in his 15-year major league baseball pitching career, died Thursday at Sarasota Memorial Hospital. He was 68 years old.

Ferrell's career included stints for the Brooklyn Dodgers, Boston Braves, Boston Red Sox, Washington Senators, New York Yankees and Cleveland Indians beginning in 1927 and ending after the 1941 season.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Southern California's All American running back Ricky Bell was honored Thursday as winner of the Voit Memorial Trophy in voting for the Pacific Coast's outstanding collegiate football player.

Bell polled four times the votes of runner-up Jeff Dankworth, quarterback for UCLA. On the basis of 5-3-1 tabulation for first, second and third place ballots, Bell had 120 points and Dankworth 31.

Stanford's defensive end Duncan McColl and Washington State quarterback Jack Thompson had 27 and 15 respectively to take the third and fourth positions.

CARSON (AP) — Despite a threatened boycott, the Cal State-Dominguez Hills basketball team turned out for practice under their new coach Thursday after talking to the school president.

Dr. Donald Gerth, the president, discussed the over-all situation with players and they went from his office to the gym.

Al Pompey was fired Wednesday as coach after his team had posted a 0—4 record with unimpressive performances. Athletic Director Michael Kolsky replaced him.

VAL D'ISERE, France (AP) — Steve Mahre, 19, in his second year on the U.S. National Ski team, won the World Cup giant slalom race of the "First Snow" ski tournament today.

Mahre, of White Pass, Wash., held off a strong challenge from Sweden's World Cup champion Ingemar Stenmark to finish a clear winner in each of the two runs and chalk up the first World Cup victory of his career.

WASHINGTON — The staff of the House sports committee has recommended that baseball be placed under the antitrust laws like the other professional sports such as football, basketball snd hockey.

MELBOURNE, Australia — Betty Stove of The Netherlands joined Australia's Margaret Court in the semifinals of an international tournament when she defeated American Janet Newberry 6-2, 6-1.

SAN MATEO, Calif. — Direct Kiss, $23.20, copped the feature at Bay Meadows, beating Topping Star by three-quarters of a length.

NEW YORK — Turn and Count, $4, took the lead in the stretch and scored a two-length victory over Bess' Boy in the $25,000 Magic Lamp Purse at Aqueduct.

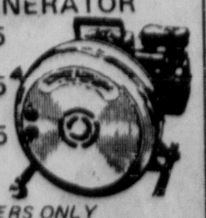

CHICAGO — Ingrain Debut, $12.80, edged Helen's Music by a neck in winning the $5,850 Bertha's Best Purse at Sportsman's Park.

Rewards await anglers at Perris Reservoir

Six hundred dollars has been planted in Perris Reservoir and is swimming around waiting to be claimed by lucky anglers, the Department of Fish and Game said today.

The money is in the form of $5 reward tags affixed to 120 channel catfish that were stocked in the lake Nov. 22 by DFG biologists.

The plant was part of a total stocking of 6,300 channel cats ranging in length from seven to nine inches. All of the fish were raised at the DFG's Imperial Warmwater Hatchery near the southeast shore of the Salton Sea.

The tagging program is part of a DFG study to determine the catch rate of catfish planted in the fall as compared with those planted in the spring. Of the 120 tagged catfish released into Perris last March, 17 per cent have been caught to date by anglers who turned in their tags and claimed the reward.

It's a matter of spending money to save more money, says Ken Aasen, DFG biologist in charge of the project. If it is learned that the angler gets a good return on catfish planted in the fall it could save the DFG the added cost of feeding and maintaining the fish at the hatchery during the winter in order to plant them in the spring.

There would still be enough catfish in the hatchery to provide a spring stocking, Aasen noted. The warmwater hatchery annually raises up to 50,000 catchable-sized channel catfish for stocking in suitable California waters.

The catfish tagging program has been conducted over the past two years in both Perris and Castaic reservoirs, Aasen said. To date, 480 tagged channel catfish have been released, 240 in each reservoir.

Of the 120 tagged fish released into Castaic in the early spring of 1975, there has been a 40 per cent return to the angler so far. Of the 120 released in November 1975, 20 per cent have been caught by fortunate anglers.

Puddingstone to host boat races

The Southern California Speedboat Club will hold the first annual Frank G. Bonelli Puddingstone Regatta Saturday at the San Dimas facility.

There will be races for 15 classes of sprint boats and hydroplanes. Races will start at 10 a.m. Saturday, and parking will be $1 for the event.

Each race will run four laps on the one-and-one-fourth mile Puddingstone course.

Locals entered include Terry Turner of Pomona, Truett Beal of San Dimas, John Dickerson of Upland, Ken Dorn of San Dimas, Elmer Williams of Alta Loma, Ted Bert of Upland and Glenn Gill of Montclair.

THE BIG CATCH — Sally Rice of Hawaii stands by her big catch, a 1,053-pound black marlin caught off Cairns, North Queensland, Australia recently. The catch is claimed to be a world record. It was landed on 80-pound fishing line.

Band-tails scarce for season opener

The season on band-tailed pigeons in most of California opens Saturday, but prospects for the hunter appear less than good, according to reports from wardens who patrol the traditional hot spots.

Don't blame the food supply. Berries and nuts are reported quite abundant except for the Mt. Pinos area of Ventura County, where pine nuts are coming up empty.

"They look good," said Capt. Robert Prosser of Ojai, "but they're empty. It may be due to an early freeze or lack of moisture. Even the squirrels are having a tough time."

Elsewhere food is plentiful, perhaps too plentiful to concentrate the pigeons, according to wildlife biologist Rod Goss of Sacramento, the department's authority on the band-tail.

Goss said results appeared to have been good during the early hunt Oct. 2-Oct. 17, in the northern counties of the state.

"At least that is what our bag counts showed," Goss said. "I also received 900 wings from early season hunters."

Goss explained he was conducting a survey of band-tailed pigeon wings to determine age and populations. Hunters are asked to send Goss a wing from each bird they shoot. To make it easy, postage-paid, addressed envelopes are available from the Sacramento or Long Beach offices of the Department of Fish and Game, or from wardens or wildlife managers in the field.

Goss said he also plans to make bag counts in the field during the season which begins Saturday. Most likely his work will be centered in Monterey County, traditionally one of the state's best hunting areas for band-tails.

Goss said the wings taken in northern California during the early season indicated a large juvenile population.

Band-tailed pigeons, he noted, live to a ripe old age as far as birds go. The mourning dove, for example, has a life expectancy of less than a year, while a pigeon, including the common pigeon, or as it is more correctly called, the rock dove, may have a life expectancy of from 10 to 15 years or more.

Goss said he has known pigeons to exist in captivity for as many as 15 years. He said it is not unusual for bands to be returned to him from birds he first banded eight or ten years ago.

This year, Goss said, he had little trouble finding enough birds to band. This spring he ground-trapped and banded 500 birds each in the Truckee and San Mateo areas, and he also banded 900 birds in Humboldt County.

"We know we have plenty of resident birds," Goss said. He noted that he had received reports of birds breeding in the Mt. Baldy area of Los Angeles County and in the Cleveland National Forest of San Diego County.

Although band-tailed pigeons are migratory birds, they will not hesitate to go into residence in any locality if there is sufficient food. The following year, however, they may migrate as far north as Washington or Canada.

A typical clutch consists of one or possibly two eggs. Breeding has been known to take place as many as three or four times a year. Goss estimates the yearly mortality rate of the band-tailed pigeon at about 30 to 35 per cent.

The two-week pigeon season, which begins Saturday, concludes the day after Christmas. The daily bag and total possession limit is six.

Trout plant

The following lakes and streams, listed by county, are scheduled for restocking this week with catchable-size rainbow trout from Department of Fish and Game hatcheries:

LOS ANGELES — Crystal Lake, Legg Lake, Puddingstone Reservoir, San Gabriel River (West Fork).

Maps counted

There are more than 3.5 million maps and charts, 38,000 atlases, 250 globes and some 500 three-dimensional relief maps in the Geography and Map Division of the Library of Congress in Washington, D.C.

Bows touted

Benjamin Franklin favored equipping the Continental Army with bows but nothing ever came of his suggestion. He said that a soldier could send off half a dozen arrows in the time it took a Redcoat to load a musket.

Ball set Saturday in Chino

The Southern California Polka Boosters Club will hold its coronation ball Saturday at the DES Hall, 5126 Riverside Drive, Chino.

Bill Swetkar's polka band will play for the dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m. Free polka lessons will be given from 8 to 9 p.m.

Mrs. Marge Fettig and Mrs. Jo Zvada are chairmen for the dance.

Highlight of the evening will be the crowning of the Polka King and Queen for 1977. Marge and George Husa are in charge of the coronation ceremony which is open to the public. Information may be obtained by calling 622-5862.

Keep it clean

Make it a habit to wipe the telephone frequently with a sudsy sponge. Give special attention to the mouthpiece.

Edwards and Noah vows are repeated

United Church of Christ Congregational in Claremont was the setting for the marriage of Miss Andrea Jean Noah, daughter of the George Noahs of San Dimas, to John Thomas Edwards Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Edwards of Carmichael, Calif.

The Rev. Gene Kuebl of Yucaipa read the evening ceremony. A reception followed in the Louise Roberts Room at the church.

Maid of honor was Susan Apkarian and bridesmaids were Gene Hernandez and Kathy Verhoeven. Best man was Jeff Sady and groomsmen were Wayne Redfearn and Dave Painter. Ushers were Dave Maloof and Jerry Levereau. Flower girl and ring bearer were Katie and Patrick Evans.

The bride graduated from Bonita High School in La Verne and from Mt. San Antonio College. She received a B. A. degree from La Verne College where she majored in physical education and biology. She is employed as an insurance agent in Santa Ana.

The groom graduated from Luther Burbank High School and La Verne College. He signed a contract with the Boston Red Sox last June and played in Elmira, N. Y. and Winter Haven, Fla. On the off-season he is employed with Equitable of Iowa as an insurance agent in Santa Ana. The couple honeymooned in San Diego and Newport Beach and are now at home in Pomona.

Hope chapter sets award dinner meet

Members and guests of the Claremont-Montclair Chapter City of Hope will meet at Antonio's, 1542 W. Holt, Ontario, for their holiday party on Dec. 16. Social hour will begin at 7 p.m. A spaghetti dinner will follow. In charge of the evening festivities will be Mrs. Darlene Ryan and Mrs. June Gorman.

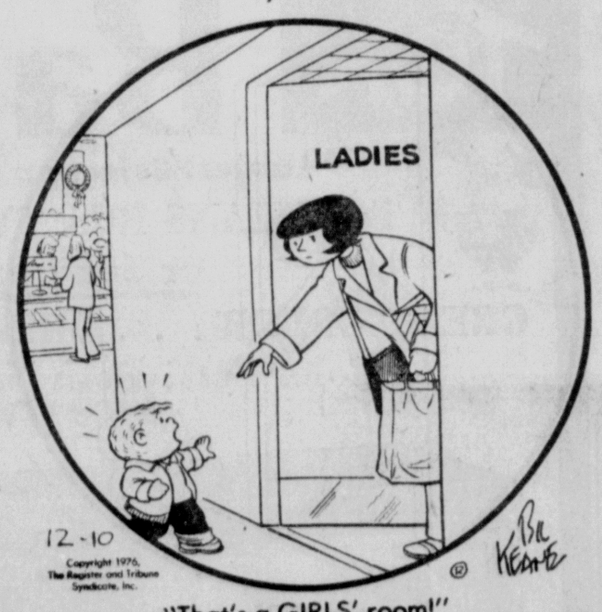

Highlights for the evening will be the "500" medallion award to Opal Cole and Darlene Ryan. This award is given to members who raise $500 and over in one year's time.

The chapter will also present the Outstanding Member of the Year award. The name will be revealed at the dinner.

Instead of the customary gift exchange, the chapter will have its traditional money tree.

The next meeting will be Jan. 30 at the Pines Recreation Room, 9550 Fremont, Montclair, at 8 p.m. Interested persons are asked to contact the membership chairman, Mrs. Voda Ryan, 626-8804. Holiday dinner reservations may also be made with Mrs. Ryan.

Jane Pauley:
At 26 She's Found Room At The Top
In 4 short years she has gone from college senior at Indiana University to co-host of America's Number 1 morning show.
Poor Barbara Walters. Imagine how she must feel, constantly hearing about Jane Pauley — the "new Barbara Walters." It must make her feel like the old Barbara Walters. But who knows anything else about this new girl, except that she's just 26 and looks absolutely glorious? How did she come out of nowhere to get one of the most-sought-after jobs in the country? Just what has she got that no one else has got? Everybody asks about her meteoric rise and all the money she's making. But we talk to her about her fear of failure, the criticism of her peers, and the young man she left back home. We think Jane Pauley takes a look at her life with more style and charm and spunk than we've seen in a long time. And that, like it or not, Barbara Walters is probably going to be hearing a lot more.

ROLLING STONE

Record Reviews

By DAVE MARSH

VARIOUS ARTISTS: "All This and World War Two" (Twentieth Century 2T-522).

What do 28 Beatles songs and World War Two have in common? The movie isn't out yet, but we can guess that they share at least as much as Rod Stewart and Frankie Laine. Stars abound on this soundtrack album — Elton John, Leo Sayer, the Bee Gees, even Helen Reddy — and the songs are all first-rate — how can Lennon-McCartney selections miss? But the London Symphony Orchestra arrangements are often syrupy. Rod Stewart circumvents this brilliantly by adding slide guitar to a remarkable version of "Get Back," Elton John manages to make his "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds" superior to his earlier version; and Roy Wood, Leo Sayer and Bryan Ferry turn in creditable efforts. The big disappointment is Henry Gross, who tames "Help," a chance to prove that he's the rocker he might be rather than the throw-pillow he sometimes seems. Still, there's no reason to this project, and no way to summarize it. But remember: the Christmas season is the biggest record-selling period of the year.

* * *

"PHIL SPECTOR'S CHRISTMAS ALBUM" (Warner-Spector SP 9103).

This album is more than 10-years old, this is its third release and it remains one of the greatest rock albums of all time. All the great Spector artists, including the Ronettes, Crystals and Darlene Love, make appearances, and the sound is utterly fabulous. Sector has always been one of the greatest sentimentalists in the universe, and he reached his peak on "Silent Night." But the real treats are the Crystals' storming "Santa Claus Is Comin' To Town" and Darlene Love's shattering reading of the original "Christmas (Baby Please Come Home)." This is a necessity for almost anyone who loves rock and roll, particularly those old enough to have children.

* * *

LOU REED: "Rock and Roll Heart" (Arista AL 4100).

What would Christmas be without Scrooge? Reed is as weird as ever, and if he really does have what the title claims, it's well hidden. This may rank as the most cynical album ever made, eclipsing even the earlier "Metal Machine Music," if only because Reed bluffs trying on this one. Well, it's like John Lennon said, "One thing you can't hide is when you're crippled inside."

* * *

WILLIE NELSON: "The Troublemaker" (Columbia-Lone Star KC 34112).

His masterpiece, "Red Headed Stranger," is dark and gloomy — Easter music. This is more joyous, a set of hymns that ranges from "When the Roll Is Called Up Yonder" to the original parable, "The Troublemaker," in which Jesus is portrayed as a hippie. A little naive, but the singing is wonderful, and the emotions are real.

Peter Pan to fly on Sunday night

KAYE HOOKED

Danny Kaye as Capt. Hook is terrified by Mia Farrow playing Peter Pan in the NBC-TV program airing at 7:30 Sunday night. The Barrie classic has music by Newley and Bricusse.

NEW YORK (AP) — Danny Kaye insisted he was no child at heart at the age of 63. Not one bit.

"I left my childhood behind 100 years ago," he said. Then he jammed a thumb into his mouth and added with a pregnant pause:

"Arthur J. Malcolm once said that to be a child at heart is to be stupid." And just who is Arthur J. Malcolm?

Silence, and that inevitable twinkle in his eye.

Don't look for that twinkle on NBC Sunday night, however, when Kaye plays a mean old Captain Hook in "Peter Pan."

The "Hallmark Hall of Fame" had stored for a year this brand new version of the classic tale in which Mary Martin and Cyril Ritchard starred for a generation of reruns. The occasion of its broadcast is Hallmark's 25th anniversary on NBC.

Mia Farrow plays the title role, John Gielgud is the narrator and Julie Andrews sings "Once Upon a Bedtime" off camera in a production with 14 new songs by Anthony Newley and Leslie Bricusse.

On his way to Europe for yet another journey on behalf of the United Nations Children's Fund, Kaye allowed that he liked the old production just fine. It reminded him, he said, of crystal radios.

"It looked absolutely primitive," Kaye recalled. "It was TV in its infancy, and they shot it like a stage play."

Wearing a houndstooth sport jacket, dark trousers and white socks, Kaye was alternately outrageous and impish — as always.

No prude in private, he said he nonetheless demands only those roles that might be classed as good clean entertainment.

"This is a standard of mine that is not inflicted on me either by my profession or by my colleagues," he said, waxing serious for a rare moment. "It is a standard I set myself."

He insisted, however, that he would not impose his standards on anyone else. Nor should anyone, he said. His advice ws that individuals who don't like dirty movies or violent TV programs should make a pocketbook protest and simply shouldn't watch them.

"If you want to protest, then don't go and they'll stop making them," he said before lapsing into mirth. "Peter Pan was one of the dirtiest people in the whole world."

This Benjamin Spock of children's entertainment was asked whether he has detected a change in their attitudes.

"Children's attitudes don't change toward things anymore than adults' attitudes change toward things," he scoffed. "Do you think human behavior is any different now than it was 100 years ago?" Replying himself, the onetime Hans Christian Andersen continued:

"People are doing the same things today that they did 50 years ago, only they don't mind as much."

Someone asked him how many Captain Hooks have preceded his.

"How many?" he bellowed, rattling paintings on the paneled walls of an elegant Manhattan restaurant. "There have been 114 Captain Hooks. There were 37 companies playing "Peter Pan" in northern England alone between January and September."

"How the hell do I know how many Captain Hooks there were?"

COOLING OFF

Penny Marshall, left, and Cindy Williams in their roles of Laverne and Shirley, pause for a popsicle during the shooting of their popular television series, an overnight success.

Penny and Cindy stunned by stardom

NEW YORK (AP) — A year ago, who heard of 'em?

Penny Marshall remembers the day: "The audience was half asleep and me and this other girl came on, with 14 pages to do, they didn't know who the heck we were, and it got laughs. And the audience that had sat there three hours, and all of a sudden, 'Well, these two girls,' and I said, 'Wait, it's got something.'"

"Laverne & Shirley" was airborne, mid-season, overnight.

"We were terrified. I mean we were terrified either direction it might take," recalls Cindy Williams, who became Shirley Feeney to Miss Marshall's Laverne DeFazio. "We were certain we were going to go into the toilet."

The sudden success of the ABC-TV series, born of another ABC hit, "Happy Days," has the stars still mystified. "We gave it 13 weeks," says Miss Marshall.

"The phenomena of that kind of popularity where you're before 50 million people one night each week, it's something you dream about when you have inklings of becoming an actress," says Miss Williams, who has a string of movies — "Travels With My Aunt," "American Graffiti," "The Conversation" — to her credit. "And then it happens to you and the dangdest sort of chemical reaction takes place. You love it and at the same time you're frightened of it, scared one day maybe they'll take it away."

"We didn't know whether they'd like us," says Miss Marshall, whose own career included lots of TV work — co-star in "Friends and Lovers" with Paul Sand, appearances in "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," "The Bob Newhart Show," "The Odd Couple," many others.

"To go into a show for two very insecure girls, and the show does hinge on the people liking us, and to say this show will be a hit, first-rate, I mean, I don't feel that. And to be told what makes it is they like you two girls and the girls you are playing ..."

And it was in that frame of mind the girls tackled "Laverne & Shirley Sing," an LP album of "oldies" just out from Atlantic.

"Our reaction to the album was very mixed," says Miss Marshall. "We were working very hard on our show, so the thought of doing an album cut into the time we were devoting to a show and still trying to figure out what the heck we were doing there.

"And we kept saying no on the premise we didn't feel we could sing and, yeah, we didn't have the time to do it."

But Paramount Television was insistent, it would cut a record with songs already done on the show. Penny Marshall and Cindy Williams stepped forward.

"Then I tried to work up some enthusiasm," says Miss Marshall. "I mean, 'Hey, wouldn't it be fun. ... ' I was going to call everyone I knew who ever wrote a song ... just give all our friends, whoever was a frustrated songwriter, a chance, say, 'Hey, we'll sing your songs. Look at us. ... We got asked to sing.'

"It was a little more regimented than that," she remembers. "We were able to get two friends' songs on it ... "

"And make the music worthwhile," says Miss Williams. "I mean, it's better now. They're going to pay the same price and they're going to get a little more."

Says Miss Williams, "We made no bones about it. We knew it was going to go for the children's market."

The co-star agrees: "Yes, the children are our biggest fans. But the songs we're singing are from when I was in junior high, and there are a lot of people my age who remember those songs. And the songs we picked to sing were the songs it was fun to sing."

So Laverne & Shirley cut "Laverne & Shirley Sing" in a couple days. The "oldies" were picked — by the girls — for a variety of reasons: They liked the sound of "Easier Said Than Done" and "Da Do Ron Ron." They wanted a fast one — "I'm Walkin." Some were in "character" — Laverne & Shirley character.

"'Sixteen Reasons' is the biggest thing in character," says Miss Marshall. 'Graduation Days' is in character. 'Gonna Get Along Without You Now' is sort of in character, but not. ... "

"Chapel of Love," "All I Have To Do Is Dream," "I Know" and a couple of new ones, "Five Years On" and "Oh Gee," round out the album.

"There were tunes like 'In The Thrill Of The Night,' 'Will You Love Me Tomorrow?' 'Tears on My Pillow,' a lot of songs that meant more to me that we didn't put on," says Miss Marshall.

They did the record because they had little choice, but Penny Marshall and Cindy Williams did it their way. And though they're pleased with the show's success — and their own popularity — they don't seem to like the notion of a Laverne & Shirley cult.

"You see, Penny and I are identifiable together," Miss Williams says. "I mean, when we're separate, it's a different story. We're a team together. When we're apart, I do other things, Penny does other things. And it's not one person you're focusing on. They don't say, 'Go Shirley.' I don't think that's going to happen."

Haber novel a puzzler

By DICK KLEINER

Joyce Haber's new novel, "The Users," has Hollywood on its ears trying to guess who's who. And Miss Haber says her biggest problem isn't that people identify themselves, but that they're offended because they're not included.

"I get calls, angry calls," she says, "from people who think they should be in it. They want to be part of the book and get mad when they can't find themselves."

"The Users" is one of those books with a Hollywood setting, with all kinds of identifiable people and identifiable stories. And she says the people and the stories are all true.

"Everything," she says, "is based on things I've heard and observed in my years covering Hollywood."

Miss Haber was for a long time the Hollywood columnist for the Los Angeles Times. Then she was fired and she learned an interesting lesson.

"It was an eye-opener," she says, "to see how nice some — but not all — people were to me when I was fired. People like Darryl Zanuck, who appeared at my door the day after the axe fell."

"The Users," in common with others of its type, is a graphic book in terms of sex. Miss Haber had never written anything like it before, and she says it was tough.

"I had to use a dictionary for the pornographic terms," she says. "How many ways did I know to describe various parts of the anatomy? I used a slang dictionary and I went to many libraries. Along the way, I learned that UCLA has the second largest pornographic collection in the world.

"The largest? The Vatican."

SGV symphony sets 'Messiah'

The San Gabriel Valley Symphony and the 100-voice Citrus College Choir will present Handel's "Messiah" in the Citrus College auditorium at 8:30 p.m. Saturday. Tickets are $5 general admission, $2.50 for students.

Ben Bollinger will guest conduct the orchestra and the singing ensemble which he founded. Saturday night's performance is the second concert of the symphony's Golden Anniversary concert season.

BEN BOLLINGER

Bollinger, director of vocal organizations at Citrus College, received his bachelor of music degree from USC. Prior to his affiliation with Citrus, he served as chairman of the fine arts department at Ramona High School, Riverside, and directed the Riverside Chorale. He served as minister of music at Hollywood Presbyterian Church until recently when he resigned to become director of music at Glenkirk Presbyterian Church, Glendora. In addition to directing the Citrus day and evening choir, Bollinger directs the Chamber Singers and teaches voice and conducting in the Citrus College department of music.

Soloists during the evening's performance are Mike Reynolds, tenor; Jan Bollinger, soprano; Mary Ann Brazzel, contralto, and Andrew Wentzel, bass baritone.

Labrador

Labrador, in northeastern Canada, got its name by mistake when early cartographers accidentally transferred the name from a portion of the coast of Greenland which had been visited by Portuguese landowner (''lavrador'') Joao Fagundes sometime between 1492 and 1495.

DENVER IN COLORADO — "John Denver's Rocky Mountain Christmas," an hour-long special, will be seen on ABC-TV at 8 p.m. Tuesday. The show was taped in Aspen, Colo.

VCT plans extra show

The VCTeens, youth auxiliary of Valley Community Theater, Pomona, will present a special matinee of the current production, "Alice in Wonderland," at 1 p.m. Sunday.

Regular performances of the Lewis Carroll classic will be offered at 8:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday for two more weekends.

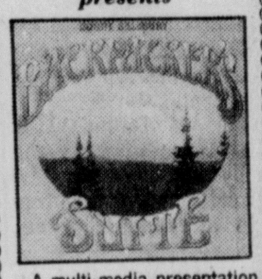

The theater is at 132 E. Third St. Reservations can be made by calling 622-6954.

Social club

Samuel de Champlain created the Order of the Good Time, the oldest social club in North America.

BOYS WILL BE GIRLS — These muscular ballerinos are members of Les Ballets Trockadero de Monte Carlo, which will perform Dec. 26 through 29 in the Pavilion of the Los Angeles Music Center.

Lincoln Avenue Church

CB radio provides unexpected income tax deductions for some

By INK DIPPER

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Ink Dipper, KYZ-3916, is the handle of the editor of the CB Times-Journal.)

You've lived through it before. The date is April 13, and the time is midnight.

In the last four hours, you've breathed through half a pack of cigarettes and floated your bladder in six cups of coffee. On the table in front of you are stacks of bank statements, checks and receipts.

You've claimed all possible deductions and are about to sign the form and put it in an envelope with a painfully written check.

Before you seal that envelope, though, think a minute. Can you make one more deduction because of your CB radio?

Now that may sound a little like deducting some expense associated with your vibrating recliner. But a CB can provide a real deduction for many CBers.

Of course, the suggestions we offer aren't solid. Nothing surrounding tax law really is. Some attorneys build great fortunes every time there's a major rewrite in the federal tax laws. And the Internal Revenue Service is the last place to find firm answers.

A few years ago, one financial publication asked five different IRS offices the same question about a tax problem and received five different answers.

So what we have here are generally suggested practices and not the Gospel.

If you use that CB as a member of a volunteer fire department, volunteer rescue squad or civil defense unit and are not paid for the services, then you can probably take a deduction if the set is required to get to the scene of the emergency.

It's considered an asset and can be depreciated over a period of years, and any repairs or replacement parts needed to keep it working are also deductible.

Those deductions would be taken off like any charitable contributions.

As a volunteer, you can also take off any out-of-pocket expenses directly related to the work. The IRS allows for gas and oil expenses incurred in operating your car for charity work if you have receipts.

Another good idea, just in case you're audited, is to keep a log book of what you did in your charitable work.

You can keep an account of travel and money spent in the volunteer work. For instance, if you had to go out of town on a charitable trip, the log book would reflect it and you would have the receipts to back it up.

The CB is also going to be a big business deduction with many new CBers, such as truck drivers and traveling salesmen who can prove that it's a legitimate business asset. After all, it saves time and money by providing directions and reliable information on road conditions and fuel availability.

Other business people have added the CB and can justify it. Many commercial fishermen, for instance, now have CBs on their boats instead of (or in addition to) the more expensive marine radiotelephones, and they're using them as a way of getting emergency help and finding out where the schools of fish are running.

You may be in doubt about whether your CB can provide a deduction. The best thing to do is check with the person putting together your tax return — if he or she knows anything about tax laws — or call the IRS. The agency will stand by its answer, but the "official" version of the tax law will give you some idea, maybe, about where you stand.

That CB won't provide you a big tax loophole. It won't be as big a break as an extra kid or a big, uncollectable loan you made to your brother-in-law.

But it'll help. And on April 13, you need all the help you can get.

Peanut Gallery re-opens

The Peanut Gallery, youth wing of Gallery Theater, Ontario, will present scenes from the musical, "Oliver," at the theater, C Street and Lemon Avenue, at 1 p.m. Saturday and Dec. 18.

Peanut Gallery productions feature audience participation, caroling, games, improvisations and prizes. Birthday children are honored.

"Oliver," based on Charles Dickens' "Oliver Twist," opens at the Gallery Theater Dec. 22. Currently playing at the theater at 8 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays is the Rodgers and Hammerstein musical, "Oklahoma!" Reservations can be made at 982-5357.

'Messiah' slated at APC

The Oratorio Chorus and the Oratorio Chamber Orchestra of Azusa Pacific College will present selections from Handel's "Messiah" in the Turner Campus Center at 3 p.m. Sunday. Admission is free.

Under the direction of Earle Anderson, associate professor of music, the performance of this great musical work has become a tradition at Azusa Pacific.

The Oratorio Chorus is made up of all Azusa Pacific students majoring or minoring in music.

Soloists include sopranos Melinda Day, Linda Shackleton and Wanda Wang; mozzo-sopranos Katrinka Guy and Linda Peelgran; tenor, alumnus Dwaine Douglas and baritone Dale Blackwell.

Handel's "Messiah" was first performed in Dublin in 1742. Over the years its popularity has grown, and it is recognized as one of the greatest oratorios ever written.

Directors establish speakers bureau

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Directors Guild of America has gone into the lecture business.

Four hundred members of the guild have signed up for a new speakers service to fulfill the demands for directors to speak to college students, art museums and others interested in the history and art of the motion picture.

The Directors Guild has sent letters to 3,700 campuses advising of the availability of speakers with experience in directing films, television, commercials and radio. Speakers will receive a fee, with part of the money going to the guild's educational and benevolent foundation.

Graduates

High school graduates represented two per cent of the 17-year-old population of 16,000 persons in 1870. The Bureau of the Census reports that in 1970, some 2.9 million or 76 per cent of the teen-aged population graduated.

JOHNNY WONDER

The bobcat is the wildcat of North America. It looks much like an overgrown tabby cat, except the bobcat has longer legs, a short tail and its ears are tipped with pointed tufts of hair.

In fact, the bobcat gets its name from its stumpy (bobbed) tail. Where its tail went — and why — no one knows. Bobcats live in many parts of the United States, in brushlands and wooded areas. They often hide their homes in dens behind rocks and in thickets. Bobcats often live unnoticed near human settlements.

When not raising a family, the bobcat lives alone. It hunts at night and is not afraid to raid the Farmer's chicken house, a habit that has put it on many a farmer's pest list.

But most of the time these cats help farmers by preying on rats, mice, gophers and other rodent pests.

When cornered, the bobcat truly becomes a "wildcat." It screams, hisses, spits and fights with terrifying fury.

GARTH "WOODY" ELLWOOD

My, my. Doesn't time fly when you're having fun! It seems like it was August just last week, and now the season to be jolly is charging upon us like a freight train! Now I don't want you to get the impression that I don't know when the jolly season is, but I get the definite impression from restaurant-nightclub people that it REALLY refers to one special night of the year . . New Year's Eve! And, as usual, they are bubbling with ideas, concocting entertainment potions to help you part with the old year (and your money!) in style.

If you are planning to go out New Year's Eve, it might be a good idea to make reservations at your favorite place. There are quite a few package deals available in a wide range of prices. Some restaurants-nightclubs that I know of planning parties include: Beef 'N' Barrel, Band Box, Elli's Forum, The Castle, Orlando's, Narold's, The Islanders, The Bowlium, Holiday Inn, Griswold's Indian Hill. . . And they'll all be full, I suppose, like last year. So if you're planning to be part of it, get your reservations in soon.

Roger and Joe Gallo are back in Chino to pick up the pieces of a once-thriving business at the corner of Benson and Riverside Drive . . . Peppino's Pizza Parlor.

Actually, they've been there about two months now, reviving a business that kind of went down the tubes in their three years' absence. They started the Pizza place about nine years ago and apparently had built a standing-room-only trade with their special pizza making know-how.

To get back some of the business they've lost, Peppino's is offering $2.00 off any large pizza through next weekend. You'll find the coupon in Peppino's ad on page 28.

NEWS 'N NOTES

. . . The Don Rico Variety Trio is entertaining these days at the Winner's Circle in San Dimas. And the management of the remodeled club is offering daily food specials from 5:00 p.m. to build dinner business. Like, would you believe, 15 cent hot dogs, or 49 cent spaghetti? Try it sometime, and listen to the music of the Don Rico Trio. Winner's Circle is located at 423 E. Foothill, San Dimas.

. . . Lisa Farelli, singer at The Castle on Foothill Blvd., is recuperating well from her last week's operation to remove nodes from her vocal chords. She's sung a heavy schedule since she and husband Jim Francke bought the restaurant last March, and as a result had overworked her voice. Though she's speechless right now (on doctors' orders), Lisa will be back on the bandstand in January. In the meantime, Ralph Adamo is filling in for her at the North Pomona restaurant.

. . . The interludes, a three-piece group playing easy listening favorites, opens tonight for your dancing enjoyment at The Islanders Terrace in Montclair. They will play several weekends during the Holiday season from 8:30 to 1:00 at the 4620 Holt Blvd. restaurant.

. . .Other places saving you money on eating out include Betsy Ross (2 chicken dinners for the price of one, $3.25, on Monday nights) and Di Censo's (75 cents off on any Italian dinner on the menu Friday through Sunday and 35 cents off any lunch weekdays.)

. . .Time slots for the two groups playing downstairs at Dock of the Bay have been switched. New Moon is now playing on weekends, and the hard-driving group, Dance Factory, is playing early weeknites.

About Our Pies . . .
O'Reilly's original pie baker, Ruby Puresian, has been baking pies professionally for 22 years. Ruby started baking pies for restaurants in her home many years ago, and finally set up shop at O'Reilly's soon after it was opened in 1962. Ruby still holds to her home-baking methods and uses only the finest ingredients. She insists on fresh peeled apples, fresh grated coconuts, only the finest imported Dutch chocolate and many other quality oriented techniques to insure a fresh, deliciously home baked pie. Every pie is a new and proud creation for Ruby, and we are very proud to have such a lovely, dedicated person on our staff.

GUESS WHO'S BACK IN CHINO? ROGER & JOE, THE ORIGINAL OWNERS OF PEPPINO'S PIZZA PARLOR, ARE BACK and are inviting all their old friends to stop in to see them.
What does this mean to new Chino residents? It means one of the best homemade pizzas in the world is again available right here in Chino!
However, asking someone who has tried their pizza may not be an easy task; after a three-year absence, Roger and Joe find most of their old "standing room only" business is gone; so they've got to start again from scratch.
"Standing room only?" That's the way it was and here's why . . .
They make each pizza from fresh bread dough, using a semi-thin, semi-thick crust that comes out deliciously golden brown and easy to digest, (not like a loaf of raw bread or a sheet of pressed flat cardboard.) On top of this they put their own pizza sauce, not some canned concoction, then fresh meats. Nothing precooked, and fresh, that's right, fresh vegetables, nothing canned and soggy. It's a very special pizza, and they'd like very much to have you try it because they're sure once you do you'll be back again.
So to encourage you to stop in, they are making the following special offer:
$2.00 OFF ANY LARGE PIZZA
Good until December 18th - One to a customer
Now that's a good deal, so take advantage of it! Also available: Great salads, spaghetti, raviolli, sandwiches, and soon to have Italian dinners.

DUTCH BUFFET

For Christmas

Gardeners enjoy gifts that grow

There's one thing certain about gardeners. They're easy to shop for at Christmas time. Whatever else they might like, you always know they appreciate gifts for the garden.

Gardeners aren't the only ones who appreciate growing gifts, however. Many an apartment dweller maintains potted foliage plants, herb gardens and flowering plants in addition to seedlings and cuttings of a wide variety of plants.

In bloom right now for gift giving are several Azaleas and more than a few Camellias. Also in bloom are Cymbidium Orchids, a more striking or beautiful gift would be impossible to find. For the office party exchange of gifts, how about one of the popular foliage plants such as a dieffenbachia perfecta or a potted Cyclamen or an African Violet that can be enjoyed every day.

For the Rose enthusiast, there are many new Roses. Heading the Rose parade are the new All American Rose Selections for 1977 — First Edition, Double Delight and Prominent. January is a good time to plant bareroot roses so reserve one as a gift for a friend or relative this Christmas.

Garden accessories are always a delight for the home owner. This year, composting equipment or books on the subject will be welcome gifts. Help a fellow gardener learn about the value of turning household wastes into rich compost to develop healthy garden soils for trees, shrubs, annuals, and vegetable gardens.

Another way to enjoy a garden setting is to set up a Redwood hot tub in the yard and relax in the heated water right through all four seasons. Several hot tub firms make a variety of sizes of tubs and some offer swirling and bubbling waters to enhance the effect of the hot water.

Then there are tools. Any gardener will appreciate a spanking new pair of pruning shears this time of year. And, for those of you who think big — how about a new power mower? It may not fit under the tree, but it will certainly fit into any gardener's future plans.

Septic tank

If a septic tank requires cleaning nearly every year, it may be too small, says Ernest Walpole, extension agricultural engineer at the University of Delaware.

Do-it-yourself

Dutch buffet easy on budgets

You can build this handsome buffet on a budget. Upper cabinet (hutch) has special grooved shelves to prevent your treasured china and knicknacks from slipping. The lower cabinet — a hefty 31½" high x 50" wide x 20" deep — provides space to display "treasures" like a chafing dish or wine font. Inside the two roomy cupboards are slide trays that might be used for storing placemats, napkins or silver.

Entire unit is 71" high and the two shelves can be removed so the buffet can be used alone. Constructed of plywood, the dutch buffet requires only basic woodworking tools. The detailed plan includes scale drawings, step-by-step instructions, a cutting guide, and complete materials list.

To obtain No. 583 DUTCH BUFFET, send $2 (includes 1st class postage and handling) by cash, check or money order. To obtain our new book, U-BILD PATTERNS FOR BETTER LIVING, send $1.25. Address all orders to Steve Ellingson, c/o:

HANDY TIP: To repair small abrasions on varnished surfaces, simply brush turpentine around the area. The turpentine liquefies the varnish which flows into the cracks and hardens. (If you have a do-it-yourself question, write to Steve Ellingson at the above address.)

Living Christmas trees 'popular'

The fresh, crisp, fragrant beauty of a living Christmas tree indoors through the holidays is an increasingly popular yuletide tradition, so the American Association of Nurserymen has extended some tips to help keep the tree happy and healthy and growing after the decorations come down.

Whens the holidays are over pick the spot outdoors where you want the tree to live — not too close to the house or other structures or under overhead wires. (Remember, the tree will spread out and grow tall over the years to come.)

Dig a hole about twice the size of the ball at the roots of the tree and slightly deeper. Prepare the soil by mixing in a little organic material such as peat moss or compost if available. Backfill the bottom of the hole so the tree will sit with the ball top slightly exposed. Place the tree with the burlap intact around the ball into the center of the hole. Be sure it is standing straight up. Fill the hole, firmly packing the soil around the ball. Mulch the area to protect the roots from cold and keep moisture in. Fertilizer isn't needed now, but plan to feed it next spring.

Gardeners check list

—If you receive spring-blooming bulbs for Christmas, plant them forthwith. They shouldn't stay out of the ground much longer.

—Crabgrass controls can be applied now to kill seeds that are awaiting spring germination. Ask your nurseryman to recommend a product for the job.

—Early planting of dormant Roses is preferable to late-season planting. The shrubs have more chance to establish themselves before spring growth starts.

—Prune grapes and berries now or next month. When in doubt, ask your nurseryman for pruning advice.

—Fuchsias should not be pruned until later — not before February at least.

—Cabbage, Cauliflower, Brussel Sprouts, Beets, Chard, Onions and Carrots may all be planted now.

—Snails and slugs are active in the rainy season, but their control is easy with bait and pellets. Just toss it generously around the garden.

—Lilies may be planted now. Be sure the drainage is good. They will not do well with too much water.

—Plant perennials now for bloom in spring and summer. Delphinium, Primroses, Coral Bells, Candyfuft, Columbine and Shasta Daisy are but a few of the many available.

—Plant Artichokes, Asparagus and several other vegetables from divisions or from seedling flats this month.

Here's the answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We have a child who is still in the crawling stage. To avoid the possibility that he might push something into the electric outlets on the various baseboards, we bought those little inserts that fit into the outlets and must be removed before electric plugs can be put into the outlets. It helped for a while, but now he has learned how to take them out. Is there some other safety measure we can take?

A. — Buy the special outlets which must be turned by hand before plugs can be inserted into them. Of course, these will have to be installed in place of the old ones. Turning them requires a certain amount of strength which children of that age do not have. Nothing, though, will take the place of training the child to stay away from the outlets.

Q. — Here is a tip you can pass along to your readers. I have one of those spray guns for paint, the small type that is used around the house. I always found it difficult to clean the paint out of the tip until I discovered that it is easy to do if you use a straw from a broom. It works perfectly without any chance of damaging the equipment.

A. — Thanks.

Q. — Can I install mosaic tiles directly on a hardwood floor?

A. — Yes, if the floor is level and smooth.

Q. — In using a file, is the pressure applied on the forward or backward stroke or both?

A. — Always and only on the forward stroke. When you pull the file back towards you, it should not touch the work. There is a special type of filing with a special file which cuts both forward and backward, but this is something you are not likely to be doing for the time being.

Q. — I have had excellent success finishing the top of a coffee table with lacquer, which I put on after taking off all the old finish. I have heard that such finishes can be made more satiny by sanding with a waterproof sandpaper, which I had never heard of but which I now see is sold in our local hardware store. Is there anything I should know about using this sandpaper and will it work on lacquer?

A. — Yes, it can be used on lacquer. It can be used with either water or a light lubricating oil. Wrap the sandpaper around a rubber block, applying a little water or oil to the surface and sanding very lightly. Apply a bit more water or oil each time a different area is being sanded. Be sure you get a very fine grade of paper and — repeat — sand very lightly.

Q. — I tried using lacquer recently and found it somewhat difficult to spread. Is it supposed to be that thick?

A. — Not sure what you mean by "that" thick. In any case, lacquer should be thinned with lacquer thinner for best results. Try a 50-50 mixture until you get the hang of it, then vary the proportions as you wish.

(The techniques of using lacquer, varnish, shellac, stain, bleach, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 30 cents and a long, STAMPED, self-addressing envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions can not be answered individually.)

Q. — I have inherited a coffee table which has a very glossy top. The finish appears to be varnish, but it might be lacquer. I can never tell the difference. Anyway, my wife doesn't like the glossy appearance of the finish and wants me to cut down the shine. Can it be done?

A. — Yes. Use powdered pumice and a little oil. Sprinkle a little of the powder on one section of the table top and pour a bit of oil on the powder. Use a dry, clean, lintless cloth and rub the one area. It not only will cut the gloss, but will make it very smooth to the touch. Repeat the operation on a second and third section. Be sure to wipe off all excess oil and powder.

Special Christmas role

Plants give future enjoyment

Your Christmas season can be warmed with the special touch of joy that green, growing plants bring. Perfect for gifts, for decorating and for year 'round and years-to-come enjoyment, plants are a special part of Christmas.

Decorate around your house inside and out with boughs of holly and pine branches from your own yard. If you don't have holly bushes or trees, or pine trees to prune this year, then it's time to think about putting some in for next year. Christmas time just happens to be the best time of year to prune holly and number of other Christmas plants.

Holly bushes are delightful all seasons. In most areas container grown hollies can be planted any time the ground isn't frozen, according to the growing authorities at the American Association of Nurserymen. Just follow the planting instructions for the particular variety you buy and mulch the area thoroughly to keep cold out and moisture in. Next year and for years to come you will have your own holly to cut and use for holiday decorating.

The perfect Christmas tree is a living tree. When the season is over you get the added joy of being able to plant it afterward both for the enjoyment of its beauty as well as little special reminders of the cheer of the Christmas season. Next year, it will be there to perk up the outside with a string of lights and some outdoor ornaments if you like.

A living tree is also a great way of taking the edge off the after-Christmas blues for children when the tree comes down. There's the special fun they can share planting their tree.

A living Christmas tree, with all of its advantages, requires a little care while you have it in the house. The ball should be placed in a saucer or shallow container, just deep enough so moisture and loose soil or burlap won't get on the floors and rugs. The tree should be placed in a cool part of the room — away from heat outlets or fireplaces. The ball should be kept moist, but not soaked. Good circulation and abundant light will also help keep the tree healthy and happy until planting. Be sure to observe all normal safety precautions with living trees as you would with cut trees. While they are safer and generally cleaner because they don't drop as many needles, it's still smart to be safe.

When the holiday is over, remove tinsel, ornaments and other decorations. Pick the perfect outdoor spot for your tree to grow healthy and strong. Don't plant too close to a house or other structure or under overhead wires because your Christmas tree will spread out and grow tall over the years and wants some elbow room. Dig a hole twice the size of the ball and slightly deeper. The soil can be prepared by mixing in a little organic material such as peat moss or compost if available. Backfill the bottom of the hole so the tree will sit with the ball top slightly exposed. Never plant it deeper than the top of the ball. Place the tree with the burlap intact around the ball into the center of the hole. Be sure it is standing straight up. Backfill the hole firmly packing soil around the ball. Mulch the area to protect the roots from cold and deep moisture in.

Giving plants is about the best way to say "Merry Christmas," because there is a perfect plant for every person on your gift list. From fun little plants for children that help them learn to care for and grow plants, to exotic plants like Christmas roses which love cold weather and bloom at the holiday time A traditional poinsettia is always a treat. Trees and shrubs make a super gift for a terrific neighbor or new homeowner. A big broadleaf plant is perfect for the person who needs something to pick up a dull office. No matter who the gift is for, there's a living plant that will cheer both the giver and the receiver. And they go on giving after Christmas as a reminder of your thoughtfulness. There's also a whole assortment of pots and decorative fixtures to fit any need and any pocketbook.

The best part is you never have to worry about sizes, or color; plants always fit and they never get tucked away in drawers.

If you choose a living tree or plant for your use or for a gift, be sure to take measures to protect it before planting or giving. Most houseplants need plenty of light, air, warmth. Watering requirements vary, but generally plants should be watered when the surface soil appears to be dry to the touch.

If you buy plants for outside use, be sure they are balled or containerized. Protect them from cold before planting by covering the ball or container with pine branches, burlap or other material. Keep then away from cold winds. The soil should have some moisture, but never wet to the point that it could freeze and cause root damage. Most plants need some sunlight during the day. Also, if you are giving a tree or shrub or other plant as a gift, be sure to pass along any planting or care instructions from your garden center or nurseryman.

Christmas calls for plants. Green, growing reminders of good cheer all year.

Planting bulbs

When planting spring-blooming bulbs in pots or other containers, take a tip from the California Association of Nurserymen and plant the largest bulbs you can find. This insures that you get the maximum number of blooms in the minimum space afforded them by pot culture.

PUBLIC NOTICE

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON A PROPOSED REDEVELOPMENT PLAN AND OF THE ADOPTION AND AVAILABILITY FOR PUBLIC INSPECTION OF RULES IMPLEMENTING OWNER PARTICIPATION IN CONNECTION WITH SAID PROPOSED PLAN AND EXTENDING REASONABLE PREFERENCE TO PERSONS IN BUSINESS IN THE PROPOSED REDEVELOPMENT PROJECT ARE TO RE-ENTER IN BUSINESS WITHIN THE REDEVELOPED AREA IN THE CITY OF POMONA

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at 8:00 p.m. on December 13, 1976, at the Council Chambers, Pomona City Hall, Pomona, California, a public hearing of the Council of the City of Pomona will be held to consider a proposed redevelopment plan for the proposed project area within the City of Pomona, the specific boundaries of which are:

That certain parcel of land, in the City of Pomona, County of Los Angeles, State of California, being a portion of the Rancho San Jose as per map recorded in Book 2, pages 292 and 293 of Patents in the office of the County Recorder of said County, described as follows:

Beginning at the most northerly corner of Lot 4 of the Naranja Val Vista Tract as per map recorded in Book 36, pages 18 and 19 of Maps, in the said County Recorder's office; thence southwesterly along the westerly line of said lot and its southwesterly prolongation to the intersection with the center line of Val Vista Street (50 feet wide) as said street is shown on said Tract map; then northwesterly along said centerline to the intersection with the centerline of Dudley Street (shown as an unnamed roadway lying westerly of and immediately adjacent to the westerly line of lots 7 and 12 of said Tract); thence southerly along said centerline of Dudley Street and its southerly prolongation to the intersection with the centerline of the San Bernardino Freeway (Interstate Route 10) as said intersection is shown on the California State Department of Transportation Right-of-Way Map Number F1868 from San Dimas Avenue (Post Mile 42.4) to Dudley Street (Post Mile 44.2); thence westerly along said Freeway centerline to the intersection with the centerline of Ganesha Boulevard as said Boulevard existed on January 1, 1976; thence northeasterly along said last mentioned centerline to the intersection with the centerline of McKinley Avenue (formerly Walnut Avenue) as said Avenue and point of intersection shown on Los Angeles County Surveyor's Map Number B-1391 (Ganesha Boulevard from Arroyo Avenue to Walnut Avenue) on file in the office of the County Engineer of said County; thence southeasterly along said centerline of McKinley Avenue to the intersection with the northeasterly prolongation of the easterly line of that certain parcel of land described in the deed to Ora and Clair Enquist and recorded on October 5, 1955 as document number 842 of Official Records in said County Recorder's Office; thence south 22 degrees 15' 40" West 214.09 feet more or less along said prolongation and said easterly line to the most southerly corner of said last mentioned parcel of land; thence south 59 degrees 37' 50" East 316.73 feet to the intersection with the westerly line of Lot 18 of the El Parlso Tract as per map recorded in Book 28, Page 60 of Maps in said County Recorder's Office, said last mentioned intersection being monumented with a 2" pipe as shown on the map for Tract Number 8147 recorded in Book 121, Pages 76 and 77 of Maps in said Recorder's Office; thence southwesterly along said westerly line of Lot 18 to the northwest corner of Lot 60 in Tract Number 9687 as per map recorded in Book 136, Pages 67 to 70 inclusive; thence continuing southwesterly along the west line of said Lot 60 to the southwest corner of said Lot 60, said southwest corner also being the most northerly corner of said Lot 4 of the Naranja Val Vista Tract and the point of beginning.

A general statement of the scope and objectives of the proposed Redevelopment Plan for the Mountain Meadows Project Area is as follows: The general objective of the Mountain Meadows Redevelopment Plan is to eliminate blight within the Project Area. Specific objectives to be accomplished by this plan are:

1. The elimination of those conditions which are causing economic disuse and dislocation in Project area.

2. The assemblage and provision of land which is suitable for use of new residential developments which will improve economic conditions in the Project area.

3. The enhancement of the visual image of a major area of the City of which the community can be proud.

4. To establish landscaping and structural conditions on the reuses in accordance with modern and competitive development practices.

5. Providing for the assembly of parcels which are adequate in size, configuration and contain reasonable access to streets and utilities, so as to encourage new construction through private investment, thereby enhancing opportunities for the development of the Project area into a viable, master planned residential entity.

On the day and at the hour and place above specified, all persons having any objections to the proposed Redevelopment Plan or who deny the existence of blight in the proposed Redevelopment Project Area or the regularity of any of the prior proceedings may appear and show cause why the Redevelopment Plan should not be adopted. Those persons who wish to express support for the Plan may also appear and be heard at that time.

Notice is also given that the Redevelopment Agency of the City of Pomona, has adopted rules to implement the operation of owner participation in connection with said proposed redevelopment plan, and extending reasonable preference to persons in the proposed project area. Said rules are available for the public inspection at the Planning Department, Pomona City Hall, 505 S. Garey Avenue, Pomona, California.
